CHATS WITH YOUNG MEN

1905.

submitted

ENE ENGINES. DERS, ETC. EY & MUIR CO.

, Canada

held by the Royal or power, and in that case we are in no sense responsible for it. The not accomplishing it should not for a mo ment be regarded as failure. The high aim is the only essential thing. He who is true to the best he knows and who is true to the best he knows and carries out daily the orders of God, do ing what God purposes to do through him, does really all that he plans or wishes; hence truly succeeds, however ust creep together. of gas, wishes; hence they stated they often arises from a conscience too sensitive, a taste too fastidious, a self-forgetfulness too romantic, a modesty too retiring. Many men have been thrust into the background because they were not brazen-faced enough to push themselves forward.

Many have remained at the bottom of the ladder because they would not stoop to the tricks and arts by which others rose. They were too refined, too particular, too careful about soil-ing and staining their souls, so they remained contentedly in the rear and oot pushed to the front.

True happiness here and a high place in beaven hereafter is for those place in beaven hereatter is for those who fail in this way. Of course, where it is sheer laziness or a lack of pru-dence, patience, and perseverance, which is at the root of the ill success, quite a different line of remark is in place. But they whose character is a nuccess need have no envy for those who have merely achieved the lesser goods of wealth and fame. They will receive all respect from the discriminating of earth and lasting praise from the God of glory. Some Helpful Thoughts.

Even the longest life is so short that while the day lasts we should all strive strenuously to do something worthy of men and Christians—something to of men and Christians—something to aid in making the world around us sweeter, brighter and better. We are living in a time when ordinary virtue will not suffice for those who wish to fulfil their whole duty. who wish to fulfil their whole aftry.

There is a demand for heroism. The time has come when true Catholics, whether they be rich or poor, whether they be employers or employees, will know how to be heroes, as their ancestors were in other critical periods to bittyre. Lean Daniel, correspondin history.—Jean Daniel, correspondent L'Universe.

A Christian will find it cheaper to pardon than to resent. Forgiveness saves the expense of anger, the cost of batred, the waste of spirits. It also puts the soul into a frame which makes e practice of other virtues easy."-Hanna More.

One of the secrets of successful ac bievement lies in giving one's whole mind to the details as they present themselves, never slighting one of them, even the smallest.—Angela Morture

The true gentleman is he whose the true gentiems is he whose character is upright, whose thoughts are not entirely earthly, and who loves not self, while ignoring the feelings of The perfect gentleman is one Thoughts must be guarded. They affect a man's character. As he thinks in the secret of his mind, so is he. President Garfield once said: " Pov erty is uncomfortable as I can testify; but nine times out of ten the best thing rankle in your memory, not only will dissipate your mental energy but it will react upon the body. Forgetting is a splendid mental calisthenic, and a good medicine for the body.

Incapacitating Oneself For Success. Before two prize-fighters face each other in the ring, they spend months in training for the purpose of storing up the greatest possible amount of physical reserve. Their trainers will not allow them to under exercise or will not allow them to under exercise or to overexercise. They must eat just the kind of food that will build up muscular tissue without increasing their weight. They are not allowed to take stimu-lants, and must rest a great deal, re tire early, and sleep much. In other words, the objects of their whole training is to store up the largest possible amount of force for the great struggle.

They would not think of entering the ring for the fray in an exhausted con dition, when they had been without food or sleep for a long time, or when they had been over feeding.

But a success-candidate seems to think that, somehow, he will get to the success goal, no matter what his physical, mental, or moral conditions may He starts off in the morning, worr and haggard, perhaps after a night's debauch or the loss of sleep; he enters the arena with jaded energies and flabby, exhausted musiles, and then wonders that he is knocked out of the Half the secret of a successful career is in keeping oneself in constant trim by systematic and careful training.

We know some business men who are not naturally very strong or able, and yet, by systematic self-training, regular diet, and plenty of sleep, they man struck ten, he arose from the table. bade his friends good night, and, ac-cording to his custom, went to his room, and slept until six the next Success in Failure.

"I never fail," says a well known writer, "for my orders are not to conquer, but only to fight, and whenever I do conquer also, that is so much over and above." This is in line with the motto: "Duties are ours; events are God's." To accomplish this, that or the other is often wholly beyond our nower, and in that case we are in morning. Nothing could induce him to interfere with his programme or schedule. His life-engine must run on schedule time in order to avoid collis-ion with nature's locomotive: He must not overfeed his engine, he must late it and keep its horse power down to an average speed all along his journey.

Regularity in living accounts for one's power of achievement. You must try to come to each day's work as the prize-fighter enters the ring, in superb ondition.

Nature makes no exceptions in your case. She does not take into consider-ation your loss of sleep, lack of exer-cise, or wretched diet; she demands that you shall ever be at the top of your condition. No excuses or apologies will go with her. If you have violated her law, you must pay the penalty. Many a man would not think of

Many a man would not think of starting out on a day's journey unless his carriage wheels were well oiled; he would not think of starting his com-plicated machinery in the factory, in the morning, until the bearings were in good condition, and all possible friction guarded against: but he thinks nothing of starting up the greatest piece of machinery the Creator has made, with ten thousand complications and conditen thousand complications and condi-tions, without proper lubrication, with-out a sufficient supply of fuel, of rest, or of motive power. In the first place, delicate machinery, when improperly lubricated will soon wear out. The man knows that his intricate mechanism will not only do poor work when out of order, but that it will also soon be completely ruined beyond repair. But still he thinks he can start the cells of his brain into action without proper re-cuperation by sleep, recreation, or rest, and crowds through the day with heated bearings, with friction in the journals, and still hopes to do perfect work.

He expects to start his complicated, delicate digestive apparatus in the morning in perfect condition, when it was insulted, the night before, by a conglomerate banquet composed of all sorts of indigestible, incompatible dishes; and if it fails to take care of this hideous mass without a groan or a quibble, he resorts to his physician and expects that without removing the cause, a drug will set him right. He might as well administer castor oil to a thief, expecting it to cure him of dis-honesty.—Success.

The Ideal of True Manhood.

All of us have had, some time or other in our lives, an idea of what true manhood means; and we have had moreover, a strong desire to attain it. There is born in us that feeling which prompts us to do what is great and good and noble. To rise above the common level, to excel our fellows, to secure, at least the approval of our own self, if not to win the applause of others -this is a natural instinct.

Have we stifled that instinct? No. It is still within us. All that is needed is to arouse it. The age of chivalry is not gone. Whilst we cannot help admiring virtue and noble deeds in any man, in the Christain man and in him alone, virtue reaches, its highest event. alone, virtue reaches its highest excellence. Hence we look for the best type, the true man among the sincere believers in Christ—the perfect, the Divine man; among His earnest and devoted followers we will find the true ideal of manhood. Why? Because the true manhood. Why? Because the true Christian man practices virtue not merely for the love of virtue itself, nor to win the applause of men, but to please the Author of his being — God Hirself, who implanted the idea of Himself —who implanted the idea of virtue in his soul.

that can happen to a young man is to be tossed overboard and compelled to sink or swim."

The health of the body as well as of the mind depends upon forgetting. To let the memory of wrong, of angry words, of petty meanness, linger and rankle in your memory, not only will as religion in the saving of the as well as religion in the saying of the poet:

This above all,—To thine own self be true; And it must follow as the night the day, Thou caust not then be false to any man."

We are true to ourselves when we set before us that standard of duty which God Himself has framed, and rigidly conform to it under all circumstances. Each of us, then, should propose and set himself manfully to be,

"An active doer, noble liver. Strong to labor, sure to conquer."

Thus we shall not only fill well our place in Church and State, but help to increase the sum of human happiness.

Two things are required as essential to make up the true man. These are character and conduct. Without them there can be no excellence. Any man there can be no excellence. Any man may possess them. The peasant as well as the prince; the young as well as the old; the unlettered man as well as the most eminent in science; the day laborer and tradesman as well as the laborer and tradesman as well as the man of leisure and the gentlemen was fill the various professions—all true men need these two qualities, and they are within the reach of all, the humblest as well as the most exalted.

What is character? It is the firm habitual disposition to truthfulness, honor, intentity generative, and resolute.

integrity, generosity, and resolute energy of purpose, without which no energy of purpose, without which no man ever was or ever can be a true man. These qualities are formed in the child by the teaching, and still more, by the example of his parents. They are the hone virtues, and should be diligently cultivated by every parent.

A few examples. Of a prominent man lar diet, and plent; of sleep, they man age to accomplish infinitely more than many men who are much more brainy and much stronger.

They always manage to come to their business fresh, vigorous, and strong for business fresh, vigorous, and strong for sheep or interfere with the regularity of their meals or daily exercise. I show of a wealthy man who had a dinner party in his mansior which was attended by millionaires and "swell every walk of life who by cultivating attended by millionaires and "swell every walk of life who by cultivating attended by millionaires and "swell every walk of life who by cultivating attended by millionaires and "swell every walk of life who by cultivating attended by millionaires and "swell every walk of life who by cultivating attended by millionaires and "swell every walk of life who by cultivating attended by millionaires, integrity, and goodness—qualities that hang in no man's breath —build up the strongest character?

The word of these men is their bond; they would rather be right than be raised to the highest honors; they would prefer death to dishonor. They would prefer death to dishonor. They are what people call Nature's noble men. Christians call them saints.

OUR BOYS AND GIRLS.

STORIES ON THE ROSARY BY LOUISA EMILY DOBREE The Nativity of our Lord.

NO ROOM. Betty was busy planning out the new work she had named to her sisters. It was a club for the sale of cheap cloth ing among the poor, and when Betty had made out some accounts of prob able expenditure and receipts she felt more and more certain that the plan was workable, and she was soon so engrossed in figures and calculations that she was quite oblivious to the remarks of her sisters, which were spasmodic, as the conversation in a family is apt

Agnes who was much depressed about Agres who was much depressed about the fact of her wood carving not having gained the prize, was making rough sketches of a frame which she felt she would like to carve. She saw it all before her mind just as it ought to look when carved, and she determined to do it soon and show the school that if she had not won a prize she could do good work. Susie was busy correcting proofs and when she had finished she packed them up, and went off to post them. She was out longer than she intended as she met a friend also engaged in journalistic work who wanted to talk over soveral matters with her. So Susie returned to Nellie Burton's home and the girls sat talking until the clock struck half-past six. "How late it is! I had no idea of Must you go? Can't you stay and dine with me? I am sure there is enough for us all," said Nellie, who lived in lodgings with an elder sister.

Susie shook her head.
"To much to do to begin with Nellie, and then Pater's coming home to night, and I can't be out, as he has been away some weeks."

"Then I won't press you."
"Good bye," said Susie, and she was As she opened the hall door with her latch-key she almost ran upon Betty, whose face she could see was very white. "Oh, Susie, Pater has come back so ill! He was seized with some sort of an attack in the train, giddiness, and I don't quite understand all about it, and he came back with Dr. Preston, who happened to be in the same carriage with him. He thinks it is in fluenza, and he made him go to bed at "But he is not really very ill?"

Betty nodded.
"Dr. Preston said he must be taken the greatest care of.'

the greatest care of."

Let me go up to him," exclaime 1 Susie, "don't hinder me—what do you mean, Betty?" for Betty stood before the foot of the staircase to prevent her sister going up.
"You must not go. Dr. Preston said only Aunt Angela was to go to him."

"Rubbish!"
"Well, if you go, Aunt Angela won't let you in, he must be kept so quiet. It seems he caught a severe chill crossing from Dublin, as he got very wet and sat in his wet clothes."
"Let me pass then—I won't go to his room," said Sasie, and she went up to he own and shut herself in then to her own and shut herself in, then she remembered it was time for dinner and she went down, and the sisters had their dreary meal in almost complete

The days that followed were very anxious ones, for Mr. Vavasour became dangerously ill, and a great shadow hung over the household. Two days before Christmas all hope was nearly given up, and the doctor looked very Daring all these days Su ie had been m re wretched than her sisters, and she alone knew the cause. Again and came before her mind her last talk with er father, his words and tones and h own. The former 30 gentle, wise and fatherly, the latter so imperious and angry and her refusal to return his farewell kiss.

As Susie did her work, which she could not leave off, for they were very busy at the office, between her and the pictures of fashions and the letterpress, which she corrected nechanically, came the remembrance of her father's face, and the thought that she might never b able to ask his forgiveness was so awful that she hardly dared to dwell upon it.

When she got home that afternoon she heard that there was no change.
"I wish we could do something," said Betty, whose eyes were red with

"We can't unfortunately. Oh, it does seem hard," said Ida piteously.
There was an unspoken thought in Agnes' mind, but she had not the courage to put it into words. To her astonishment Susie did so.

"We might say some prayers—eh?" Betty instinctively looked up in stonishment, the other two were

"Of course I know what you all think and it isn't much in my line, but still—let us go to church together—for father.

"Yes do," said Agnes in a low tone Ought we to leave the house?' said Ida, and the others knew what she meant.

preparation for the Feast of Christmas just the Rosary, and little Meditation and Benedictio

They instinctively slipped into seats all away from each other, and in that Holy Presence of God their lips formed the old Rosary words, which of late years had been very seldom upon them. TO BE CONTINUED.

TALKS ON RELIGION.

INDIFFERENTISM - "ONE RELIGION AS GOOD AS ANOTHER."

Catholic Universe. The liberal non-Catholic who is a church member is quite willing and outspoken for the unification of Church membership on the principle of indifferentism. His cry is: "What does it matter about trifles in religion? How can appene he so bigoted. ligion? How can anyone be so bigo as to make a fuss about trivial differ ences? One religion, after all, is pretty much the same as another re-Let us fraternize and ge; together on these principles."

These principles would logically argue that no religion is true. Truth and falsehood cannot be equally good, nor equally acceptable to sincere men.

To speak about "trifling differences of creeds" means that God never made any revelation or that it does not mat-any revelation or that it does not mat-ter to us if He has.

Any false religion is a crime, and hence it must be an insult to God.

Since it is untrue it must be, in itself, an abomination in the sight of God. We may distinguish between such a form of religion and the person practices it. Sincerity and good faith may excuse the individual from crime, but it does not make the bad act good. An innocent person may have had a counterfeit dollar palmed off upon him for a genuine bill and he may pass it on not suspecting that it is bad. But his sincerity never makes that counterteit good or equivalent to the genuine.

Almighty God never demands an impossibility. Some good persons may be so surrounded, and so situated that the surrounded, and so situated that they never had an opportunity to find the true Church and to know it to be the true Chuich. If they have used all reasonable diligence in seek ing it, such people are not responsible for being out of the Church. But it is not sufficient excuse to say: I went on as my parents went on. If that were a proper principle we might all be pagans because our forefathers were. When God establishes a religion and lays down regulations all should practice that religion and observe its rules. St. Paul says: "If any one, even an angel from heaven, preaches another gospel, let him be anathema."

This indicates that it matters what religion we practice. It must be the Possibly King Saul thought that it was only a trivial matter to take the place of Samuel in offering sacrifice when the prophet was late in arriving. For that usurpation of the priestly office Saul was deposed. The Lord said: "Thou hast done foolishly and has not kept the commandments of the Lord Thy God; and if Thou hadst not done this the Lord would now have established Thy kingdom over Israel forever." (I Kings xiii., 13.)

To have the true religion implies that a person has the true faith—a correct knowledge of God in as far as He has been pleased to reveal Him-self to man. St. Paul says that "Faith is the substance of things to be hoped Hence faith must be the foundafor." Hence faith must be the founda-tion of religion. To have a mere agree-ment about the forms of prayers and external observances would be like erecting walls without foundations; it would be a mere pretense of religion, and that religion would be false and a

We must give to God the kind of prayer, of praise and of worship which He demands. If God has established a sacrifice on earth—and He has—every kind of religion which ignores that sacrifice is necessarily false. If God has established a particular organization or authority to carry out and provide for authority to carry out and provide for that sacrifice—and He has—that authority must be recognized.

If you have a thing to do, the way to do it is the right way. If you have a journey to make, the way to make it is by the right road. You would not think of maintaining that any road would do as long as you meant to take the right road.

Why should people seeking heaven be less careful of the way than travelers are to reach their earthly destina-tion? Why should they, seeking the greater end, exercise less common

"The kingdom of heaven is like unto "The kingdom of heaven is like unto a treasure hidden in a field, which a man having found hideth, and for joy therefor goeth and selleth all that he hath and buyeth that field." (St. Matt, xiit., 4t.) The truth of this is often realized by those who find the true faith and become Catholics. A man must sell nearly all he has to get it. He must sometimes separate from his relatives and friends and suffer loss in business and undergo persecution. in business and undergo persecution. But the true faith is "the pearl of great price"—the treasure of unspeak-

In maintaining the unity of faith, some call the Catholic Church "bigot-ed." She is as bigoted as truth some call the Catholic Church "bigoted." She is as bigoted as truth—and truth is always "bigoted" or uncompromising. It cannot possibly be otherwise. We cannot tamper with the faith; therefore we cannot sympathize with systems of religion that are in opposition to the religion which in opposition to the religion which Christ Himself has established. These systems may have something of good in them and in their teachings; so had paganism; but they are essentially in opposition to the true Church, and, as systems, in rebellion against God.

IMITATION OF CHRIST.

OF NOT SEARCHING INTO HIGH MATTERS NOR INTO THE SECRET JUDGMENTS

OF GOD. My judgments are to be feared, not to be searched into; for they are incom prehensible to human understanding. In like manner, do not inquire dispute concerning the merits of the Saints - which of them is more holy than the other, or which greater in the ingdom of heaven.

These things oftentimes breed stifes and unprofitable contentions, and nourish pride and vain glory; whence arise envy and dissensions, whilst this man proudly seeketh to prefer this saint and another man is for preferring an other.

Now to desire to know, and to search into such things as these is of no profit, but rather displeases the Saints; for I am not the God of dissensions, but of peace (1. Cor. xiv. 33), which peace consists more in true humility than in exalting one's self.

Some are carried by zeal of love towards these or those with greater affection, but this affection is rather human than divine.

Judas was Willing.

Strenuous efforts made by William A. Brady, the theatrical manager, to secure the original Oberammergau Passion play for Brighton Beach next season have resulted in failure. Mr. Brady has written his New York agents that, despite the greatest care in approach-ing the religiously inclined peasants and the most tempting bait held up to entice them to make the trip, only one member of the famous organization could be induced to come to America the man who was cast for the part of Judas Iscariot.

IT'S IN THE BLOOD.

DR. WILLIAMS' PINK PILLS DRIVE OUT RHEUMATIC POISON.

Rheumatism is rooted in the blood -any doctor will tell you that. Nothing can cure it that does not reach the blood. It is a foolish waste to time and money to try to cure rheumatism with liniments, poultices or anything else that only goes skin deep. Rubbing lotions into the skin deep. Rabbing lotions into the same only helps the painful poison to circular The one cure, culate more freely. The one cure, and the only cure for rheumatism is to drive the uric acid out of your blood with Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. They actually make new blood, and the new blood and the new blood sweeps out the poisonous acids, loosens the stif-fened, aching joints, cures the racumatism and makes the sufferer feel better in many other ways. Perron, Les Epoulements, Que., says: "I suffered from rheumatism in a chronic form for nearly twenty five years. I spent much money in lini-ments and medicines, but without avail until I began the use of Dr. Williams Pink Pills. Some times I was so stiff I could hardly move. The trouble seemed to be growing worse, and finally seemed to effect my heart, as I used to have pains in the region heart, and some times a smothering sensation. I grew so weak, and suf-fered so much that I began to consider and I learned that they would cure rheumatism. I sent for a supply and in about three weeks found they were helping me. Tae trouble which affected my heart soon disappeared. and gradually the pains left me and I could go about with more freedom than I had done for years. I still take the pills occasionally, as I now know it is wise to keep my blood in good condition."

It is because Dr. Williams' Pink Pills actually make new blood that Pills actually make new blood that they cure such troubles as rheumatism, anaemia, indigestion, kidney troubles, backaches, headaches, and sideaches, neuralgia, erysipelas, and the special ailments that burden the lives of so many women and growing girls. But only the genuine pills can de this and those always have the full do this, and these always have the full name Dr. Williams Pink Pills for Pale People on the wrapper around every box. Sold by all medicine dealers or sent by mail at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50, by writing The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville,

Fancy Mercerised Girdle and our catalog of ladies goods sent free for three 2c stamps - Southcott & Co., Dept.11, London, Ont

One Cold and Another

The season's first cold may be slight-may yield to early treatment, but the next cold will hang on longer; it will be more troublesome, too. Unnecessary to take chances on that second one. Scott's Emulsion is a preventive as well as a cure. Take when colds abound and you'll have no cold. Take it when the cold is contracted and it checks inflammation, heals the membranes of the throat and lungs and drives the cold out.

Send for free sample.

SCOTT & BOWNE, Chemists

Toronte, Ont 80c. and $1.00 - - All druggists there isn't any soap made, as good ... "SURPRISE," which is "A Pure Hard Soap"that washes well and wears well THE ET. GROIX SOAP MFB. CO., St. Stophen. M.A.

We Tell Our Friends

PROFESSIONAL

HELLMUTH & IVEY, IVEY & DROMGOLE Barristers. Over Bank of Commerce.

DR CLAUDE BROWN DENTIST, HONOR Graduate Toronto University, Graduate Philadelphia Dental College. 189 Dundas St. Phone 1881.

DR. STEVENSON, 391 DUNDAS STREET, London. Specialty—Surgery and X, Ray Work. Phone 510.

JOHN FERGUSON & SONS

180 King Street The Leading Undertakers and Embalmers.

Open Night and Day.

Telephone—House, 373; Factory, 548.

W. J. SMITH & SON UNDERTAKERS AND EMBALMERS 113 Dundas Street
OPEN DAY AND NIGHT. PHONE 586

D. A. STEWART Successor to John T. Stephenson Funeral Director and Embalmer Charges moderate. Open day and night. Residence on premises.

104 Dundas St. 'Phone 459 GEO. E. LOGAN, Asst. Manager.

Farm Laborers

Farmers desiring help for the coming season, should apply at once to the Government Free Farm Labor Bureau.

WRITE FOR APPLICATION FORM TO . . . . . .

THOS. SOUTHWORTH, Director of Colonization, TORONTO, Ont

O'KEEFE'S Liquid Extract of Malt

It is prescribed by leading physicians all over Canada for nursing mothers, delicate chil dren. nervous people and convalescents.

Aids digestion, procure

"O'Keefe's." W. LLOYD WOOD, Wholesale Druggies, General Agent, TORONTO,

SELF - PRONOUNCING Webster Dictionary

FOR THE VEST SOC. post POCKET CATHOLIC RECORD OFFICE. 30c. post paid

he London Mutual Fire INSURANCE CO. OF CANADA

LONDON. ONT.

TORONTO, ONTARIO FULL GOVERNMENT DEPOSIT Losses Paid Since Organization. $ 3,250,000 00
Business in Force, 66,000,000 00
Assets, 628,690 16
Hon, John Dryden, President. Vice-President.
H, WADDINGTON, Sec. and Managing Director

THERE IS NOTHING LIKE K.D.C.
OR NERVOUS DYSPEPSIA
HEADACHE DEPRESSION OF SPIRITS, ETG.
THE SAMPLER K.D.C. AND PILLS. Write for them.
DC.CO. LOL, SOSTON, U.S., and New Glasgow, Can.

L. LEITCH. D. WEISMILLER, Supp. JOHN KILLER, . Inspector

AL" won the in England. There erican, British and