Letter from England.

[From our own Correspondent.] ENGLAND, April 23rd, 1858.

The theme of the last few weeks in England has been the trial of Dr. Bernard for alleged complicity in the attempted assassination of the Emperor of the French. The indictment charged him with being an accessory to the murder of a certain person in Paris-one of the victims of the tragedy in General, and the most absolute and uneprecedented. Their decision was received and with true French volubility and enthusiasm vociferated his admiration of the Engstar and sugar precisionations of the Low Section Segments or Courts similarity the Court of the Section Section 1 and the Section 1 and t
