

From my window recently I saw a young cadet passing along the street dressed in uniform. He belonged to a military school for boys, and already had the step and bearing of a soldier. The world needs good soldiers of Jesus Christ, and the best time to begin training them for the ranks are when they are young. To a mother, whose son had been appointed a foreign missionary, a friend said: "I hope you will be able to give him up for his work." "I gave him up in his infancy to God, but never knew until now where the Lord wanted him," the mother replied. Parents who devote their children to such a work will not fail of their reward. A missionary, dying in a heathen land said to the friends who had gathered around him: "Tell my mother I thank God that she led me to Jesus."

Oh that all parents might have the spirit of a good woman of old, who said of the child that had been given to her in answer to her prayer:—"Therefore, I also have granted him to the Lord; as long as he liveth he is granted to the Lord."

Two Faces.

This is one of them. Papa saw it, as he came into the room for his breakfast.

"Why!" he said, "What kind of a girl is this? A cross face, and her curls not brushed, and no bright 'good morning' for her papa! I don't understand." The little girl hung her head, and looked as if she could cry very easily. Mamma had to tell all about it.

"Olive did not obey me, last night, when I told her to learn her lesson before tea. She played with kitty, instead of studying; and so, this morning, she does not know her lesson, and it makes her feel cross. She would not let nurse brush her hair; and she thinks her lesson too hard." Mamma looked very sorry while she told all this. And then papa said—"Come here, my little girl." Olive went. And papa said: "I cannot have such a face near me, this bright morning. Go away, all by yourself, and first ask God to help you be a good, cheerful child; then wash away those dull looks out of your eyes, and let nurse brush your hair. Then sit down, and see if you can't learn that dreadful lesson in a few minutes. I should feel very glad, if I could see your face looking all bright and smiling, before I go. I don't like to carry the picture of such a face as this away in my heart! Now, run off, and see how soon you can bring that other face here!"

Olive went out. Next week, I will show you the face she brought back. —Shepherd's Arms.

FOREWARNED IS FOREARMED.—Many of the worst attacks of cholera morbus, cramps, dysentery, colic, etc., come suddenly in the night, and speedy and prompt means must be used against them. Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry is the remedy. Keep it at hand for emergencies. It never fails to cure or relieve.

PLUCKING VIOLETS.—As "violets plucked will never grow again," so a good name once lost we never can regain. An article which after extended trial won great fame and as time rolls on by good deeds still increases, it is Burdock Blood Bitters the best cure for dyspepsia and all blood diseases.
