DIDN'T POST HER LETTER.
Yesterday a North Chatham young lady was noticed industriously seeking for something she couldn't find around a fire alarm box. Passers-by stopped, noticed the young lady had a letter in her hand and then they wondered. A street urchin who had been an earnest observer of the young lady's actions, anxiously asked the maid if she desired to ring in an alarm and where the fire was. "I want to post this letter and I can't find the slot," answered the young lady, tired after her futile search, and crossed. "Well you can't post it in that fire alarm box. It's not made to receive letters." As the girl turned away with a smile her eyes spoke other things.

FAUST COMING.
Next Monday night at the Grand Opera House Goethe's sublime tragedy "Faust" will be presented with Mr. John Griffith as Mephistopheles. In this character Mr. Griffith shows natural ability, through study and accurate conception of the character. His reading is distinct, clear and forcible, nor does he confine himself to tradition, but is boldly original and fearless in introducing effects of his own. Demonic, mysterious, magnetic, he lets in through his acting a bright vein of comedy which, added to his excellent facial expression, makes his Mephistopheles an admirable interpretation. The scenic portion of the play is enhanced by beautiful and original reproductions of the localities in which the story is located. The great cathedral at Nuremberg, the view of the Brocken, with the storm beating off the clouds, the scene of the electrical duel, the descent into hades and the vision of paradise, all form a most interesting study. Mr. Griffith's tour this season is under the management of Mr. Al. Caldwell who has engaged the very best supporting company possible for this production.
