EXPORTATION OF PULPWOOD.

The Canadian Manufacturers' Association have brought up a very important question in sending a deputation to Ottawa to ask that the exportation of pulpwood be prohibited. The deputation was composed of men representing the pulp and paper section of the Association, and the case which they presented before the Government was a strong one and one deserving of more than the passing amount of attention and consideration.

Canada has large areas of pulpwood, and under present conditions, the people of the United States are the ones who are reaping the greater benefits of this great Canadian asset, while Canada's own commercial and industrial interests suffer. These large pulpwood resources, the value of which is almost incalculable, should be protected and reserved for Canadians. It is the sincere belief among statesmen who have the best interests of this young nation at heart, that if Canada is to attain to her height, her resources must be developed by Canadian labor and Canadian industry. If the proper protection were given to pulpwood, it should be a short time before paper mills would be springing up in different parts of the country, but under present conditions this is almost entirely out of the question. In the meantime Canadian pulpwood areas are being rapidly depleted by American capitalists, and Canada is losing her chance to reap the benefits which it is possible to derive from the splendid natural advantages granted to her.

The views of the delegation from the Canadian Manufacturers, were set forth in a memorial which represented that it had been the policy of the federal government to encourage and promote manufacture "by duties sufficiently high to protect home manufacture, and by bounties to encourage the use of home raw material," and that large amounts had been expended to promote agriculture and encourage immigration. Further, it said, "Canada has spruce pulpwood capable of providing employment for her people and others who may come here. But this pulpwood is being shipped to the United States to keep American mills running, although Canada's natural advantages should make pulp and paper our greatest industry."

After pointing out that the exporters are stripping the lands of wood, while those with permanent interests in the country are striving to conserve the forests, the memorial declared that "the crop of pulpwood is of very slow growth, and the supply is already becoming inaccessible, and the free export of pulpwood to the United States, combined with the tariff against our pulp and paper, favors the development of the paper industry in the United States rather than in Canada." All of which, it was declared, justified the request that the exportation of pulpwood be prohibited by the federal government.

It is hoped that the efforts of the delegation may not be in vain, and that the government will realize the importance of protection in this case at least, as a means of reserving for Canadians that to which they are so strongly entitled.

DO YOUR EARS RING?

When they buzz and signal slightly deaf, beware of catarrh, inflammation. This grows steadily worse, but can be cured by Catarrhose. J. A. Hammill, of Greenpoint, P. E. I., proved the merit of Catarrhose and writes: "No one could have worse Catarrh than I had for years. It caused partial deafness, bad taste, upset my stomach, made me sick all over. Catarrhose cleared my nostrils, stopped the cough and gave me a clear feeling in my breathing organs. I am absolutely cured." Doctors say nothing is better than Catarrhose. Try it and you'll say so, too. Two sizes, 25c. and $1.00, at all dealers.

Most of our misfortunes are more portable than the comment of our friends upon them.

He says he will show whether criticism about his being afraid of Johnson is well founded.

STEAM PUMPS SAVE THE LIGHTING PLANT

Ridgetown, Oct. 11.—The town was threatened with a serious fire last night about 9.30, when flames were discovered in the paint shop of the Ridgetown Carriage Works building, owned by Bikes & Son.

The building, which is a frame one, adjoins the electric light power house, also a frame structure, and the fire burned furiously.

However, the big steam pump at the electric light plant was put into operation and held the flames in check until the fire engine arrived and in half an hour the work of extinguishing the blaze had been accomplished.

Fortunately there was no wind at the time, or the electric light works might have been destroyed as well as the carriage works, and then the town would have been in a dilemma for light, as electricity is its only available supply. The Ridgetown flour mills are also just across the way from the carriage works, and it would have been difficult to save them, as the building is a five-story structure.

It is thought $800 will cover the loss.

MEAT INSPECTION ACT A DETRIMENT TO FARMERS

Dominion Government Measure Will Mean a Great Loss to Hog Raisers—A Few Pointers of Value to The Farmers—The New Terms

A general complaint is being raised in this county in reference to the new meat inspection bill which has been put into force by the Dominion Government. The new regulations which have been introduced are strongly characterized as a game to give the live hog men control of the situation, and the most aggravating part of it is that Hon. Mr. Fisher accedes to it.

The new inspection act, according to those who have made a study of the subject in all of its phases, makes it almost impossible for a farmer to dress his own hogs in the future, thus barring the farmers' wives from putting up their yearly lard, and compelling them to buy packers' lard. What this means to the farmers is quite apparent, and it is no wonder that they are up in arms against a Government which will impose such heavy and unwarranted hardships upon them.

According to the new regulations all of the dressed hogs will have to be inspected by Government inspectors before they can be sold. It is presumed that the inspection will take place at the destination of every shipment, as this is the only way in which a competent inspection would be possible and practicable. As a result a buyer will be afraid to purchase a carload of hogs in the future, for he is at the direct mercy of the inspector, whoever he may be, who will have the power to cut out as many of the hogs as he sees fit. Some of these inspectors will not doubt be efficient, but it is hardly possible in the usual course of events, that every man appointed will be thoroughly efficient to say whether hogs should be admitted or not. In matters of this kind it would be almost impossible to secure men who would give entire satisfaction.

The result will be that in a carload of hogs, probably a dozen, in some cases, will be culled out. In any event, the buyer will have to take this risk, and when he makes a purchase of say a carload of hogs, he will have to protect himself against all possible loss in the matter of inspection, and as a result the farmers will not receive the price for their dressed hogs that they would otherwise receive, and at the same time, their hogs may—and no doubt will—be just as good as they ever were. So that it is easily seen that the loss falls directly upon the farmer, and that the new legislation is entirely detrimental to the farmers, and in the interest of the packers.

Any farmer who has any experience in killing hogs will know full well that there may be small defects in some of the organs of the hogs, caused probably through overfeeding. It is well known that these are no detriment to the meat. It is quite a common thing to find a perfectly healthy hog with some defect, which would probably have come, and passed away again in a day without injuring the value or the health of the hog. All such hogs will be culled out by the inspectors, so that a farmer is taking a great risk even in killing his hogs at any particular time. The result will be that nearly every farmer will come to the same conclusion, that until such unfair legislation is repealed it will be in his interests to sell his hogs on hoof.

The reason given for introducing such legislation was the recent Chicago exposures. The fact was lost sight of that the situation in Canada is entirely different to that in Chicago. The Chicago packing house is the largest distributing centre in the world. In Canada the canneries and packing houses are all individual concerns, and the success of these factories is entirely dependent upon the quality of the goods turned out. There is no monopoly in Canada whereby a packer can force anything upon the public, and every packer realizes this, and as a result they use every discretion to give to the public the very best canned goods in the world, and legislation such as compelling the farmer to sell his hogs on foot, and practically barring them from dressing them, is only another blunder of a Government which is legislating for its friends with no thought for the people by whom they were elected.

If a very cold snap should come at present, there would no doubt be many farmers in this county, who, ignorant of the terms of the recent inspection act, might innocently kill their hogs in the same manner that they have done for years, and bring them to the market expecting to find a sale for them. These would find a great surprise awaiting them, and so it would be well to sound a warning to all farmers with hogs for sale, that the new regulations require more from them than they have been in the habit of doing in the past. According to the new law it is necessary to ship with every hog, its head, liver, heart, lights, and windpipe. These must be left in for the purpose of inspection, and no hog can be shipped unless this regulation is complied with. If any farmer should fail to do this, and bring in hogs the same way as he has been in the habit of doing, he will find that he will have to dispose of them to local butchers.

The new law means that there will have to be about 175 inspectors appointed, which will cost the country probably $250,000 a year in salaries alone. This will all come out of the pockets of the people, besides the times that amount which will be lost as a result of this unfortunate measure.

Mr. H. S. Clements, M. P., who is directly and emphatically opposed to such treatment to the farmers, describes it as a calamity to the hog raising industry of this country, and one which he stoutly opposed. He is now, however, doing his best to avert all unnecessary loss which might come to the farmers through ignorance of the new law, and is making as many farmers as possible acquainted with the terms of the new act so that they will know what to do, when killing hogs. Judging from the expressed sentiments everywhere, however, the farmers are becoming tired of leaving their interests in the hands of a Government who are continually enacting laws to their detriment, and there is no doubt that they will show this warranted dissatisfaction when the next opportunity comes to express their cordialness to the whole in this constituency who has their best interests at heart with the courage to follow up his expressions of opinion, with strong vigorous action.

Trial Catarrh treatments are being mailed out free, on request, by Dr. Shoop, Racine, Wis. These tests are proving to the people—without a penny's cost—the great value of this scientific prescription, known to druggists everywhere as Dr. Shoop's Catarrh Remedy.

PRESENT SYSTEM O. K.

Chief Justice Gives Hint as to Judgment on Betting Case.

Toronto, Oct. 12.—The test case before the Court of Appeals yesterday to decide really whether there will be betting at the Canadian race tracks, was concluded last night. Judgment was reserved.

Patrick J. Moylett and Herbert G. Bailey were each fined $50 by Magistrate Denison in the Police Court for conducting a "place" at the Woodbine.

Col. Denison, in his stated case, remarked that the bookies did business in a radius of five or ten feet. Deputy Attorney-General Cartwright maintained that as they were always to be found within that area during the races, it was occupying a "place," under the meaning of the law.

"You might as well say if you stopped a man on the street and made a bet with him he was occupying a place," remarked Mr. Justice Meredith.

Freight Cars Derailed.

Toronto, Oct. 12.—Two freight cars derailed and two overturned and badly smashed and traffic held up for some hours was the result of a wreck near Port Credit yesterday morning.

A broken axle was the cause. No one was injured, although the whole train narrowly escaped being thrown into the Credit River. Traffic was clear by 11 o'clock.

The Montreal express was delayed about an hour just west of Bay Street by the forward track of the third passenger car jumping the track at a defective switch. The car was moved clear of the track and a new coach put in its place. No one was injured.

BETTER THIS YEAR THAN EVER.

Any person who has read the Family Herald and Weekly Star for a few years back would wonder how it could be improved from year to year. Still every one will admit that during the past twelve months there has been a wonderful improvement and the Family Herald and Weekly Star is to-day bigger value than ever before. Newspaper, Magazine and Agricultural Journal all combined, it is certainly a unique publication. Any person who does not read the Family Herald and Weekly Star should give it a trial for 1908. It is a wonderful dollar's worth.
