Hor the holding of the games for 1383 which was the great event of the day, which was the great event of the day, took place shortly before 6 o'clock p. m. months, by poster and otherwise, Luck-now and its northern games were kept by their old captain, J. C. Currie, while well before the public generally, and the the Huron team were captained by John manner in which a generous response was made frome outside points, showed conthe Bruce men had succeeded in drawing T Valuable Property known as the Shep-pardton Store and Post Office, with quarter of an acre of land, is offered for sale or to rent. Stock in store all new and fresh this year. The publicity to the gathering had been many opinions were risked on the result adopted. The society placed great faith of the "tug" this year. As the men of upon the co-operation of outsiders in both teams stripped for work, it was helping along their games this year, and seen that the Bruce contingent was comit is satisfactory to know that the confi- posed largely of strapping young men of strong bone and evidently good wind; but it was also seen that the Huron representatives, although averaging greater age, were far heavier than their apponents, and the prevailing opinion at once settled down to the fact that the this year was going to be a cor test of weight against wind. If the averse to construe good omens at all Bruce men could succeed in worrying their opponents until the wind of the latter gave out, the pull would, it was believed, result in their favor; if, on the other hand, the heavy men started off with the Bruce men from the word "go," nothing could save the latter from being hauled over the boundary. The spectators were not kept long in susspence. The white knot was placed on the "divide" by John Drumgole, and at the word "go," from J. D. Stewart, the the word "go," from J. D. Stewar, the word "go," from J. D. Stewar, the the bell began. Then it was seen that the weight of Huron would prevail, for their onents were drawn over the score with a rush in something less than 30 seconds. Then the pent up feelings of the crowd found vent in loud cheers, and they who sympathized with the Huron team began to look happy. The posi-tions were then reversed and the second pull was begun, but only to be are petition of the first. In less than a minute the men from Huron had again scored a victory, and the laurel so long held by Mrs. Susan Rowdan, of Brampton, a lady 73 years of age, has made 29 entries in the fancy-work department in the Provincial exhibition, Guelph.
