Four Sovereigns Will Meet. Lendon, June 17 .- While at Copenhagen the Czar expressed his intention to attend the wedding of the Crown Prince of Roupania to Primees Marie of Edinburgh. It is espected that the wedding will occur in England. One result, therefore, will be a meeting of the sovereigns of England, Eustia, Germany and Roumania.

The Bering Sea Business. LONDON, June 17 .- Sir Julian Pauncefote. the British Minister at Washington, ar rived here to-day and at once proceeded to preduce to day and at once proceeded to the Foreign Office. Later he held a confer-ence at the Colonial Office with the Perma-nut Under Secretary, Mr. Meade, and C. H. Tupper, the Canadian agent. The efficials of the Colonial Office predict that the Bering Sea arbitration will be a pro-

The Date of Dissolution LONDON, June 17 .- Another effort to ge the Government to fix the exact date of the dissolution of Parliament was bafiled in the flours of Commons to-night, Mr. Baifour stating that business would not permit of dissolution before June 29 or 30. This statement was somewhat at variance with the statement made last Monday by Mr. Balfour, when he said that Parliament would be dissolved on a data between June

Mr. Gladstone's Position. LONDON, June 17 .- In his interview with the London Trade Council yesterday, Mr Gladstone said he could not promise that Gladstone said he could not promise that a statesman who had reached the age of 85 years could set aside the main work to which he had pledged himself in order to take up a question, the importance of which he fully recognized. He added that if he turned aside from the cause of home rule, he would rightly gain the contempt of all honest mon. [These two sentences were comitted (apparently with design) in the dispatch cabled to Canada yesterday.]

Emin Alive and Kicking.

Emin Alive and Kicking. Berlin, June 17 .- A dispatch received to-day from Zanzibar shows that the rumors that Emin Pasha was dead are un-tract. The dispatch says Emin arrived at Bakoba, at which place his companion, Dr. Stuhiman arrived with the greater part of the expedition some time ago, thus carrying out the plan originally decided upen, when it was found that owing to the want of provisions and the impossibility of obtaining carriers the expedition could not proceed further into the interior. Beresford to Re-Enter Political Life. Lord Charles Beresford, commodore of the British cruiser Undaunted, of the editerranean squadron, intends to again fer political life upon the expiration of s detail to the Undaunted. He has submitted to the leading admirals and generals a mitted to the leading admirals and generals a comprehensive plan for the national defense, in which the army and navy are treated as one body. The scheme, it is said, amply meets the report of the Hartington Commission that no combined effectual plan for the defense of the empire in a certain contigency had ever been formulated. Lord Charles Beresford's scheme has met with general approval, and his friends say it will prove a gigantic success. will prove a gigantic success.

A Most Happy Idea. LONDON, June 18 .- The proposal that Mr. Biake should accept a seat in the British House of Commons meets with warm approval in Liberal circles here, where Mr. Blake's character and ability are highly esteemed. The Pall Mall Gazette says it is a most happy idea and Mr. Blake will prove a most valuable member.

London, June 17 .- The Hon. E. Blake's JONION, June 17.—The Hon. E. Blake's acceptance of a seat for an Irish constituency in the British House of Commons is causing considerable discussion in political circles. All agree he has undeabted qualifications, and should he be elected his aid would be invaluable in the went of home rule being carried. When Mr. Blake was on a visit to Limerick remainly he expressed the fullest sympathy with the home rule movement. It is the intention of the Irish leaders to provide a percently safe seat, for which Mr. Blake heed not fight personally, even should the heed not fight personally, even should the Pericetly safe seat, for which Mr. Biake need not fight presonally, even should the Parnellites or Unionists contest it. The Pail Mall Gazette, in the course of a long article on the subject, suggests that other leading colonists be invited to stand for seats in the Imperial Parliament.

Marie's Marriage. London, June 17 .- The marriage rincess Marie of Edinburgh to Prince Ferdinand, heir apparent to the throne of Coumania, is fixed to take place at Co-pargh in October next. Religious obstacles revent the solemnization of marriage at Vindsor Castle.

Ferdinand has been the object of Prince Ferdinand has been the object of much cariosity on the part of the general public, who persisted for a long time in believing that he was the Prince Ferdinand who is to wed the I rincess Marie Alexandra Victoria of Edinburgh. But Prince Ferdinand of Roumania is certainly handsomer than Prince Ferdinand of Bulgaria, and his uncle's throne, to which he will eventually succeed, is at last firmly planted. The English people are generally very well satisfied with the prospect of the property ally very well satisfied with the prospect of having in an English princess a queen in the prosperous Danubian kingdom. Princess Marie is a high-spirited and well-educated young girl, and has of late years become decidedly prettier than she was when a girl. She is now 17. The Londom society papers begin to speak well of Prince Ferdinand, who is said to have made himself thoroughly acquainted with the history, language, customs and manners of his future Roumanian subjects, Labor Candidate for Midlothian.

Labor Candidate for Midlothian. Lospon, June 18 .-- The London Trades Council has decided to run a labor candilate in the Midiothian district, Mr. Giadstone's present constituency, in the coming general election. The Chronicle, com-menting on this action of the council, atrougly deprecates such a hasty and crude notion.

Russian Bluster. St. Petersburg, June 18 .- The Novoe Vremya thinks that if Gladstone succeeds o power in the coming elections he would permit a Russian fleet to blockade the German and Austrian ports to prevent the arrival of American grain in the event of war and thus cripple the Dreibund. The article also hints that unless Gladatone concedes Russia's desire an attack will be made on India.

To Be Contested. LONDON, June 18.—It is stated in Par-nellite quarters that Gladstone, Morley and Schandhorst have resumed their efforts to prevail upon the opposing factions in the Irish party to avoid contests in the coming general elections in districts where such contests are likely to benefit the Unionist candidate in Ireland and England. Mr. Healy opposes any such attempt, and is determined that the scats shall be con-

The News admits that the Ulster demonstration was more than a successful spectacle and parade, and that the speakers were moderate. "Still," it continues, "it only represents a large and influential minority. The significance of the convention to the bulk of Englishmen will be in the proof afforded of the power of the minority to take care of themselves."

The Standard says: "The Ulster voice will ring through the kingdom and will conspicuously refute the sinter propensity of the adversary."

The Times says: "No political demonstration of our time has afforded any parallel to the Ulster convention. If we mistake not it will reveal, for the first time to many of our countrymen, that there is an Ulster question as well as an Irish question, to ignore which would be an act of criminal folly. The Gerrymander Bill Scored by Mr. Charlton.

erimmage Between Mr. Wallace and Sir Richard—The Matter of In-creased Indemnity Brought Forward.

[Special to the ADVERTISER.]

[Special to the ADVERTISER.]
OTTAWA, June 17.—In the Commons today Mr. Devlin called attention to a dispatch sent by a Tory correspondent to the London Times stating that he (Devlin) had abandoned his home rule resolution, and that those who supported it had made a laughing stock of themselves. The dispatch, he said, was false in every particular, and was insulting to the Minister of In-laughing stock of themselves. The dispatch, he said, was false in every particular, and was insulting to the Minister of Inland Revenue as well as to Liberal members of the House. He intended to push his resolution to a vote unless prevented from doing so by the Ministerial majority. The debate on the Gerrymander Bill was resumed by Mr. Charlton, who said the gerrymander of 1882 would prove more an enduring monument of Sir John Macdonald than any structure of brass or stone that could be built. Tories were copying the worst features of the American political system; while pretending love for British institutions the bill before the House was based upon the lowest form of political villainy.

A lively tilt took place between Sir Richard Cartwright and Mr. Wallace over some statistics submitted by the latter. Sir Richard Cartwright charged Mr. Wallace with willful falsehood and a noisy wrangle followed. Mr. Wallace cailed upon the chairman to make Sir R. Cartwright withdraw his statement, but the chairman ruled, amid laughter, that honors were easy and that the debate should proceed.

After recess Mr. Charlton continued his speech, describing the gerrymander as a species of the grossest political criminality. He quoted the statement of George Johnson, Dominion statistician, showing that at the last general election the Liberals polled a majority of 7,000 votes in Ontario, whereas the Tories elected a majority of members from that Province. Not only should the Distribution Bill of this year be fair, but the wrong perpetrated in 1882 should be undone.

The debate was continued by Messrs. Edgar, Bowman and McMillau, of Huron, Mr. Weldon admitted that the Redistribution Act of 1882 was a scandalous gerrymander, but said that as the Liberals of Ontario had overcome the handicap they were subjected to by that bill, that gerrymander should be made the basis of future redistributions.

Insure of the ex-Fresident to receive the nomination on the enthusiasm of the first ballot means the elimination of the great tariff reformer from the contest. But it by no means follows that the correctness of this cpinion is conceeded by the Cleveland managers, who expect important accessions from the followers of Boics, Hill and Gray after their States have poid the complimentary tribute to their favorite son.

Chicago, June 18.—"Mr. Cleveland will be nominated on the first ballot." So spoke Hon. Wm. C. Whitney, of New York, in a very emphatic manner, as he emerged from a conference of the Cleveland managers which had lasted from 9 o'clock last night until the early hours of this morning in Mr. Whitney's private parlors.
