MARRIED IN JAIL.

A Kansas City Couple Outwit the Prospective Attorney.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Nov. 19.—An unusual and interesting ceremony was that which J. Hubbard Marr and Miss Nellie Baker had and yesterday afternoon.

The prosecuting attorney, however, would not allow the usual ceremony to be performed, and would not permit a minister of the gospel to enter the jail. Marr's attorney then performed a common law marriage, the bride and groom clasping hands through the bars of the prison's cell and several other prisoners acting as witnesses. Later a marriage by proxy was performed before a justice of the peace, one of Marr's friends acting as the groom. It is claimed that the marriage is perfectly legal and that Mrs. Marr cannot be made to testify against her husband in the case against Marr for betrayal.

LONDON, Nov. 19.—The Times, in its financial article this morning, referring to the speech of Secretary Foster at the Chamber of Commerce banquet in New York Tuesday night, says: "Secretary Foster's speech is a confession of the opinion that America has gone too far to draw back. The United States treasury is in the same position as the Bank of France—it is to face the probability of being saddled with an immense stock of useless silver, while taking measures to hold so large reserves of gold that it might just as well keep silver at all. The Americans seem to be so occupied with crops and trade prospects that they neglect currency, and that their progress is not violently interrupted."

A Gigantic Skeleton of a Prehistoric Man Discovered in Ohio.

CHILLICOTHE, O., Nov. 19.—Vernon K. Morehead and Dr. Cresson, who have been prosecuting excavations here for the last three months in the interests of the World's Fair, have just made one of the most important finds of the century in the way of prehistoric remains. These gentlemen have confined their excavations to the Hopewell farm, seven miles from here, upon which are located some twenty old Indian mounds. On Saturday they were at work on a mound 500 feet long, 200 feet wide and 28 feet high. At the depth of fourteen feet, near the center of the mound, they exhumed the massive skeleton of a man incased in copper armor. The head was covered by an oval-shaped copper cap, the jaws had copper teeth, the arms were dressed in copper, while the torso was covered in chest and stomach, and on each side of the head, on protruding sticks, were wooden anklets ornamented with copper. The skeleton was also a female skeleton, the bones were of a man and wife. It is estimated that the bodies were buried fully 600 years ago. Messrs. Morehead and Cresson believe they have at last found the king of the mound-builders.

THE BOODLERS.

The Charges Against Arnoldi, Late Chief Engineer of the Public Works Department.

OTTAWA, Nov. 19.—John E. Arnoldi, late chief mechanical engineer of the Public Works Department, was arrested yesterday afternoon at the Russell House. There are three distinct charges against Arnoldi. The first charges him with unlawfully conspiring while in the employ of her Majesty with Jas. R. Wilson, of Montreal, to obtain for his personal gain the sum of $2,500. The second accuses him of conspiring with F. Merritt, of Ottawa, to acquire for himself $120. The third charge covers 40 pages of foolscap and relates entirely to the alleged fraudulent and false pretenses resorted to in obtaining various sums of money aggregating close to $3,500 for the services of the steamer Joe, which was used in connection with the dredging done in harbors and rivers. The information states that he directed the duties of his office while mechanical engineer to make an undue and unlawful profit and advantage for himself. Then the conspiracy cases were resumed. Mr. Oler announced that he did not intend to proceed further against defendant Larkin on the present information. He would, however, lay two new and separate informations against him. The new information reads precisely as the original one. Mr. Oler says one person can be tried for conspiracy as well as half a dozen. If he failed in Larkin's case, as he seems to fear, it would cause the breakdown of the cases against his fellow-defendants. For this reason he has separated Mr. Larkin from the others. It is likely that Mr. Oler will withdraw the informations altogether and lay new informations against each defendant separately as in Larkin's case. This will give four State trials at Ottawa instead of one.
