Then, however, French action will be irrevocably fixed.

Paris, July 22.—The Temps' special correspondent in Saigon says: The Siamese chief Priapitacha, commanding at Khong, sent a flag of truce on Tuesday to the French captain begging him to cease firing, as, according to Priapitcha's advices from Bangkok, a French admiral had arrived there to treat for peace. The captain replied that he was without instructions, but would cease as soon as the Siamese forts should be abandoned. The result is unknown in Saigon.

Paris, June 23, 1 a.m.—Siam's reply to France's ultimatum has been handed to M. Pavic, French Minister, resident in Bangkok, and has been telegraphed to the Siamese legation here. Its terms have rendered necessary another exchange of telegrams between the legation and Bangkok. Therefore the reply will not be given out for several hours.

Almost a Catastrophe.

Toronto, July 23.—The Chippewa, the third steamer of the Niagara Navigating Company, came into Toronto port Saturday afternoon, and signalized her arrival by cutting several feet into Geddes' wharf. She had not slowed up soon enough, and if the crowd of spectators on the wharf to welcome the new steamer, had not foreseen what would happen and rushed back out of harm's way there would have been a serious calamity. As it was, nothing suffered except the wharf, into which the steamer cut as if it had been a piece of cheese, though the timbors of the wharf are twelve inches square. inches square.

The financial stringency is restricting the days at Fort McKi. Camden, July 23.—When Walt Whitman died he had $5,000 to his credit in the National State Bank at Camden, derived from the sale of his books and from the remembrance fund, chiefly contributed by his English friends. To Mrs. M. O. Davis, his housekeeper, he left $1,000. She had taken care of him and furnished his table at 328 Mickle street, Camden, for seven years before his death, with the assistance of a trained nurse provided by Thomas Harned, who is one of the Whitman literary executors. Whitman himself had expended $3,000 on a marble mausoleum in Harleigh cemetery where he had made provision for his own burial and for that of his two sons. Mrs. Davis was not satisfied with the sum left her by the will, but as she was allowed by the will to remain at the Whitman coltage for one year after his death without payment of reut, no open rupture occurred between her and the poot's literary executor, and George Whitman, a brother, who is autrorized to settle the estate. Recently she brought suit of ejectment against Mrs. Davis to get possession of the cottage. Considerable sums of money have already been collected by Harned & Troubel, the poet's literary executors, to purchase the Whitman cottage and keep it as a memorial.

The Mergenthaier Wins. NEW YORK, July 23.—In the United tates Circuit Court Judge Coxe has New York, July 23.—In the United States Circuit Court Judge Coxe has handed down a decision in the case of the Mergenthaler Linotype Company vs. the Press Publishing Company and others. The suit was brought for an infringement of a patent granted to Otto Mergenthaler for improvements in machines for producing printing bars. The defendants claimed that the machine in use was the Rogers, not the Mergenthaler, but an improvement on the latter. Judge Coxe holds that it is operated on the same principle. Mergenthaler, he says, has made an invention of unusual merit and is entitled to reap the rewards. An injunction with an accounting is granted.

silver and tariff Reform! Baking Powder. Policy of the Cleveland Ad-

In Regard to the Coming Special Session of Congress.

New York, July 23.—The World to-day says: The World is enabled to-day to announce authoritatively the immediate policy of President Cleveland and his Administration in regard to the approaching special session of Congress. Briefly, it will be as follows:

2. Silver reform by the absolute and unqualified repeal of the Sherman law.

2. Tariff reform to be prosecuted in accordance with the pledges of the party as soon as, but not before, the finances of the country are again upon a staple basis.

Mr. Cleveland is annoyed and exasperated at the unexpected interference with his tariff reform plans, but he is not discouraged. He proposes to meet the silver question in the same open, straightforward manuer that has characterized the handling of the tariff matters. President Cleveland's advice to the coming session of Congress will be for the repeal of the Sherman silver law. He believes that any complication of this issue with amendments, substitutes or similar propositions will be detrimental to the purpose of the repealing act, which are not so much for the object of working any instant change in the financial system of the country as for the restoration of business confidence thoughout the land.

From the information at his command out the land.

From the information at his command From the information at his command Mr. Cleveland has no doubt that his policy will be adopted by the House of Representatives after a reasonable discussion. It is in the Senate that trouble will come. What will follow repeal is a matter that will not be injected into this fight if the Administration has its wey.

That further financial legislation will be needed the President considers probable but what its nature shall be is a matter for future determination. The first thing to be done is to clear the ground. When that is done the question re construction can be considered upon an intelligent basis.
