could not produce the original contract, because he learned on inquiry today that the documents were in the custody of a committee of the House, where they had been at the disposal of the Opposition for some weeks past. Mr. Fielding had some recollection of a suggestion having been made last session, when the Government objected to give the names, that the contract might be brought down without the names. He had, however, shown a copy of the contract to Mr. Borden, leader of the Opposition, and some other members of the Opposition. Mr. Foster said he would not dispute Mr. Fielding's impression of the suggestion of last year, but his recollecthe matter further.

Well, Here Goes For Another Big Day Tomorrow

We are demonstrating to more men every day in this city that our "ads" are not simply "talk," but that we mean exactly what we say. In writing our advertisements from day to day we try to get at the Truth About Clothing by the shortest road. We try to tell you their merits as they are. Never too much, if anything a little shy of what they really are. Under these representations it's easy for us to produce the goods and surprise you some by delivering them really better than they are said to be. When we make the statement that Sovereign Brand Retains Its Shape, we stand prepared to prove it by showing coats that have been worn constantly for a year, with the collars, lapels and fronts still retaining the shape as when new. We claim there is no ready-to-wear clothing in the market today to equal Sovereign Brand. Ask Men Who Know and they will indorse our claim.
