Ho, for Merry England ! Last evening two members of the Argo. were Oliver Morphy and A. W. G. Thom son, the two waistmen in the boat. They left thus early to see that the craft they are taking along is properly packed on shipboard. On Thursday the stroke, J. W. Hogg, and the bow, R. McKay, starthence and will join the pioneers at Quebec, where all will embark on board the good ship Circassian, bound for the port of Liverpool. That good luck will go with them will be the prayer of every Canadian.

Both the Argonaut crew and club have an enviable record and no fear need be entertained that a single action abroad will do anything to tarnish its lustre. On the

A particularly pleasing feature of th trip is the fact that, unlike the majority of United States' crews that have crossed the Atlantic, the strictest interpretation of the stringent Henley definition cannot fin a flaw in their standing as amateurs. Not only are they bona fide amateurs, but they are gentlemen in every way worthy of the name, and who would reflect credit on any city or country in the world. May the prow of their boat ever cross the winning line first!

Lover of Lacrosse Replies. Editor World: Seeing Mr. Rose's straight denial in this morning's World I must ask him to withdraw his statement that I knew that the explanation I asked for was false. I may say that I did not expect to receive his denial, as I received the statement from good authority. If those who have received or are expecting to receive this money would not talk so loud in future it might be better. I myself am not a member of any lacrosse club, but do like to see fair LOVER OF LACROSSE.

The Rooms of the Board of Trade. The Toronto board of trade keeps pace with the steady commercial growth of the city. Every month witnesses a healthy addition to the membership list. The president, H. W. Darling, has been untiring in his efforts to make the Toronto board the most influential and numerous commercial body in the dominion. He has been ably seconded by E. A. Wills, the secretary. For a number of weeks the rooms of the association, in the Imperial buildings, have been undergoing extensive improvements and alterations, which are now fully completed. The walls and ceilings have been handsomely papered and frescoed and made as bright as the sunlight. Two of the back rooms have been turned into veritable parlors, richly carpeted and furnished. These rooms will be used for council meetings and for general meetings when the large room outside is not required. Charles Spurgeon's Freaks, —Some quaint old stories are told of the Rev. Charles Spurgeon, who, when quite a young man, was wont to preach every Sunday at the Surrey Gardens music hall. Thousands thronged to hear him. On one particularly hot Sunday the preacher (Mr. Spurgeon was not a clergyman according to English law) mounted the platform, and mopping his massive brow with a large-silk handkerchief, exclaimed: "It's as hot as hell!" His hearers stood aghast. "Such were the words I heard a young manutter as I entered this building," said Mr. Spurgeon, and then he spoke of the sin of profanity. Now a man can't cuss at Dineen's hats; they are beyond reproach. Dineen's, corner of King and Yonge streets, is—the—hat emporium of the city.

So Say We AlL Principal Buchan in his speech at the distribution of prizes at Upper Canada college on Friday said that he expressed a very general wish when he hoped that this would not be the last time that Mrs. Beverley Robinson walked over from government house to present prizes to the successful candidates. He trusted she would for five years more enjoy the same health she now did, and cross from government house to give away the prizes with the same grace and charm of manner that had delighted them for the five years just passed.

THE BOYS TELL HOW THEY FOR THE BRAVES. in Interesting Batch of Letter gratulations from the Govern erai—The Indian Version. WINNIPEG, May 20.-The M garrison artillery, who arrived by rail route to-day, are camped pricket grounds adjoining the par buildings. The battalion number men and non-commissioned officers officers, including chaplain. The carried 3000 rounds of shrapnel shell battalion will do garrison duty in peg and have relieved the "W Home Guards from that duty.

The bodies of Privates Hardist Fraser of the 90th battalion, who wounds received in the battle of B arrived here to-night and will be i in St. John's churchyard to-morrow

An account by letter of the Batoche says the answer to Riel's that he would massacre the prison charge which drove the rebel their position, and encompassed t feat. When the advance was order 90th battalion occupied the righ Grenadiers the centre, and the M the left, while the Gatling brought rear. The Grenadiers were the enter the ravine and encounter th in the rifle pits, but the heaviest was made by the Midland battalio rushed forward with a cheer, which rushed forward with a cheer, which taken up and re-echoed by the who with such force and vigor that the became panic-stricken and scamper in all directions, the 90th close in p A party of half-breeds endeavored cape across the river, but when midst of the stream a shell frobattery was laid upon their scow when the smoke cleared away the barge was seen floating helplessly the river, the cable being broken these on board the scow either ki thrown into the water.

The post yesterday brought a large ber of letters from Queen's Own Battleford. They all describe more the situation there, and give prominence to the fight with Pound We have only room to make extrac them, which throw a new light of fight. Lieut. Brock writes:

I was attached to No. 3 company, but managed to get transferred to which was the only Q.O.R. company to the front. We weeded out about men, and took six from No. 4, three fround three from No. 2 to replace them.

We went on about six miles and a stream "Cut knie," and were goin hill when I, while walking beside my wagon about 5 a.m., heard shots in fr suddenly Capt. Mutton rode down. "Capt. Brown, extend your compa "Capt. Brown, extend your company south and skirmish your men along the about 20 yards in front of you." We sut. "Queen's Own, from up." Capt. Shen said: "Mr. Brock, you will take of the left half. Queen's Own, from this pace-extend!" We doubled out, an commenced whizzing over our heads. We reached the brink of a coulee abyards ahead, I said: "Men, lie down; the cover you can, and don't waste you munition. Fire low." We kept on for an hour, and finally, after killing five of them, we dialodged them.

I told off the men, none of us on theing hurt as yet, and cautiously advand got to the top of the hill without leman. Over the brink we saw the I about 450 yards in advance quite ple about 70 or 80 of them -and we comm work again. In about two minutes shot about 450 yards in advance quite pla about 70 or 80 of them—and we comm work again. In about two minutes shott over our left shoulders as well as in from one struck the ground where I was crow about a foot in front of me and filled my with dirt, which was very painful.

After retiring to our old place we keep the weary work—weary, as we had no flood nor water since the evening before, an order came: "Mr. Brock. Col. Otte you are to advance your men over the health of the weary work of the weary work of the work of the health of the support the Battleford infantry, who we wance to your left." I called on the me with a ringing cheer we started up the health of the top amid showers of bullet held it for one hour and a half, during time the Indians were driven from the easouth sides. After the charke, being out of breath, and my tongue feeling a baked potato, I looked back and foun three of my men had been wounded guardsman wounded and one poor grank lilled. The Q. O. R. were Ptes. and Watts, Color-Sergi. Cooper, the greys had a some of the men went a right under fire, being completely exhaus We carried the wounded down the help where the ambulance could get them. least the men did. I stayed with the oth direct the firting, they (the Indians) being letely cleaned out on the two sides. Herivate J. F. Grierson writes:

Private J. F. Grierson writes : It is impossible for me to describe the in a letter, but I may say some old so who took part in it said they never rienced a hotter fire, and for my part I that hoggish to ass for any more.

One of the volunteers, who is a observer says:

Col. Otter's brigade fell into a regular set for them by the Indians. The sho was all done freen cover on both sides at the most partitle only targets the boys haim at were the target of smoke made by shots of the Indians. The Queen's Own the last to eave the grounds and covers retreat of the force in admirable form, turn of the crank of the Gatling gun. br down twelve Indians. The buttle at best a drawn one; the enemy suffered severely the position was not carried, nor was object of the expedition attained, which to capture the supplies held by the en Col. Otter said the Queen's Own fought tigers, behaved themselves like voterans earned the praise of the mounted police. Batti ford volunteers. The ambulance of especially well. We have not been yet, and money is starce, very scarce; in camp. The boys do a good deal of procoking on their own account, such as ma porridge, coffee; etc.

The bodies of the dead were laid to resontiate the camp, between the camp will large. It was a scene well calculate make one appreciate the realities of willed mounted policemen were led spat wo policemen. The suddes empty, and lead men's boots strapped to the stirrup heels to the front. As two of the kille! Catholics there were two services at the gone Ham in Catholic, and the other account he to the front. As two of the kille!

Another member of the exped writes:

No doubt you have had from the rapers, a full, if not accurate account of fight. I say not accurate because Fox Bailey, the correscondents of the Mai Globe, skulked under the wagons in the keeping cook, so as 'o be able to write accounts of the light, they said, and cquent y they saw nothing; although wa pressing need for every man, and of the teamsters were firing, these cowing animals refused to come out and take a na share of the fight. Fox in particular front with a Winehester, and full belt of ridges, and came back with one cart missing, fired by another man. Next these gentlemen were busy amongst officers and men get ing pointers and in evening full telegraphic despatches or own correspondents were in the ator's hauds.

Lloyd was wounded in this way. Ho as C. Acheson and some more Queen's Own with some Battleford men, were cleaning a Battleford man was and fell. The Queen's Own soon after say Battleford man ijing where he had been The Battleford men said he was of their in ber, and was dead. The fire was so hot they would not go back for him. Acheson Lloyd going with him and covering him his rifie. Just as they left the cover.
