

SIR JOHN THOMPSON

Became Premier of Nova Scotia in 1882, but his administration lasted only a few weeks. The story of this, together with a history of "The Premiers of Nova Scotia since 1867," will be told by the Hon. J. W. Longley in the MAY CANADIAN MAGAZINE. This is the second article in the series on the "Provincial Premiers since Confederation."

A GREAT CHANGE

A great change will be made in The Canadian Magazine with the May number. That issue will be the first of the ninth volume, and the publishers will mark the occasion by changing the size of the Magazine, making it uniform with the leading foreign magazines. They will also introduce new paper made by Canadian mills for this publication. By this means it is expected that the Magazine will be improved in appearance at least twenty-five per cent. At the same time the number of pages in each issue will be increased. The actual cost of publishing each number will thus be materially increased, but the publishers feel that they owe this to the Canadian public

BECAUSE they have made THE CANADIAN MAGAZINE the greatest literary production ever seen in this country.

The May number will be full of good things. Perhaps the most interesting will be "A Visit to the Birthplace of James Wolfe, the Conqueror of Quebec," by J. C. Webster, M.D., F.R.C.P.E., F.R.S.E., Montreal. This contribution will be profusely illustrated from photographs never before given to the Canadian public. A strong French-Canadian Poem, by Dr. W. H. Drummond, author of "Lac St. Pierre," will be a special feature.
