

Canadian Broadcasting Corporation,
140 Wellington Street,
Ottawa, Ont.

Information on radio broadcasting and television. The Corporation operates a national service of broadcasting and television, and administers the regulations for control of all programmes broadcast in Canada. The Corporation also operates the International Service of shortwave broadcasting to other countries, and is now broadcasting in fourteen different languages.

National Film Board of Canada,
John Street,
Ottawa, Ont.

Produces and distributes theatrical and non-theatrical films, filmstrips, photo stories and newsreel material on all aspects of Canada (landscape, resources, industries, agriculture, and the national life and character of the people).

The National Gallery of Canada,
Ottawa, Ont.

Organizes and circulates exhibitions of Canadian and foreign art. Publishes and distributes colour reproductions to schools and educational bodies and the general public. Lends films and filmstrips on art, lantern slides and prepared addresses illustrated with slides. The Industrial Design Section maintains a Design Index of all new Canadian product designs of merit and illustrates them on separate information sheets for distribution to executives, editors, designers and others.

The National Museum of Canada,
Ottawa, Ont.

Exhibits collections illustrating the natural history of Canada. Scientific and educational publications on the study collections are available for distribution. Distributes photographs on the natural sciences, Indian and Eskimo life.

Technical Information Service,
National Research Council,
National Research Building,
Sussex St.,
Ottawa, Ont.

Supplies up-to-date technical and scientific information chiefly for the secondary or processing industries.

Bank of Canada,
Ottawa, Ont.

Information on banking, currency, economic research, finance, Industrial Development Bank.

Canadian Government Exhibition Commission,
479 Bank Street,
Ottawa, Ont.

Designs and prepares exhibits for official government exhibitions overseas. Is responsible for international fairs held in Canada sponsored by the Government. Encourages and assists Canadian manufacturers to participate in overseas trade fairs.

Export Credits Insurance Corporation,
107 Sparks Street,
Ottawa, Ont.

Gives assistance to Canadian exporters through provision of insurance on their foreign accounts receivable.

Standards Branch,
West Block,
Wellington Street,
Ottawa, Ont.

The functions of this branch are to ensure accurate weight and measure of commodities for sale; to license the export of electrical energy and piped fluids; to ensure accuracy of meters and devices used for the sale of electricity and gas;