

IRELAND, during the Years 1763 and 1764. Taken by a Military Officer. To which is added, An Enquiry how far the Restrictions laid upon the Trade of Ireland, by British Acts of Parliament, are a Benefit to the British Dominions in general, and to the English in particular, for whose separate Advantage they were intended.

†† As Ireland is become of late Years much more an Object of public Attention than formerly, the Parliamentary Debates in that Kingdom must become proportionably more interesting and important. In the Debates of the above Period, are many Particulars which distinguish them from those of all preceding Years; and many Questions are discussed, which must be the Subject of Debate in all Times to come.—Among those now offered to the Public are the following: On the Peace. On Pensions, in which both the Legality and Policy of those Grants are fully considered. On Inland Navigation. The Limitation of Parliaments. The Place-Bill. The State of the Nation. Libels, and the North Briton. Jobs and their Tendency. Power of Grand Juries. Faction. A Tax on Dogs. Privilege of Parliament. False Patriotism mistaken for Liberty. Licentiousness. Recovery of Tithes. Power of Magistrates. And on a great Variety of other Subjects equally curious and important. It may not be improper to mention, that these are the first Speeches of the Irish Parliament which have ever been published. The Enquiry became necessary by the frequent mention of the Restrictions on Trade in the Debates: It is not, however, confined to the Trade of Ireland, as it shews the Rise of Trade in general, what is its Use, when it attains Perfection, and when it degenerates into Excess.
