ALLIANCE SECRETARY ACCUSED BY WOMAN

John H. Roberts, Temperance Advocate, Said to Have Received Protection Money.

Montreal, July 3.—Charges that John H. Roberts, former paid, and now honorary secretary of the Dominion Alliance, and high in the councils of the Vigilance Association, had accepted $300 as "protection money," and had been guilty of immoral conduct in her disorderly house, were made by Edna Robinson, testifying this morning in the $10,000 slander action brought by Mr. Roberts against ex-controller H. W. Villeneuve.

A cheque for $150 drawn by Mrs. Robinson on the Bank of Commerce in favor of "Jack Tynan," was produced by Mr. McKewen, and the witness identified it as one she had given to Mr. Roberts in April of last year. She claimed that it was part of a payment of $300, the balance of which was cash given Mr. Roberts as protection. Mrs. Robinson explained the need of protection by the statement that "her gentleman friend was in the gambling business."

Later in her evidence Mrs. Robinson made other charges against Mr. Roberts, one to the effect that he had spent the night at her house with a burlesque actress.

At the close of the proceedings this afternoon, Edna Robinson was arrested on a charge of perjury, lodged by ex-police Captain Savard. She was committed to bail in the sum of $4,000.

THE TORONTO WORLD YORK COUNTY AND SUBURBS

HIGHWAY COMMISSION INSPECTS THE ROADS

Improvements Are to Be Made on Don Mills Road on Hill at First Turn.

That the York County Highway Commission are strongly impressed with the necessity for a more aggressive and comprehensive policy with respect to the county roads in general, and the Don Mills and West Hill roads in particular, was clearly manifested on the return trip of the commissioners to Toronto last night, following a tour of inspection undertaken yesterday under the guidance of E. A. James, highway commissioner, and Hon. George S. Henry, minister of agriculture.

The party was made up of Thomas Foster, M.P., Hon. George S. Henry, Reeve Pugsley, Richmond Hill; Reeve Keith, Newmarket; David Spence, Weston; and E. A. James, highway engineer. The party left the county buildings shortly before 10 o'clock and went out the Don Mills Road by Thorncliffe, making a thorough inspection of the road at Thorncliffe and beyond. It was agreed that a forward policy ought to be adopted there, and it was decided to go ahead this summer on the preliminary work, starting at the first turn in the road at the top of the hill, where the two concrete viaducts cut away, rounding out the approach and widening the road. Later it is proposed to widen and straighten the highway at this point, as far as possible eliminating some of the grades and putting it in first-class shape.

The party then proceeded north and visited Unionville on the good roads' system, from which point Superintendent Duffield is starting to build the improved highway from Unionville to Yonge street, a distance of six miles. They visited Locust Hill and saw the new concrete bridge over the river at that point, the approach to which are being filled by a steam shovel. The whole job will be finished in two weeks.

Turning south they passed over the Markham and Kingston roads to West Hill and Highland Creek, where another big proposition something like the Don Mills road must be dealt with. The grades at each of the hills is very steep, in some places 12 per cent, and it is proposed to reduce them to 5 and possibly 4, but whether to do this or effect a diversion of the present highway was not definitely decided upon. For the most part the standing up well under the heavy traffic.

Danforth

LATE VAL DELAWAR WORLD-WIDE FIGURE

Artist With Outstanding Recognition Had Lived Quietly in Toronto.

The sudden death from heart failure, while on a fishing trip at Keswick on Sunday, of Val Delawar, a Valpoise avenue, closed the career of a brilliant artist, naval officer and world traveler.

Born in Cheltenham, England, he migrated to Australia, where his ability as a painter in oils of Australian, New Zealand and Tasmanian scenery, made him famous in the antipodes. He had the honor of exhibiting in the official colonial academies and several of his works were purchased for the Australian national galleries.

From Australia his fame as an artist in black and white mounted to the States. He numbered among his patrons the Duke of Hamilton, Lord Carrington, Lord Grey, and other members of the nobility.

His reputation as a world traveler was also outstanding. He had visited in the various places he visited was of the most favorable character. He exhibited his paintings in three times in England. The first in his native city, Cheltenham, where every work in his works in the English and Australian press was in the highest manner.

He was twice married. His first wife was the niece of a United States millionaire, and his second, who survives him, is an Australian lady. In his youth he was a first lieutenant in the British navy and he afterwards fought with the Russian land forces in the Caucasus and the Russian peninsula. The late artist came to Canada with his wife and two children, and he took up his residence in Toronto. It is stated that his relatives are highly connected in English society.

The funeral takes place today at Norwood Cemetery. Washington and Johnston have charge of the funeral arrangements.

Mimico

Residents on the Lake Shore road are thinking of sending in a petition to stop some of the unnecessary screaming of horns on the whistles on the railway. Passengers have frequently noticed that this is often a source of annoyance, especially when the train is crowded, but it is not quite so annoying to people living in the vicinity.

The Star and Leaside.

"Funny" papers generally queer themselves: The Star of yesterday undertook to be funny at the expense of The World, which had referred to Leaside as the location of "the new national railway yards and shops and factories."

It speaks of Leaside, sarcastically, as "a 'bother' with 'tail chimneys, etc.' In the same issue The Star had a full account of a railway accident out there yesterday, by which one workman's train with "over 1100 employees on board" was run into by an incoming C.P. express, and only by a miracle did hundreds of these employees escape wounding or death. The "funny" page didn't fibe very well with the news page. And these 1100 were only one shift of the people working in one factory at Leaside. There will soon be 5000 hands in this factory, and The World dared to suggest that the Ottawa Government, which is building great railway yards and shops there for the national railway, ought to join with the city in providing street car accommodation for these yards and to the munition plant alongside. The World knows about Leaside, and The Star won't even quote the news about it that it finds in The World. But it did take a holus-bolus from The World all about the plans to bridge the Reservoir road as to let the public get to Rosedale Military Hospital—all on the way to Leaside.

The World repeats that Leaside is to be a great big new railway and manufacturing centre and that if The Star had supported The World's suggestion of an under-deck in the two new concrete viaducts of the C.P. in Rosedale the whole problem of street cars for the hospital, for the railway yards, for Leaside would have been solved and the line in use today at the top of the city of not equal size or greater long before this but for the two ravines in question. But the government and the city have a plan to get together and surmount these physical obstructions by high level bridges and street car services. Leaside is to be the centre of a great and immediate development in railways, factories and houses. But three city papers at least will head it off if they can.

And speaking of how Leaside is growing, the police commissioners yesterday authorized a bus line between the Parkham avenue terminal of the Yonge street cars and Leaside at ten-cent fares!

C.P.R. DOUBLE TRACK NEARING COMPLETION

Leaside to North Toronto Road Will Be Finished in a Week.

The C.P.R.'s double-track from Leaside to North Toronto is about completed and ready for traffic. Workmen are now waterproofing the bridge over the Reservoir ravine, and the laying of the rails will be done as soon as the concrete is set down. Another week will see everything completed.

The engineers on the job have accomplished wonders in the way of rapid construction, when the labor situation is considered. In a little over nine months, which included a winter period of unprecedented severity, they laid the tracks from Leaside to North Toronto, raised two steel bridges, erected two temporary wooden ones to take their places, and hauled the rails to the two big concrete structures which now span the old Belt Line ravine and the Reservoir Park ravine.

The Reservoir bridge (which the C.P.R. was anxious to have double-tracked so as to permit of wheeled and foot traffic) carries three tracks, and is regarded as a model piece of engineering, and is one of the first of its kind to be erected anywhere. The flooring is of solid blocks of concrete, and is weighing about fifty tons. The other bridge to the east carries only two tracks.

When the two finishing touches are completed, the C.P.R. will have completed their full Toronto program, the carrying out of which has cost nearly $1,000,000.

SOLDIERS' AID FARM STOCKED WITH WEEDS

A reporter for The World paid a visit yesterday to the Russell Motor farm, where the Soldiers' Aid Commission has established a vocational training centre. When interviewed Supt. W. P. Richardson stated that "everything was going as well as could be expected. You see this ground has never been under cultivation and most of our troubles are due to the weeds and lack of men to combat them."

"A whole section of onions has been entirely outgrown by this rank growth. I have had to hire boys to try and clean it up, as it is now too late to plow it. However, with 50 men on the ground, things look a little better now."

The farm, which is situated in Weston, has about 100 acres under cultivation. Potatoes, corn and tomatoes are the main vegetables grown, and will be sold later on.

VETERAN STRUCK DOWN WHILE BOARDING CARS

Pte. John Challinor, a war veteran, was struck by an automobile while crossing the street at the corner of East Gerrard street and the Woodbine lane, about 10:30, and rendered unconscious. He was conveyed to the hospital in the military ambulance.

According to the statement of an eye-witness, the soldier, while crossing from the stopping point to board a King car coming from the east, was struck with great force by the motor car driven by William Bennett, 138 Bolton avenue, and dashed against the side of the street car. Bennett, it is alleged, was traveling at about 20 miles an hour and was evidently trying to overtake and pass the street car before it came to a standstill.
