

Of Interest to Women

A Sister's Cruelty.

A little girl of 13 called at J. J. Kelso's office in the Spadina street building yesterday to complain of her sister, who had cruelly beaten her. From the child's account her sister, who is a young woman of 24, apparently beats her from love of cruelty. The case is in the hands of P. Haynes, St. Vincent de Paul's Children's Aid Society.

Her Last Dollar.

A few weeks ago a patched dollar bill, with an appealing inscription for aid on it was received by Jimmy Cowan at the Grand Opera House, and the writer was asked to make him of herself known and they would be assisted. The item was published in The World and the following letter received at the Grand Opera House yesterday speaks for itself:

"Seeing the article in The World about the dollar bill, the woman who wrote that on the bill will never call at your office for it. She is well known in Toronto, but she is not rich, as many think her to be. Well may you say it was not spent for opera tickets. That woman stood looking at her three sick children, I stood at the table when she put that talk about Lent and how it was first celebrated. She looked at the bill for ten minutes when she wrote the words on the back. Now she is known all over Toronto and dearly loved for her noble, true womanly nature, saved me from many a hard time, but she could not save herself from one of the hardest trials a woman can have. A small fortune to many but not one of these people raised her hands to help her. You are more than that woman than anyone else, for that woman that struggle, sick and alone, with her children. They were all very ill with gripple. She lived with that patched up dollar. Little did we think we would hear of it again. She thanks you just the same. She is well connected in and around Toronto, also in Buffalo and other parts of the States."

A Church Bazaar.

A church bazaar is being held by the Ladies' Aid of Red Avenue Presbyterian Church in the church building, cor. Gerrard-street, and Redwood-street, to-day and to-morrow. The purposes of the bazaar are for the raising of $500 for the building fund of the church. This church has had phenomenal success since its inception, two years ago, and has many friends in the city. The ladies' aid hope to see their many friends at the bazaar, where an unusually large and well assorted stock of useful and fancy goods will be offered for sale at prices consistent with their value.
