William Morris, Inc., Becomes Involved Over Change in Booking of Harry Lauder,

The announcement that Harry Laudliving conditions in the congested, cen-tral districts, respecially in the sections with his managers, the Walliam Morris with his managers, the William Morris Inc., when they assumed the manage-ment of the latter house for A. J. Small, has been the signal for the opening legal hostilities between all those in terested in the engagement of Mr. Lauder at Massey Hall, and A. J. Small, the proprietor of the Majestic Music Hall and Grand Opera House. For weeks the William Morris Inc., thru their local representatives, have heen acquainting the public with the fact that Lauder would appear at the Majestic, and the charge in the booking has been made without the permission of Mr. Small, whose interest in the Majestic, aven under the measurement of the measuremen mission of Mr. Small, whose interest in the Majestic, even under the present vandeville policy, is by no means insignificant.

The indications point to a legal battle that will be of interest to the thearical world, as the Morris people have become entangled in lawsuits in other cities on account of their violation of agreements with bouse owners.

agreements with house owners.

James W. Cowan, Mr. Small's repre sentative at the Grand Opera House, was interviewed regarding the trouble and stated positively that the Morris people would have to live up to their agreement or defend an action that will be fought to the finish.
