

COBB'S AMBITION KEEPS HIM AHEAD

For Ten Successive Years the "Georgia Peach" Has Batted Over Three Hundred Mark.

It is no slight honor to lead either the National or the American League in batting. The competition is keen, and there is an abundance of ambition among the players to capture the coveted privilege of topping the list of sluggers. While the fact that Ty Cobb led the American circuit in batting is not so much of a surprise as the performance of Larry Doyle in the National, it is none the less remarkable inasmuch as last year was the tenth that Cobb had batted better than .300, his mark being .370.

Baseball is Ty Cobb's business. He is also his pleasure. He would rather pound out a base hit than do anything else. There has not been a time since Ty Cobb joined the Detroit club ten years ago that his ambition to be the greatest player in the game ever lost its fire. Cobb is a great ball player, because first of all he is imbued with an irrepressible spirit to excel.

Cobb entered the major league with the odds against him. The breezy temperament of the young Georgian did not improve the time-worn veterans on the Detroit club. When Cobb broke in he was no wonder. He was a perfect athlete and lived a clean life. Out in the center field he ran all ground under the ball and gave Manager Hugh Jennings many anxious moments when he was trying to catch a fly ball.

There was one thing about this young Cobb which impressed Jennings. He was the first player in uniform at the ball park, he was the first player out on the field to practice catching flies. He was everlastingly trying. He practiced and practiced and never tired. He couldn't get too much baseball.

Cobb's ambition has never left him. He is like a boy and gets more fun out of baseball than 95 per cent. of the men who make it their business. Watch Cobb as he bats, when he is spanking out sharp hits and running wild on the bases, and you will quickly see why he is the greatest baseball player in the world.

Cobb knows his pitchers from game to game. He studies them as well as he studies his own batting. Last year, for instance, Cobb had one of his best seasons. He hit for an average of .370 and he stole 96 bases. Think of it.

Do you know why he stole so many bases? Well, one reason was that Fritz Masei of the Yankees was also running wild on the bases, and at one time during the season the little Yankee third baseman began to crowd Cobb and had stolen almost as many sacks as the Georgia Peach.

Here is where Cobb's ambition became fanned to fever heat. That strong feeling to excel gripped the Georgian, and he wanted to show the baseball world that no man was going to beat him stealing bases without a struggle. What did Cobb do? He began to run wild. He dashed from first to second base many times under the most unfavorable circumstances.

The player has had a remarkable record. He was born in Roston, Ga., twenty-nine years ago. When he was 18 years old he was playing with the Amherst club of the Alabama-Tennessee League. Three years later he was regarded as a wonder. Then he went to the Augusta club of the South Atlantic League. He didn't show much hitting skill in his first year there, and his average was only .237. The next season, however, Cobb worked hard and hit for .328. That attracted the attention of the Detroit scouts, and Cobb went under Jennings' management in 1905.

In his first year with the Tigers, he hit just .300, but he was a crude, unpolished player. Always in excellent physical condition thru his clean living, Cobb improved and struggled hard to better himself. In 1906 he batted .320. The next year he kept up his hitting with a mark of .300. His record for the next few years was: 1908, .324; 1909, .377; 1910, .385; and in 1911 Cobb was the sensation of the baseball world when he led the American League batmen with an average of .420.

Cobb's record last year was one which every baseball fan knows. He played in 154 games. He was at the bat 563 times, scored 144 runs, 102 of them being earned. He made 208 hits, including 31 two-bases, 13 three-base hits and three home runs. He had nine sacrifice hits, stole 96 bases and waited for 115 passes.

Cobb is not the wild swinging type of batsman. He hits them to every field and chases the ball more times than he swings at it.

IF BACK HURTS BEGIN ON SALTS

Flush Your Kidneys Occasionally if You Eat Meat Regularly.

No man or woman who eats meat regularly can make a mistake by flushing the kidneys occasionally, says a known authority. Meat forms uric acid, which clogs the kidney pores so they sluggishly filter or strain only part of the waste and poisons from the blood, then you get sick. Nearly all rheumatism, headaches, liver trouble, nervousness, constipation, dizziness, sleeplessness, bladder disorders come from sluggish kidneys.

The moment you feel a dull ache in the kidneys or your back hurts, or if the urine is cloudy, offensive, full of sediment, irregular of passage or attended by a sensation of scalding, get about four cuneus of Jad Salts from any reliable pharmacy and take a tablespoonful in glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act the normal.

Jad Salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to flush clogged kidneys and stimulate them to activity, also to neutralize the acids in urine so it no longer causes irritation, thus ending bladder disorders.

Jad Salts is inexpensive and cannot injure; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink, which salt regular meat eaters should take now and then to keep the kidneys clean and the blood pure, thereby avoiding serious kidney complications.

The Hawaiian Islands during the summer of 1917. The athletic association has received a communication to that effect from Alfred L. Castle, an old Harvard player of the seasons, 1906 and 1908 and now manager of a club at Honolulu made up of old college players, including Gene Sledge, captain of the Brown nine in 1914.

Castle already has arranged for a series of games for this summer with college teams from the mainland and now is looking ahead, hoping to secure one or two prominent eastern colleges for next year. He is offering as an incentive full expenses from San Francisco and return to that city and suggests that games be arranged en route to the coast to cover the trip across the country.

If favorable response is received from either of the colleges invited, Castle plans to come east next winter and complete arrangements.

J. Franklin (Home Run) Baker now says he and Captain Huston of the Yankees had it all fixed up as to terms for 1916 away back last fall, but that Connie Mack wouldn't give him a reasonable price of the purchase money. He says that if Mack doesn't come across with that price he will play in the National League, where he was last year. He says the batters treated him better in the National League.

"Title" Shaffer, former third-baseman of the New York Giants, has been reinstated as a full-fledged amateur, and is going in for golf. Shaffer retired from baseball a couple of years ago, despite the efforts of the New York Club to retain him.
