

DICTATOR CALLS BRITISH "ROCK" A "PERMANENT NATIONAL INSULT"

Exchange Might be Offered
of Centa and Tangier,
He Suggests.

Madrid, Oct. 22.—Gen. Miguel Primo de Rivera is the second Marquis de Estella, his uncle, Fernando, having been the first and having acquired the title through the circumstance that he stormed the small town of Estella, which lies within the Province of Logrono, in the northern part of Spain, during the Carlist wars, this being the headquarters and so-called capital of the Carlists. Many other military achievements were to the credit of the first Marquis de Estella, and the second one, with a not less formidable personality, has followed in his footsteps. He is now at his height of his activities, and is virtually Dictator of Spain, though he prefers the official description of President of the Directorate.

He had a military education and in his earliest years was engaged on active service in Morocco, where he won many honors and gained promotion. His intelligence, knowledge and courage were such that he became one of the most youthful generals in the Spanish Army. He is tall and of strong, heavy build. He is optimistic as to the future of Spain, even while he faces directly the cold, bitter truths of Spain's besetting weaknesses. He feels the faults to be curable, and hence arises his optimism. He reiterates frequently that the dictatorship is there for a short season only, and that as soon as may be it will hand over the power to a new civilian government, composed of men right in heart and mind who will carry Spain on to her great destiny.

Patriots Can Be Proud.

completing the patriotic action of recovering Gibraltar. The aspiration which tends to reclaim this part of our national territory is unanimous. The present occupation of Gibraltar is regarded in Spain as a permanent national insult. I think that when an opportunity presents itself we should propose and negotiate for the exchange of the fortress and the bay of Gibraltar against the fortress and the bay of Ceuta, and, if we must, offer loyalty to renounce all claims on Tangier, and complete the offer with that of the African territory and islands over which we exercise any kind of sovereignty.

For giving expression to such views the Government of the day felt that some punishment was necessary, and shortly afterward Gen. Primo de Rivera was removed from Cadix. In more recent times he was sent from Madrid to Catalonia for expressing himself very clearly to the effect that Morocco was not worth the price that was having to be paid for it.

Declining to be called Dictator, he also repudiates the suggestion that he is now modelling himself on Mussolini, and is establishing a kind of Spanish Fascism. It may be, and the Marquis de Estella is as firm in thought and invention as any man in his situation need be. But comparisons in edicts, proclamations and conduct between him now and the Italian Dictator at his beginning reveal remarkable similarities, and it is well remembered that the first message he sent on of Spain after making his great bid for control was to Mussolini himself.

Gen. Primo de Rivera admits that Juan Prim, the great patriot of the troubled period of 1868-70, is his hero, for he tried to put Spain and its monarchy on a better basis, and succeeded. Even the general's enemies, who are fewer now by far than they were when he metaphorically raised the standard of revolt at Barcelona, wish for him a kinder ultimate fate than befell Juan Prim.

Critics of this view have naturally asked where these sublime political patriots are to come from, as they cannot be bred in a day, and there are no signs as yet of their existence. One or two generations at least, it has been said, would be necessary to produce them. He replied, with emphasis, "We will find men of integrity and ability. They are there. We will use them, watch and study them, and then choose those whom we want and let them assume the reins of government, while we remain in the background for their security." This is the ideal scheme of Gen. Primo de Rivera, and it seems a long task, but when he is asked how long a period will be necessary for its accomplishment, he answers, "I think about six months." Another evidence of optimism!

Impulsive and emotional, he has more than once come into sharp conflict with government. In 1917, when he was in high authority at Cadix, he made a speech of remarkable character, which has a new interest now, in view of the rumor that negotiations were on foot for the cession of Gibraltar to Spain. It is Gen. Primo de Rivera's hope to see "the Rock" back again in the Spain of which he forms a part. In the course of this speech, he said:

"Nothing has been done for more than a century with the object of ac-

SOVIETS DEPORTED RED MOLLY STEIMER

Girl Anarchist Whom America
Ousted, Arrives in Berlin
Disillusioned.

Berlin, Oct. 22.—(Associated Press)—Molly Steimer, the girl Anarchist, who was deported from the United States in 1921, has now been deported by Soviet Russia and has arrived in Berlin seeking peace and quiet.

Molly, who has spent nearly three of her twenty-six years in various prisons, arraigned the Soviets in bitter terms, saying that their form of Government was "worse even than the United States."

She was arrested in Petrograd a year ago with twenty-nine other Anarchists, the Cheka agents accusing her of having underground connections with Emma Goldman and Alexander Berkman, disregarding Molly's contention that she was merely engaged in aiding political prisoners through the Anarchist Aid Society.

Although the young Anarchist was threatened with exile to Siberia by the Soviets, this was never brought about. Finally she started a hunger strike, which lasted seven days. At first the Cheka officials laughed at her, their chief once remarking:

"You think you can bluff us with a hunger strike. Apparently you don't know us. Do you think that this is like America?"

In July, Molly was released on the understanding that she would leave the country and never come back. For a time, between arrests in Russia, she was employed as a factory worker and now that she has received permission to remain in Germany for a while at least, she has hopes of getting a job here.

There are thousands of political prisoners in Russia today, she said, in fact the jails, prisons, old monasteries, churches and other buildings are so crowded that the Soviets are at a loss to know what to do with the inmates. She asserts also that the political prisoners are being treated worse now than at any other period in her recollection. The Soviet announcement of the abolishment of the Cheka was a myth, she declared, and when she left the country there was a great conflict of authority as to what to do with the political prisoners. Owing to the crowded conditions, numbers of them were being shipped back and forth through the country in box cars. They were heavily guarded and poorly clothed and fed.

"The Bolsheviks," she said, "are worse than any capitalists that ever existed, and I am glad to be out. They are so unfair with us Anarchists. On one occasion I was arrested on suspicion of being implicated in a bomb riot. As a matter of fact I have never seen a real bomb in all my life."

Molly has no idea of attempting negotiations which might make it possible for her to return to the United States. "I left the States after two years in the Jefferson City prison with the understanding that I would not return," she declared. "No, sir, I am not going back—I wouldn't give the United States Government any such satisfaction. All my relatives are now in the United States, having gone, one by one, from Russia, but I guess I will get along here, or wherever I can try

J. D. O'CONNELL IS NOW IN NEW YORK

Going South After November
1—Gave Picnic
in Bangor.

J. D. O'Connell gave his children's picnic in the Bangor House Park, Bangor, last Saturday afternoon. The Bangor Commercial devotes more than half a column to an account of the activities of "the orphan's friend," and the Portland Press-Herald says of him:

"Known in more than fifty cities of America and Cuba as the original big brother of the children, Mr. O'Connell has now in his family more than 100,000 children."

"All of his life the Orphan's Friend has given part of his time and money for the comfort of the little ones but for the last 15 he has given his entire time to giving these parties and in other ways caring for the little ones. He left Cuba in May and after touring the southern and south western states, he worked up north into Canada and from Vancouver to New Brunswick and is now on his return trip."

Mr. O'Connell writes to The Times-Star:

"I will be at the Waldorf Astoria, New York, until November 1st. Then I go to Virginia and the Southern States, where I give a few more of the social picnics during November. After that I go to Cuba and Central America to continue picnics all through the winter months, as that is the most pleasant time of year, there being no frost or snow and very little rain in winter."

CLUB GOES ON HIKE.

A jolly party of 50 members of the B. Y. P. U. of the Tabernacle Baptist Church last evening enjoyed a hike to "Midwood" Little River, the residence of Mrs. M. Northrup, taking this means of passing a social evening, one of the regular features of their church club. All were ready for the delicious supper, which was served picnic style by their hostess, after which they hiked home, arriving in the city after 10 o'clock. They were accompanied by the social committee, who are Miss Lillian Young, Mrs. H. Titus, Miss Florence Jewett, Roy Addison, Harold Mallory and Mrs. A. E. Kierstead. The outdoor features have increased the interest in the work, the secretary reports, and have added many to their roll.

lot. If one can exist in the United States or in Russia, it is possible to exist anywhere."

During her imprisonment by the Soviets she lost weight, but she said that she now is quite herself again, weighing all of seventy-six pounds.

Mrs. Leblanc Wouldn't Take $50,000 For It

It has been a year now since Tanlac helped me back to good health and I have never had a sick day since," is the high tribute paid the famous treatment, recently, by Mrs. Corine Leblanc, highly esteemed resident of 128 Stirling Ave., Ottawa, Ont.

"My stomach had troubled me for four years and I seemed to be right on the verge of a nervous breakdown. I scarcely ate enough to keep soul and body together, and I would not want to go through what I suffered from pain, shortness of breath and nervousness again for fifty thousand dollars. "Since taking Tanlac I eat more heartily than I ever did, get eight and nine hours' peaceful sleep every night and am enjoying wonderful health. I give Tanlac all the credit for my recovery."

Previous action of the board, which is the official race control body in this country, in taking championship points from Murphy for failing to participate in events held during his absence was rescinded by the decision. The penalty was removed, it was said, in response to numerous requests from drivers and speedway managers who are most directly affected by Murphy's absence.

CONGREGATIONAL RALLY.

The congregational rally, held last evening as a part of the anniversary of the Carmarthen street Methodist church, was a great success. The pastor, Rev. E. E. Styles, reported that the past year had been the best in the history of the church. At the close, refreshments were served by the ladies.

Watch the prettier teeth that come when you combat the film

Here is a test which has brought to millions a new conception of clean teeth. Wherever you look you see the results. Teeth gleen as they never did before.

If you don't know this method, you should find it out. You owe that to yourself.

Film is dingy.

You feel on your teeth a viscous film. No ordinary tooth paste effectively combats it. So much of it clings and stays, becomes discolored, and then forms dingy coats. That is how teeth lose their beauty.

Film also holds food substance which ferments and forms acid. It holds the acid in contact with the teeth to cause decay. Germs breed by millions in it. They, with tartar, are the chief cause of pyorrhea.

Under old methods, these film-caused troubles became almost universal.

So dental science sought and found two effective film combatants. One disintegrates the film.

Protect the Enamel

Pepsodent disintegrates the film, then removes it with an agent far softer than enamel. Never use a film combatant which contains harsh grit.
