Friday's Store News

$1 Navy Serge,

72c. yd.

Gloves, 50c.

Silk glove weather—are you 'armed and well prepared?' We have a particularly attractive offering for you Friday. The celebrated KAYSER glove; wrist length, 2-stud fastening. Made of fine Milanese silk, with double finger tips. White and black. The kind we usually sell at 75c, the pair.

Excellent Zephyr Ginghams, IIC. yd.

They are a special lot that we got to sell at the low price of 15c. the yard. They are wonderfully reasonable at that. Now we are going to lower the price still further for Friday.

They are 'brand new'-on most of them the tapes have not been unfastened. A collection of checks, stripes and a few plain colors—blue, pink, rose, fawn, grey, with white; all of them with pretty border of plain color.

The material is of fine weave, and has a soft, silky 27 in. wide

Friday's price, 11c. the yard.

$1 Wash Silks, 67c. yd.

Perhaps you would like an extra outing shirt to wear with shirt waists and thus save your suit skirt. How about this navy coating serge? It is excellent quality, 54 in. wide; regularly sells at $1 the yard, but you may 72c. They're cool-looking and smart, and they'll be very much worn this season; white with black or navy stripe, Saxe blue with white. 40 in. wide. Everyday price, $1 the yard. 67c. 75c. Silk

$1.30 Black Armure, $1

It's a fine silk-and-wool mixture self-striped; would make a lovely Summer dress. Is very light weight-slightly heavier than voile, 44 in. wide. Instead of the regular price, $1.30, pay only $1. for it Friday, Veilings, Ioc. yd.

There are many kinds-short lengths of black, brown, navy black and white, all white, etc. various meshes; a number of them are chenille dotted. 25, 35, 40 and 50c. qualities; the yard, to-morrow,

Where To Buy Your Meats The Coming Summer.

In the winter months when all the markets are cold and the dus ir not so prevalent on the streets, cleanliness is not so, difficult to secure as during the summer months. It's about now that particular people look more carefully into the matter of cleanliness and decide where they are going to buy their meats during the summer months.

We want you to come here and let us show you just how we are fitted up in this respect—concrete floors that are washed up, not swept, refrigerators so arranged that meats can be run in when not being out, and all other modern sanitary methods and conveniences

ALL LOST THEIR MONEY

ICTORIA SPORTS BET ON REV J. E. STARR MAKING RETORT.

Methodist Minister Not Only Ca the Gambling Fraternity of Pacific Coast City to Lose Their Money But He Also Had the Last Word When He Delivered the Ben

Once upon a time a fearless judge of the Supreme Court sitting in Victoria was brave enough to manhandle the Rev. J. E. Starr, who was appearing as a witness in a case. The Rev. J. E. was fearless himself. If there was anything he was noted for in the fair coast city it was for the dauntless way in which he denounced things of which he disapproved. Busy young reporters let the citizens in on young reporters let the citizens in or the court incident and speculation was keen as to the nature of the revenge the firebrand young Methodist preacher would take.

Victoria is the Monte Carlo of Canada; from which it may be inferred that gambling is a favorite pastime in that place. Bets were made freely in large numbers and for large sums as to whether or not the parson would flay the judge on Sunday night. Other bets, and these were more numerous, were as to the nature of the scourging.

Mr. Starr's church was packed or Mr. Starr's church was packed on Sunday night. They turned most of the people away. The reverend gentleman preached a noble sermon that night, but his lordship did not figure in a line, not even by inference. By and bye the closing hymn was sung and the people prepared to file out after the benediction, disappointed that nothing had happened.

But the minister was not through. The benediction was not quite finish.

"—And may the Lord have mercy on those who lost their money to-night. Amen," it concluded.

The Shackleton and Scott expeditions in search of the South Pole have shown that large quantities of coal exist in the Antarctic continent. The deposits are very extensive, and Australian experts who have examined the coal pronounce it of good quality ity.

It is hard to grasp the climatic changes indicated by this discovery. Coal is a vegetable deposit. It is the preserved and buried carbon of growing plants. Yet here it is found in wast amounts in a land covered with ice that seems eternal; a country compared to which southern Greencompared to which southern Greenland is hospitable and mild.
Long before this supply will be needed other things than coal will probably be turning the wheels of our factories. Men now living may see the tides of the Bay of Fundy harnessed and put to work and the sunshine falling on our southwestern deserts, perform more labor than even our output of coal. But it piles tragedy on tragedy to think of Capt. Scott and his men freezing and starving, with food only 11 miles away, and coal almost under

Oakland Road Got Pork Monopoly. Rather a curious piece of news comes from Shivegyin in Burn.a, In-dia. A Mahomedan bid at an aucpersons concerned, that pursuant to a resolution of the City Council of the City of tion at Shwegyin for the right to vend Halifax, passed at a meeting held on the fifth day of June, 1913, I have paid on the twelfth pork in the bazaar, and, the Chinese having agreed not to go beyond certain figure, the pork monopol was knocked down to a Mohamm fax, on behalf of the said city, the sum of Five Hundred Dollars ($500.00) the said sum being was knocked Jown to a Mohammedan. His co-religionists are very indignant over the matter, and have held a meeting to consider what step should be taken. Apparently, it is not known in Burma that Mohammedan servants in European houses in Calcutta have not the slightest objection to handling pork, and that there are Mohammedan pork butchers as well in the city. the amount, which, in the judgment of the said Council is reasonable compensation for Macdonald and expropriated by the City of Halifax for the extension of Oakland Road to the North West Arm, which property so ex-propriated is comprised within the lot of land situated in the City of Halifax and described

No Female Suffrage Yet. No Female Suffrage Yet.

Female suffrage will be carried, and it will only be carried, when it has obtained so large a measure of public support that a Government can be formed all of whom members believe in the enfranchisement of women, and which is strong enough to defend itself against attack in Parliament and in the constituencies. Very few of us in my humble eles. Very few of us, in my humble udgment, will live to see the forma tion of such a government, still few er the successful execution of its difficult undertaking-F. E. M.P., in The British Review as follows:

Several remarkable examples of Persian handicraft are to be on view at the exhibition of the famous col-lection made by Mr. J. R. Preece, while consul-general at Ispahan, now open in London. One of the exhibits is a garden carpet, made for the Shah Ahnas (1587-1628). It exactly reproduces the features of the monarch's elaborate pleasure dens.

You know you are too thin-you can and eat, but never get an ounce fatter Nerves are weak, color is bad, strength seems exhausted. It's not hard to get course for a distance of five hundred and sixty (560) feet more or less, or until it meets the existing west line of Oxford street; thence in a south-easterly direction by the said western line of Oxford street for a distance of forty-five (45) feet more or less to the place of beginning. The above described lot being all that part of the property known as Oaklands belonging to the said Roderick Macdonald, and the water lot in front thereof shown on the accompanying plan as the "extension of Oakland Road," and also a portion lying to the south of Oakland Road. seems exhausted. It's not hard to get fat. You must eat more, digest more. exercise more. Try Ferrozone and watch your appetite grow. It turns all you get into nutriment and building material—falls your velns with rich, red blood—gives you ambition and vigor. For a tissue builder, a fattening tonic, one that restores permanently, there is nothing to compare with Ferrozone. Try it and see; 50c. at all dealers.

DEFYING FATHER TIME,

pire's Most Amating Veterans. The recent arrival in England of ir Charles Tupper, the veteran anadian statesman, utraishes a ondon Daily Chronicle writer with ome interesting reflections that London Daily Chronicle writer with some interesting reflections that now, more than ever, it is the day of the old man with vitality.

Sir Charles Tupper is, at ninety-one, still hale and hearty. He carries memory back a long way, for he is the sole survivor of the "Fathers of Confederation," as the framers of the Constitution of Canada, the men who weled the scattered provinces of British North America into of the Constitution of Canada, the men who welded the scattered provinces of British North America into a new nation, are called.

"The first time I came to England was in 1840," said Sir Charles, when he arrived in London recently, after making his sixty-fourth trip across the Atlantic. "I crossed the Atlantic in a brigantime of 180 tons, and we were forty days getting from St. John to Lough Foyle."

In the ranks of the veterans one of the most interesting figures is Sir George Birdwood. He attributes his long life "to a certain playful devilry of spirit, a ceaseless militancy, quite suffragettic, so that when I left the India Office I declared I would live another ten years instead of one, which was all an insurance society told me I was worth." His extraordinary amount of knowledge on out of the-way subjects, which earned him in India the fitting nickname of "Dictionary Birdy," has not put him out of love with life, and at eighty-one he declares that the old man of vitality is the youngest man in the world.

Lord Wemyss, at ninety-four, is perhaps the most astonishing of the Old Guard, which, like Napoleon's veteran corps, may die, but never surrenders. At eighty he could produce a fine piece of statuary; at ninety-two he could play an excellent game of golf and drive his own motor-car. Lord Wemyss is the only legislator now living who sat in the temporary building which was erect game of golf and drive his own motor-car. Lord Wemyss is the only legislator now living who sat in the temporary building which was erected after the old House of Commons was burned down, and utilized while the present House was being built.

With Lord Wemyss must be bracketed Lord Halsbury. At eighty-seven he still enjoys life. He will never regard himself as old emough to do nothing. His secret of long life is, perhaps, that he has never given up work, and to-day he often puts in as hard a day as anyone in the legal world At eighty-five he found that he was just young enough to begin the great work of reducing the whole of the law of England into a handy and complete work of twenty volumes. He is a believer intearly rising, hates tobacco, and has never touched it all his life. He never went to school, yet he reached the highest position open to his profession.

No More True St. Bernards The Hospice of St. Bernard has lost much of its former importance through the opening of the tunnels between Switzerland and Italy, but through the opening of the tunnels between Switzerland and Italy, but it still employs its famous dogawrites a correspondent.

It is no longer the custom, however, to send forth the dogs with baskets of food and wine; a man always accompanies them; and the animals employed are not really of the famous St. Bernard breed. The true St. Bernard originated in the fourteenth century through a cross between a shepherd dog from Wales and a Scandinavian cross-breed, half Great Dane and half Pyrenean mastiff. The last pure descendant of the tribe was buried beneath an avalanche in 1816.

Those who wish to see a true St. Bernard dog may do so in the Natural History Museum at Berne, where the stuffed body of the tamous Barry is preserved. A popular story has it that Barry, having gone to the rescue of a traveler, was mistaken by the man for a wolf, and shot as such; but he seems really to have died in the course of nature at Berne, nearly a hundred years ago. There is plenty of St. Bernard blood left, however, crossed with other strains, and the fame of the breed can never perish.

One of the happiest compliments sver paid to Gladstone was Lord Houghton's.

"I haven't seen you for ages. I live the life of a dog," said the hardworking statesman.

"Yes," said Lord Houghton, "of a working statesman.

"Yes," said Lord Houghton, "of St. Bernard, the savior of men."

When Arnold Bennett Forgot. Arnold Bennett, says The Daily Sketch, loves to be taken for a Paris-ian. He knows his Paris well, and ian. He knows his Paris well, and has written of her magic nights. At luncheon one day, in a little resturant just off the Boulevard des Italiens, he asked a friend of mine: "If you didn't know, would you take me for an Englishman?" "Of course," replied his companion, eyeing him maliciously over his wine glass. "More than that, I could name your county —Staffordshire!" "What in the world makes you say that?" inquired the mortified nowelist. "Deduction, my dear Watson, deduction," crowed my friend; "every time the waiter brings you a plate automatically you lift it and turn it over to see the 'pot mark'—the maker's imprint." -the maker's imprint.
