dangling before their eyes. The Government held out the promise that they would abolish the Legislative Council...

The Budget Debate in the House of Assembly.

Mr. Barberie opened his speech with a reference to that of Hon. Mr. Crawford, and continuing, said, "I cannot call his speech high-toned, nor yet low-toned; but it was a desponding tone in view of the down-fall of the Government. He dwelt on some of the Acts passed by the Government, but if all the acts are like their acts they are poor acts. Why, all the Acts they passed, such as the Attachment and Garnishee Acts, are dead letters to-day; but it is said they are going to be revived. I cannot call this system of things wise legislation. The last speaker has been in the Government for many years, and the Attorney-General, it seems to me, has been there since Confederation, up-stairs and all around. I am informed that the bark on every shore of the land is worth eight dollars. If the Government had sold the bark and trees only a larger revenue would have accrued to the Province. The Surveyor-General has failed to show that he has managed the Crown Lands as he should have.

"NOW, I HAVE YOU!" It was not only on the school question that the Surveyor-General and Chief Commissioner differed from the Government. We remember how the Chief Commissioner assailed the President of the Council who now sits in the Chamber. He may smile, and a captivating and fascinating smile. He wined these gentlemen who opposed him on, one by one, but then he could say, "Now I have you; you must keep your mouth shut."

The member for Charlotte, the other day, in an able speech, showed the importance of conserving the hemlock lands. We find, however, that a large quantity of this land was sold in Kent to Messrs. Miller at a nominal price, and I am informed that the bark on every shore of the land is worth eight dollars. If the Government had sold the bark and trees only a larger revenue would have accrued to the Province. The Surveyor-General has failed to show that he has managed the Crown Lands as he should have.

THE EXPOSÉ. This patched up Government, as I may call them, have devised no means of settling our lands or encouraging immigration, and our people are going away to the great Northwest. Between the Upland and Grand Falls there is a tract of 80 miles of land, with which no land in New Brunswick can compare, and it is a shame to see it lying there unused. It should be opened up by a road, on which people would settle and clear the land. There would be a market on the very spot, for one of the largest lumbering districts in New Brunswick is there, and such settlement would help the lumbermen as well. We should send out pamphlets showing the advantages of our own province and thus prevent the whole tide of emigration from going west.

THE FISHERIES. I wish to say a word about the inland fisheries. They belong to the province, and the Government has been lax in their duty in letting the Dominion have control of them. I want the Provincial Government to depart from the Dominion every time that has been obtained from leasing these fisheries. We want more than a conversation, we want something in black and white, and an answer to that. Why don't our Government take a stand? First look at the Restigouche where the poor men, though aggrieved, cannot afford to go to law. The fishery officers are given tyrannical powers; they can take a man's net and incorporate him without a trial, and this will all admit ought not to be tolerated. All the people are opposed to the hatchery, and the fish are decreasing in consequence of the bad management of the Dominion Government. By the Dominion Government own a stone in that river? They do not. We know that the right of the soil is in the Province. I hope the Attorney General will promptly deal with this matter. If I moved for some correspondence regarding it the other day and have not yet obtained it. The Government, from what I have told them, must see the necessity of having this matter brought to a final issue.

TO BE SETTLED. I hope they will have time to do so before the elections, for probably the Attorney General will go buzzing around, and they say that the Provincial Secretary will be made a Judge and the Chief Commissioner will not get with us again, and the member for St. John may go some where else with his statistical part with him of course, and the member for Northumberland is also going to be elevated. I will now refer to the Grand Southern.

THE GRAND SOUTHERN. The leader of the Opposition, Mr. Ritchie and I contended that the Government had no right in point of law to pay the salaries to the Grand Southern, and the judgment of the court shows that we were correct. The Provincial Secretary last year asked the House to suspend their judgment until the matter was decided by the highest court in the land. The Government ventured to pay the money on a judgment of Judge Palmer's, though I contend they should wait until the court decided they had a right to pay the money. If the Government had a right to do this, they might as well come and inform the House that they have found out a law by which they can do anything they want to.

UPPER NOVA'S COUNTRY. When we go to our duties to perform, and honorable members should perform these duties independently of party; and no honorable gentleman should place himself in such a position that his tongue is tied. Oh, Mr. Speaker, there is too much of this done. It is a serious matter and I would not on any account stand in such a position. I regret that the member for Westmorland and the Chief Commissioner were so easily caught by the craft of the wily leader of the Council. Why, when I was elected, I thought we would all be together. I thought we would be together in the light of his conscience. Your expenses when Surveyor General should have been heavier, for you visited our county more; you visited our county twice in a year once.

LEGISLATIVE COUNCIL. Talk about this Legislative Council business. At the time of the election, in 1878, there was considerable talk of abolishing it. At the opening of that new House there were a good many green backs round, they called themselves independent, so the Government pretended that they would abolish the Legislative Council, and that they would return to the Legislature. I charged the Government then with being insincere and this charge has been borne out. The keeping seats open in the Council has a tendency to make members support the Government who would not otherwise do so. The facts are before us now, and members are held tongue-tied in view of these seats, which are kept dangling and practically suspended over their heads.

THE TOWN OF CHATHAM. The new men who entered the Government in 1878—you will remember it very well, Mr. Speaker, some were whipped out and others whipped in—try to make us believe the people were with them, while they were against you and Mr. Kelly. These gentlemen had as much business to go out as you had, Mr. Speaker. These gentlemen are before me now; Peter, Simeon, Daniel and Hiram. Mike, they are the men who joined the Government, they contended, and they have no business to charge others with inconsistency. Even if Mr. Ritchie supported the Government on the Grand Southern matter in 1878, he can justify his act quite as well as Mr. Elder, who voted against them on that question. If Mr. Ritchie did support the Government in 1878, he had a good right to oppose them when he found them corrupt and unfit for confidence. I must congratulate the Surveyor-General on the length of his speech, though I cannot say much as to its depth. I thought from his remarks that there never had been such a Surveyor-General as himself. He might have left it for his colleagues to praise him for, instead of doing so himself.

REVENUE AND FINANCE. He gave us statistics about the settlements, but, Mr. Speaker, some of the free grants settlements were in your day, though he claims credit for this. This is all very well about the free grants and labor acts, but when we see that the Surveyor-General showed the revenue from the lands sold by the Government, in 1880, 3,000 acres of the best farming and very rich lands in our county were sold at the head of the Restigouche river. It was put up in the name of Joseph Myrshall, acting for the Government. If it had been held for timber lands, it would have brought many times the revenue that it did when sold out and cut. The same thing was also done in Restigouche. Yet people, after reading the Surveyor-General's speech, and not knowing the state of things, will say with an excellent application, "I thought from his remarks that there never had been such a Surveyor-General as himself. He might have left it for his colleagues to praise him for, instead of doing so himself."

THE ROTARY STEAM MILL, situated at the lower end of Chatham, opposite Middle Island, known as the head of the Restigouche river. The mill was put up in the name of Joseph Myrshall, acting for the Government. If it had been held for timber lands, it would have brought many times the revenue that it did when sold out and cut. The same thing was also done in Restigouche. Yet people, after reading the Surveyor-General's speech, and not knowing the state of things, will say with an excellent application, "I thought from his remarks that there never had been such a Surveyor-General as himself. He might have left it for his colleagues to praise him for, instead of doing so himself."
