

SIR SAM HUGHES DISLIKED PERLEY

Your statement that "My time and energies although urgently needed for more important duties have been very frequently employed in removing difficulties thus unnecessarily created" is also news to me. Why was I not informed of it? If you meant your time was given up to listening to the complaints of disappointed or over-strung people—I can understand it. In war time in all countries, criticism of all measures abounds. In the eyes of some, everything done is "wrong." I, too, had more than my fair share of uninformed criticism even from well-meaning friends.

Separate Department.
Your statement further that "you seemed actuated by a desire and even an intention to administer your department as if it were a distinct and separate government in itself," is also news to me. It is true that I did not always attend council to see my recommendations through; I was engaged in other work, but if you will permit me to make a comparison I have yet to learn where once the Finance Minister of Canada brought before council any proposed loan for the Dominion of Canada or any single important act concerning the administration of that department. The same observations apply to the Minister of Trade and Commerce.

Moreover, it is difficult for me to recall where you have actively supported me in the passage of any order-in-council concerning the upbuilding of the militia when opposed by two members of the cabinet usually antagonistic to anything proposed by me. As you are aware it took up four months in the midst of this great war to fight through the principles of purchasing, for the second division, trucks at the lowest wholesale prices instead of allowing large commissions to local agents who would have nothing whatever to do with securing the order.

Protests from Colleagues.
Your next paragraph is that—"On many occasions but without much result, I have cautioned you against this course which has frequently led to well-founded protest from your colleagues."

You will pardon me but I can recall but one such instance, namely secret service. I do remember you asking me, on one occasion, to submit orders-in-council, where possible, before incurring large expenditures, but the reason you assigned was not protests from my colleagues over my action, but that it was to set an example so as to assist you to control others. You instances the post office department where projects had been undertaken without authority by order-in-council; and I remember distinctly you stated that some boats had been purchased and other large expenditures incurred without your knowing anything about it and without any order-in-council.

Claims Infringe.
Your next instance is concerning the proposed sub-militia council in England. On November 1st I wrote you in reply to your letter of October 31st giving a full statement. Sir Robert, I have known and experienced, for a long time, the meddling and intrigue which has been going on. More than a year ago I understand, you had it in contemplation to get Sir George Perley in control in England. I was assured in April last, that the plans which you have now carried out, were under contemplation. I was further assured the first week of August of this year that the plans were practically completed. However, as you had not spoken to me about it, as in honor bound, I did not credit the stories. True to your suggestion and to our undertaking regarding the formation of the proposed sub-militia council and wishing to make it as perfect as possible, I pursued the course outlined in my letter of November 1st.

The organization had to be put into shape and tested out. That had not been completed when I left England. Therefore your position on this is untenable. I had observed your every wish. Further you were notified, and every one connected with the proposed sub-militia council was definitely notified, not once, but repeatedly, that the whole proposition was tentative and certainly would be changed as circumstances developed. This will be borne out by everyone associated with the proposed sub-militia council.

Separate Minister of Militia.
I am free to admit, however, that the question of a separate minister of militia in England never once presented itself to my imagination. There is no more need for a separate minister of militia for the forces in England than there is for those at Camp Borden, Camp Hughes or any other large camp in the country.

You state:
"I conveyed to you on the 31st July a clear intimation that upon so important a proposal involving consideration of the gravest moment the cabinet must be consulted before action was taken. All the members of the government have full and direct responsibility in respect to the very important matters which the proposed council would advise upon and direct. The intimation which was given to you in my telegram of 31st July should not have been necessary. As soon as it was received you proceeded to disregard it."

The first sentences of this quotation are absolutely true, and it is my belief that had you been actuated by the best interests of the force, instead of favoritism, that cablegram would never have been dispatched.

Second Statement.
Your second statement is that: "As soon as it was received you proceeded to disregard it." I think you must now be convinced this is a grave error on your part. You were notified the very first instant any temporary conclusion was arrived at. I am not aware that "the principle of joint responsibility upon which constitutional government is based" requires that anyone should be privileged even unintentionally to misrepresent facts concerning another. Therefore my letter of November 1st may, while absolutely true, seem in this regard emphatic. You take exception to the general character and tone of that letter. Well, Sir Robert, each one's manner is his own. It might be well if we could all possess your soft mannerism but I am very much afraid, judging by all periods of history, that human nature also the consideration of East Northumberland (Chatham) Fund's action in reducing the amount of the patriotic grants, which reduction, it was stated in the meeting, was thirty per cent all round.

Does Some Persuading.

I have perused my letter of November 1st very carefully and have also perused yours of October 31st. Your actions and manner to me at any period in the past, excepting when you would be in trouble in the opposition days and since, while, as a rule, courteous, have never been apparently frank or loyal. Even in the early opposition days, when a very few of us repeatedly stood by you and overthrew the agitators against you, you rewarded loyalty by preferring those who had been untrue to you. As said in the early part of this letter, I have also the consideration of East Northumberland (Chatham) Fund's action in reducing the amount of the patriotic grants, which reduction, it was stated in the meeting, was thirty per cent all round.

James Falconer bought a horse from P. E. Island last week, and almost immediately it broke out of the stall and took to the woods. He found it half perished four days afterwards, near Patterson siding, five miles from town. The animal is now none the worse for its adventure.

Mrs. Bertha Woods has been notified that her husband, No. 111,533, Pte. John Woods, who has been invalided since 4th with a wounded thigh, is unemployable.

Tenders Resignation.
I therefore most unhesitatingly tender you my resignation to take effect so soon as I can remove my belongings from the department, of which I shall give you prompt notice. For the future, permit me to say that it shall afford me pleasure to support every act, every proposition, coming from whom it may which will tend towards the successful protection and welfare of the soldiers who are so manfully sacrificing themselves in the great cause of human liberty.

Sincerely yours,
(Signed) SAM HUGHES.

LETTER FROM PRESIDENT OF THE EUROPEAN WAR VETERANS' ASSOCIATION

To the Editor of The Standard:
Sir—Will you do me the favor of publishing the following:
"Members of our association are often accosted on the streets and congratulated by friends on being lauded financially by recent tournaments held for the benefit of returned soldiers. Now this is very misleading and our members wish the public to know that our association, known as the European War Veterans' Association, have received no benefit financially whatever from the recent tournaments and fairs, that is the 15th show at the Imperial or the Barrack Green sports or the Halloween Fair. And our association is quite distinct from the Soldiers' Welcome and the Returned Soldiers' Aid Commission for whose benefit the recent entertainments were held. All of our members are men who have seen service at the front only and are returned as unfit for further duty through wounds or sickness contracted on active service. On one occasion the Returned Soldiers' Aid Commission very kindly helped one of our members by sending him to River Glade Sanatorium. In publishing this we wish the general public to know the difference in the associations and any benefit being run for us will be under the heading of the European War Veterans' Association, St. John, N. B.
Yours Truly,
BUID TIPPETT,
President, E. W. V. A.

DEATH OF DR. PERCIVAL LOWELL, ASTRONOMER.

WORLD WIDE FAME.
The death is announced at Flagstaff, Arizona, of Dr. Percival Lowell, founder and director of the Lowell Observatory there, and an astronomer of world-wide fame. Death was caused by apoplexy.

Dr. Lowell was the principal exponent of the theory that the planet Mars, the one nearest the earth, is inhabited. Other astronomers regarded his Martian theories as fanciful, and many of them were not generally accepted. Dr. Lowell was a very wealthy man and devoted his riches to the development of his pet hobby, astronomy. He announced the discovery of vegetation on Mars, with the inference that the planet was inhabited. His observation of the so-called canals on the planet led him to announce that he believed they were artificial and not natural.
Dr. Lowell was born in Boston 81 years ago. He was a brother of President Lowell of Harvard University.

Notes on British trade for the month of October, 1916:
Liverpool—There is more activity in most directions, and the general situation is more satisfactory and promising. The shortage of labor, owing to the war, is bound to have its influence on the situation.

Sawn timber has been in better demand and prices are firm. Primes and other descriptions have been more inquired for and prices have stiffened. Spruce Deals—Unsold cargoes are now very limited in number and there is a more active competition for those available. The consumption has been disappointing. Prices are firmer and are likely to advance during the winter months.

Hemlock has been in better demand, but only at low prices. Birch has been difficult, owing to the import restrictions, but an improved demand was experienced. Pine is unchanged.
