"This is a bright, breezy book, both interesting and instructive. We can most conscientiously comment this book generally, as one of the most sprightly, attractive and instructive works of its kind that has fallen under our observation."—Boston Evening Traveller, May 6th, 1871. "The force, raciness and robust manliness of Mr. Bennett's style and mode of treatment will arrest attent in and excite interest in quarters where preaching or writing of the average quality would fall flat and dead."—Home and Foreign Record. March, 1871. "So plain yet so suggestive, so practical yet so profound are these Lectures that while ou read them you feel their deep ruth and reality; that you are in contact with realities both visible and invisible; that you are in close contact with the beating heart of nature and humanity, and that all their life and hope flow full and free from God alone."—Fredericton Head Quarters, March 1st, 1871.

"The writer is evidently well acquainted with the literature of his subject, and that acwith the literature of his sunject, and that acquaint ince reveals itself almost unconsciously in every page. There is no ostentation of reading or learning, but there is every where the gleaming forth of light which cannot be hid. The style is simple, intelligible, graceful. It shows at once that Mr. Bennet is a man of literary culture, who can express his thoughts with scholarly chasteness and good taste. We could not open a page without meeting some thought vigorously expressed. The work is eminently fresh and readable. "—Pres. Witness,

Halifax.

"He reveals in the treatment of his themes strong common sense, a firm grasp of thought, a logical acumen and a clear insight into human character. Even when dealing with trite ideas he imparts to them a novelry and interest by which they are lifted into an importance they scarcely deserve. The style throughout is lucid, pure, compact, forcible,—and it is his own—the garb of his own thinking. We have met in our perusal of the book with numerous paragraphs of finished and brilliant rhetoric—fine specimens of pulpit oratory. He is never tame nor tiresome. We have not found one sip shod sentence in the volume."—Christian Visitor, (Baptist) March 6th, 1871. "We were not prepared to find him writing in such a finished style and issuing such a volume as 'the result of certain preparations made for an evening lecture to his congregation.' If all his pulpit perfermances are equal to these, his people have reason to rejoice in the Providence which guided his steps to them."—Evangelical Witness, May 1st. 1871.
