was arrested in Sheffield Street, and fined $6 for the offence.

George Farrell and Eliza Neptune went to the police station, as they had no other place to spend the night. They were provided with lodgings, and allowed to depart this morning.

James Stackhouse was charged with assaulting James Patton. It seems that they are neighbors in Brussels Street, and Stackhouse put some clay in an alley, which soiled Patton's boots, when he walked over it. The latter therefore went to visit Stackhouse to ask him to remove the offending mud, which he refused to do, and tried to throw Patton down stairs. For this the warrant was issued, and after considerable testimony being taken, and a war of words between the proceedings, as he intended to carry his case to a higher Court. The Magistrate promised to give them, when he padd his fine.

casions. Stokes was brought into the court at 10.30 o'clock, looking well, the only perceptable change being that his halr is a little more grey. He looked calm and confident, and was seated behind his counsel with his mother and sister. His counsel were Lyman Tremaine, Messrs. Dos Passos & Brainard; District Attorney Phelps and Aasistant Attorney Phelps and Attorney Phelps and Attorney Phelps was drawn contrary to the statute on the 10th of Sept. 1873, and that it was not drawn from the full panel as required by law, also that the panel from which it was drawn was selected from bankers, brokers and merchants, excluding mechanics, laborers, and other respectable classes of the country being taken, and awar of words between the proceedings, as he intended to carry his case to a higher Court. The Magistrate promised to give them, when he pand his fine.
