Mrs. John Grabeck, of Kearney Junction, Nebraska, Friday morning killed a little stepdaughter four or five years old by knocking the child down and jumping upon her, with her feet in a fit of anger. The woman tried to poison the child some time ago but failed.

Thus a dark and decrease with the control of the control of the child some time ago but failed. 'Twas a dark and dreary eve in Kentucky. A lady, young and beautiful, was tucky. A lady, young and beautiful, was observed to walk gently out of the parental mansion in a small town. A youth to fortune and to fame unknown waited at the gate. "Is it thou?" said Miranda. "It is, it is," said Ferdinand. "Let us go before my haughty sire discovers us," said she, and they had almost reached the minister's abode when the old gentleman trotted up. He wasted no words. He merely escorted the young and beautiful one back to her childhood's home, and seven deplay as a beautiful one back to her childhood's home, and soon deplay as the first price for Frankly kewing man and condole with him him upon six small town grin when they see that young man and condole with him him upon six (6) cups and saucers and fifty cents worth of sugar and coffee he had provided for housekeeping.
