Hunker and Dominion Active From One End to the Other—Frosty Nights Still Prevent Sluicing From Becoming General Condition of the Roads.

To one who had not been outside would be, all traffic now being moved the city limits of Dawson in over two years the contrast between the appearance of Hunker and Dominion road is but fair to Caribou but below that point as far down as 86 below town it is dry and in places dusty, a regular boulevard over which it is a pleasure to drive. Unless a heavy rain should fall, by the first or middle of June the roads will be in such excellent shape that no better outing could be had than a trip behind a good team over the length of Hunker and Dominion.

The first evidence of work encountered is at a point about equidistant between the Ogilvie bridge and the Deverer where alongside the road is a shaft it is though the man who sank it was not prospecting for gold but he did find any gold. What he did find, however, was a vein of mineral water which it is claimed is second only to the genuine Lithia.

Bear creek on Saturday was running about three sluicethouses though but very little sluicing was being done on account of the coldness of the nights. Berry & Fields at the mouth of Bear have a number of tremendous dumps out and are still hoisting with their self dumper. They have a gang of carpenters getting out squared timbers for use in their summer working which it is said will be conducted on an enormous scale.

The first outfit on lower Hunker to be observed sluicing was on Dago Hill which on account of its altitude is in a particularly exposed position where all the benefit of the sun is secured. Dago pup from a distance looks like a hay field covered with bay hillocks. The property taking up the entire pup and the hillsides adjoining was bought last summer by Alex McDonald who caused the muck and moss to be groundsluiced, the hillock shaped affairs being the fingerheads and other matter that can be gotten rid of by burning. Enormous pumps have been installed at the mouth of the pup this winter and the ground, which is said to be shallow, will be hydraulicized this season.

Since the breakup of the creeks between Hunker has caused not near the same damage that Bonanza has. Dumps have been undermined nor is any danger of such happening likely. Last night was the highest stage that has been seen this season when the water overflowed the government road in front of the Arling in mahouse at the mouth of the creek, but doing no damage whatever. The road for the most part up hill is very heavy and hard on, though the reason of such is a fact that could scarcely be observed without macadamizing the entire length, the mud being the natural result of the thawing of the mud which constitutes the top dressing in many places. Quite a force of men is at work opening up the drains on the side of the roadway and as fast as they are cleared thus affording better drainage the quicker the mud will disappear.

Reaching the summit on the left fork there is still several feet of snow remaining across the divide and the Lombard gulch for possibly a mile. The snow is very hard so that traps are run as easily as sleighs.

RUSSIA OUTLINES HER DEMANDS IN MAIL SERVICE

Special to the Daily Nugget.

London, May 5.—A Pekin correspondent gives a careful summary, which is regarded as authoritative, of the Russian demands in regard to Manchuria. The preamble begins by stating that Russia and China have been friendly neighbors for two centuries and have a continuous frontier of 3,000 miles. Interference by strangers in their mutually friendly authority would impair them and impede a friendly settlement of affairs. Therefore Russia considers it a duty to guard these stations against alien interference and especially as affecting Manchuria. Russia has sacrificed thousands of lives and millions of money to pacify the provinces of Mukden and Ningchuan and the treaty port provided China gives the pledges demanded.

SUPREME COURT ORDERS NEW TRIAL

Special to the Daily Nugget.

Ottawa, May 5.—The supreme court handed down judgment today in the famous case of Belcher vs McDonald. The judgment allows the appeal and orders a new trial of the case and requires the respondent to defray the costs of the supreme court as also the costs involved in the court of appeal and of the original trial.

The appeal to the supreme court was taken from a judgment handed down by the supreme court of British Columbia:

By that judgment a claim for $50,000 was dismissed, being the balance on a note of $100,000. The demand for an accounting of the cleanup of for seven hundred thousand pounds of gold and silver thousand pounds of silver was rejected on the same conditions the tender to be made by

John J. McDougall of whom main tion has formerly been made as being out of his right mind was arraigned before Magistrate Wrighton this morning on the charge of insanity. The fact that he is mentally unbalanced was proven by the evidence of several policemen, L. E. Miller, Thor Chisholm and Police Surgeon Thompson. On recommendation of the latter McDougall was held for one week during which time his case will be under Dr. Thompson's observation. McDougall's actions are more of a silly than insane nature, but it is apparent that his mind at present is far from being sound.

RICH MAN IN BONDAGE

Held by Yaqui Indians for Ransom

Declined to Pay and Mexican Soldiers Will Attempt to Rescue.

Special to the Daily Nugget.

Mexico City, May 5.—Martin Erickson, a multi-millionaire who was recently kidnapped by Yaqui Indians near Sonora, Mexico, is still held for a ransom of $500,000 which he refuses to pay. General Meno has ordered both Col. Kosterlitzky and General Lorenzo Torres to set in motion all the military forces at their disposal for the purpose of rescuing Erickson.

If a pessimist who during the winter has predicted and insisted that the country was worked out and was on the down hill were not convinced of the error of his opinions by a tour of Hunker, he should cross over to Dominion and down the creek that enjoys the distinction of possessing the longest continuous pay streak or any of the creeks yet discovered in the Yukon. The operations of the winter extend even some distance above upper discovery, the dumps being plainly seen from the road as it winds its way down Lombard gulch. From upper discovery to Caribou the operations have not been as extensive as in the past as many of the claims in that vicinity are now worked in the summer instead of the winter, but below Caribou down as far as 86 below there is but one continuous succession of heavy mining plants and enormous dumps. Particularly is this true between lower discovery and 38 below lower. At 7 there is a sufficient settlement to constitute quite a village and at 33 there is another, with the probability of a third springing up at 86 where John Englund has a fine large two story roadhouse. Not only are the creek claims working but in almost every instance the left limit hillsides are also found to be equally as rich. In the 80's both creeks and hills are either being worked or preparing to in many instances which is also true of the 90's. In the 100's below there is a great deal of prospecting being done extending down as far as a mile or two below the mouth of Sulphur at 264. Dominion will soon be if it is not now the banner creek of the Klondike.

Many of the claims on lower Hunker will enter the list of producers this year for the first time some of them possessing claims that can be characterized only as enormous. The claim at the mouth of Last Chance has been vigorously worked all winter as have others in the 80's, over half of the 70's have large dumps, on 70 and 71 there being a large dump that will be ready for the water in a few days. No. 69, 67, 61 and 60 have very large dumps and will begin sluicing this week. One of the largest dumps below discovery is on 59 operated this year on a lay by the Moore brothers.

Sluicing in general has not yet begun either on Dominion or Hunker on account of the frost at night and the continued coolness of the weather. On Hunker throughout its entire length on Saturday there were but little activity.

Thrown Out of Work

Seattle, April 4.—At a meeting of the Washington Red Cedar Shingle Manufacturers' Association, held here today, an advisory resolution was passed by a unanimous vote, representing 189 mills, to curtail the production of shingles, owing to the dull market in the east and the refusal of the railroads to bill beyond the trunk lines. In all, about 2500 men will be thrown temporarily out of employment.
