....... Metal in any shape or form is not to be allowed to go from Great Britain to Germany. An indication of the eextent of Great Britain's efforts to keep metals out of Germany, may be seen in the official request to pack whatever food may be sent to prison-ers of war in Germany in cardboard or wooden boxes; or if the provisions are such as are usually put up in tin boxes or cans, that glass or earthen-ware be substituted. The export of tin already has been prohibited to the Scandinavian countries and Holland.

The text of the price of coal limitations bill, which was issued recently, specifies that coal may not be sold at the pit mouth at a price exceeding four shillings a ton more than the price at which the same kind of coal was sold during the 12 months ending June 30, 1914. The measure was introduced in the House of Commons by Walter Runciman, the President of the Board of Trade. Violators of the act are liable to a fine not exceeding $500. tations bill, which was issued recentto a fine not exceeding $500.

An inquest was held at the powder mills at Hanworth, near Twickenham a few days ago on the victim of an explosion. It was stated that the deceased was hurled through the air a distance of 250 yards from the glazing house in which the explosion originated, across a river, and through a tiled roof into a vat containing saltpetre. The manager said that only one man was employed at a time in the glazing-house. The witness could offer no explanation of the cause of the accident.
