A game of baseball was played Friday afternoon between Kingsville and amington. It was a very poor exhibition of the popular game. The visitors were no match for the home team and it was made uninteresting to the spectators by the way in which the Leamington players wanted to give those of Kingsville a few runs. The score at the close was 27 to 6 in favor of Leamington.

WHY SINGLE HIM OUT

Asks the Mayor—He Took no Part in the Holiday Dispute.

"Mr. McKellar's letter shows he has been altogether misinformed concerning the civic holiday matter," said Mayor Smith this morning.

"There was no suppression of his letter, as, after reading the letter, I consulted Ald. Scane and he advised me to have the meeting in the afternoon as he would be out of town in the evening. I then took the letter to Mr Austin, chairman of the Oddfellows committee, and told him that there was a requisition for a special meeting, as the Sons of Scotland had a grievance. I added that I would call grievance. I added that I would can the meeting as early as possible, but before calling it I wished he would see the balance of his committee and try and get; the difficulty amicably arranged. As a result of this I understand the Oddfellows offered to agree to a change to the 6th, thus allowing a clear week between their lowing a clear week between their excursion and the Caledonian games. That offer, I believe, was refused.

"I then instructed the city clerk to notify every member of the council to attend a special meeting at 2.30 on Thursday. I also announced the meeting through the press. The result of that meeting is already known.

"Personally I very much regret the clashing of the dates and am willing o do all I can to help along the Cale donian games. To show that my in terest in them is genuine I will gladly contribute out of my own pocket $25 o a guarantee fund against any loss they may sustain. I would not, how-ever, support a grant from the coun-cil to the Sons of Scotland or any other society, because it would prove a very bad precedent. I think in blaming me in this matter Mr. McKellar has been very unjust? I discussed the subject with no one but Mr. Scane and I personally attended the meeting at some inconvenience. I was in no way mixed up with either side and called the special meeting in question purely to oblige Mr. McKellar and his friends. Then, although personally innocent of influencing the decision of the council one way or the other, I am held responsible by Mr. McKeilar for the result. Yesterday morning Rev. Mr. Mowat, professor of theology in Queen's University, died, aged 75 years He was a native of Kingston and a brother of Sir Oliver Mowat. Death came from an enfeebled constitution

Seven years ago he married Jeanne Cote, whose father, an ex-employe of the postoffice, was at the time head of a sect of spiritualists. Jeanne Cote was then 16 years and two months old. The case was considered by a court composed of Mgr. Chanoline Roy, secretary to the Archbishop, and four priests. As it was, only the energetic efforts and presence of mind of Messrs. Smith and Philimore averted a catastrophe.
