Last week the management of the picture house gave us "Desert Blossoms," a picture full of heart interest with William Russell at his best on Wednesday evening. On Saturday they were obliged to substitute for "The Night Rose" as advertised. "The Fend" proved to be more than a substitute and gave a vivid portrayal of the old days in the south before the war, when deadly family quarrels were rampant. A Mutt and Jeff comedy limbered up the bill each evening. Plays for this week in this issue.

The stork arrived at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Scott McAnley on Thursday morning, Sept. 7, leaving a girl.

Get hold of one of Stevens Bros' posters and select from the bargains at the greatest one-cent sale of all.

Rev. H. M. Bell will preach on Sunday, September 17 as follows: Centreville, 11 a.m.; Carvell, 8 p.m.; Centreville, 7:30 p.m. There will be special music at the evening service.

Rev. C. R. Canham will preach on Sunday next, Sept. 17, at 11 a.m.; Greenfield at 8 p.m.; Centreville at 7:30. Every one please attend. Urgent reason.

All roads lead to our town on Tuesday and Wednesday of next week when the Wicklow and Wilmet association hold their annual fair. The fair promises to be a good one and will no doubt draw bumper crowds despite the fact that that everyone gets pretty well fed up with the four weeks of fairs just passed.

Stevens Bros. will hold a one-cent sale on Fair Days. No special explanation is necessary for this sale, as people who attended others of the same nature are still enjoying the memory of getting 20 cents worth for 11 cents, 50 cents worth for 25 cents and so on up the scale. It is in fact the only instance in modern times where one cent has any purchasing qualities to any person over three years of age. Even older kids scorn pennies now, but they will buy you something on Fair Days and days following.

AROOSTOOK POTATO OUTLOOK

The potato outlook in Aroostook is very far from rosy. Not much digging or marketing is just now going on, partly owing to the earliness of the season and largely to the fact that the fairs have not yet got over their business-destroying and work-destroying course. About a dollar is the standard price in Fort Fairfield. Some three or four shippers are buying, but many have not yet begun. A good many fields will not pay for the fertilizer used. When we couple this fact with the fact that we are now undergoing the second hard season, we are led to inquire where the growers of such potatoes will get off? It does not take much of a genius to figure out where. Of course many fields are better than the 80 or 40 barrels to the acre just referred to, and a few are good, but whether any fields are good enough to allow the growers to make even a small profit at the prices they will probably have to take is indeed a question. If Aroostook had only held her seed potato trade, as she could easily have done by industry, great care and absolute fairness and squareness, she would be all right, but she is likely to find over and over again that, considering the terrible freight rates she has to pay, she can not always successfully compete in market stock with states of New York and Pennsylvania, Michigan and Wisconsin.

WOODSTOCK'S ADVANTAGES

The Woodstock Number of "The Busy East of Canada" made its appearance last week. It was exceptionally well printed at the Busy East Press, Limited, Sackville.

C. C. Avard, the manager of the Busy East, spent a lot of his time in Woodstock, preparing articles and deciding on the character of pictures and scenes to appear in the edition. John McKinley of Harvey Studio was the artist who took the pictures, and his work was of very high class.

Besides the well prepared articles by Mr. Avard, several business men wrote on subjects of local importance, and much valuable information was secured and printed that never before saw the light of day.

He who finds he has something to sell And goes and whispers it down a well, Is not so apt to catch the dollars As he who climbs a tree and hollers.
