

A Record Turnout.

At 3.15 p.m. yesterday the s.s. Florizel finished discharging her seals at Bowring's South Side premises and turned out by far the greatest number of seals and heaviest weight of fat ever brought into this country by a single vessel. Immediately the last sling of seals went over the rail to the wharf amidst the firing of rockets from the ship, the crew, who were lined up on the quarter deck, cheered loudly for the firm of Bowring Bros., Capt. Kean and the Florizel, while answering cheers came from the employees on the pier and the crew of the Eagle, lying near. Here are the particulars of this big turn-out of seals as given by the tallymen, Messrs. Kean, Moore and Horwood:—

48,918 Young Harps—	cwt.s. qrs. lbs.
Gross weight	20,831 3 0
Nett	20,176 2 11
146 Old Harps—
Gross weight	132 0 24
Nett	162 2 8
5 Old Hoods—
Gross weight	7 0 23
Nett	6 1 7

Total 49,069 seals.
Gross value $81,200.10
Nett value 90,352.90
203 men share each . . . $148.36

Gross weight . . . 1045 11 0 19
Nett weight . . . 1014 19 1 26
Average weight young harps, 47½ lbs.

This is one of the largest, if not the largest, bill ever made by a steamer's crew, out of this port on a single trip, each man sharing $148.36, while Capt. Kean's pay day yields to him $3,620. The men actually worked 24 days amongst the seals and their average daily earnings was $6.18. Certainly a good day's pay. Capt. Kean is well styled the commander of the sealing fleet now, and his record all through has been a brilliant one. He has been engaged in the sealfishery as commander since 1889, or 22 springs, and in that time has landed 490,603 seals, valued at three-fourths of a million of dollars. Capt. Kean lost the Wolf in 1896. His average for 21 years is 21,362 seals. Mr. F. W. Hayward, the popular cashier at Bowring Bros., had a big contract to pay off the crew, and starting at 7.30 p.m. he had all finished at 9 o'clock, performing the work in a thorough and business like manner. We congratulate both Capt. Kean and Messrs. Bowring Bros. on the outcome of the Florizel's trip to the floes this year, and wish both the ship and her commander many more future successes.

First Aid to Injured.

It will be noticed that an advertisement in to-day's issue gives notice of a meeting in the Board of Trade Rooms, on Monday, with a view of starting a branch of the St. John's Ambulance Society. The object of this Society is to provide instruction and training to all and sundry who attend its classes, in order that they may have the knowledge and skill to render first aid to the injured before expert medical attention is obtainable. Such skill on the spot often saves life and limb to those in distress.

ROSY COLOR

Produced by Postum.

"When a person rises from each meal with a ringing in the ears and a general sense of nervousness, it is a common habit to charge it to a deranged stomach."

"I found it was caused from drinking coffee, which I never suspected for a long time, but I found by leaving off coffee that the disagreeable feelings went away."

"I was brought to think of the subject by getting some Postum and this brought me out of trouble."

"It is a most appetizing and invigorating beverage and has been of such great benefit to me that I naturally speak of it from time to time as opportunity offers."

"A lady friend complained to me that she had tried Postum, but it did not taste good. In reply to my question she said she guessed she boiled it about ten minutes. I advised her to follow directions and know that she boiled it fifteen or twenty minutes, and she would have something worth talking about. A short time ago I heard one of her children say that they were drinking Postum now-a-days, so I judge she succeeded in making it good, which is by no means a difficult task."

"The son of one of my friends was formerly a pale lad, but since he has been drinking Postum, has a fine color. There is plenty of evidence that Postum actually does 'make red blood,' as the famous trade-mark says."

BAD TIMES IN THE COTTON TRADE.

Special Evening Telegram.
MANCHESTER, April 8.
The Master Cotton-Spinners Federation to-day voted in favour of a 5 per cent. reduction in the wages of operatives, and has called a joint meeting of employers and operatives to discuss the matter. The step was taken owing to the depression in the cotton trade. It is believed that the operatives who are already suffering from the effects of the curtailment in work will strongly resent the reduction in wages.

FIGHTING IN BALKANS.

Special to Evening Telegram.
LONDON, April 8.
The Standard Correspondent reports fighting between the Turkish troops and the clansmen who are threatening Pristina. The Turkish troops are reported to be 200 killed or wounded, 40 men taken prisoners, and two guns. The losses of the clansmen are unknown. The Daily Telegraph correspondent says that after fierce fighting with the clansmen they withdrew to the mountains pursued by the Turks, who had two officers and 40 soldiers killed.

MARSHALL BROS.

How a Fashion Started

Queen Marie Antoinette and the Diplomatic Hair Dresser.

At the end of the year 1781 Leonard, hairdresser to Queen Marie Antoinette, was confronted by an alarming situation: Her Majesty's hair was falling out, and with the fulfilment of this dread event would fall his credit. But with his native "Gascou quickness"—as Leonard puts it in his "Recollections"—he proceeded to save his reputation.

"Madame," said he one day to the Queen, when he saw that the fall of her hair was imminent, "the high head-dress is becoming very common; it is long since the bourgeoisie has taken possession of it and now it is the turn of the common people."

"Good gracious, Leonard, what are you telling me? Do you know it grieves me to hear it? These head-dresses were so becoming to me!"

"And what head-dress would not become your Majesty? . . . I have carefully thought over a total revolution in your Majesty's head-dress. I have even had your portrait drawn with the new arrangement I have in view, and, as I expected, my august sovereign by adopting my innovation would be made younger by six or seven years."

"Do you mean it, Leonard? The head-dress you have in mind would make me look younger?"

"I do not see what your Majesty could gain in that, for many women of the court would take on years to resemble the Queen of France."

"Oh, I do not deceive myself, Leonard. I shall soon be 27, and at that age a style which makes one look younger is always favorably received."

"Well, madame," Leonard continued quickly, while placing a miniature before her Majesty's eyes, "see this portrait; it is a striking resemblance. . . . It is your Majesty, but ten years younger."

"What do I see! The hair cut a few inches from the head."

"Yes, madame, it will be, if you are pleased to consent to it, a coiffure à l'enfant, and you will see it taken up with as much enthusiasm as all those that I have created for your Majesty."

"You are right, Leonard; it is charming! In truth I am but 18 with my hair-dressed like that. . . . But to sacrifice my beautiful hair!"

"Your Majesty will have the satisfaction of seeing all the ladies of the court, all the ladies of France, sacrifice theirs."

"But if the style changes?"

"Who would dare to adopt a new one without your Majesty having first set the example? If some ambitious hairdresser amid the myriad of weaklings which swarm in Paris should dare undertake I would have him reduced to atoms by the Journal des Dames; he would be a ruined man."

"But I prize my hair very much, said the Queen with an air of hesitation, still looking at the portrait."

" . . . Yet I am dying to have my hair dressed à l'enfant."

"Well, madame, since I have been so fortunate as to find a style which pleases your Majesty I must tell you all. For the last two weeks, all my waking hours have been devoted to the service of my sovereign in the attempt to make an agreeable thing of an imperative necessity."

"What do you mean, Leonard?"

"Your Majesty was saying a little while ago that she prized her hair, and I can easily understand it; but unfortunately her hair does not prize her. Before fifteen days it will have entirely fallen out if this very day we do not apply the infallible remedy—the scissors."

"What's that you say?" exclaimed the Queen with veritable fright.

"The least painful of truths, madame, since what I propose to your Majesty while forestalling a great misfortune is entirely to her taste."

"Come, Leonard, no more deliberation; cut it, but do not cut it too short."

"Just enough, madame, to give back to the roots of the hair the vigor it was beginning to lose."

The Queen's beautiful hair fell under Leonard's regenerating scissors, and two weeks afterwards all the ladies of the court had their hair dressed à l'enfant.

Let no one say there is no diplomacy about the King's Cabinet; it is at the bottom of all human combinations.

Municipal Election.

TO THE ELECTORS WITHIN THE MUNICIPALITY OF ST. JOHN'S

Gentlemen:
I have been requested by a number of citizens, to become a candidate for Councillor, in the forthcoming Municipal Election, and after carefully considering the situation, I now announce that I have decided to agree with their request, and respectfully offer myself as a candidate for your suffrage.

I will not just now, enter into any details, as regarding the administration of civic affairs, as I hope to have the pleasure of a personal interview with the greater number of you between this and Polling Day, and thus be in a better position to discuss matters in connection with the business of the City Council, and give a fuller expression of my views regarding matters Municipal. I have in mind at present several plans or ideas, by which many improvements or reforms can, I believe be successfully carried into effect that would tend considerably towards the comfort and health of the city generally, without adding one cent of an increase to existing taxes.

These ideas gentlemen, I will make public, at the proper time.

If honoured by you with a seat at the Council Board, I pledge myself to do all in my power to safeguard your interests, to watch with careful eye, the expenditure of public monies, and that the City obtains a full dollar's worth for every dollar spent, and whenever possible effect such improvements, that the rate-payers and citizens in general, may enjoy many comforts, that up to the present have been denied them.

If you have confidence in my ability to serve you faithfully and well, and elect me as one of your representatives in the Municipal Council, I promise you that I will make a supreme effort to prove myself in every way worthy of your trust.

Gentlemen, I respectfully solicit your support and influence.

Faithfully yours,
JAS. J. CHANNING.
