Britain and Japan Will Accept Principle.

U. S. Plans For Disarmament Agreeable to Both--Naval Experts Urge Caution--Ulster Proposals Not Acceptable to Government--Thousands Will Starve in Western Canada.

ACCEPTED IN PRINCIPLE.
 WASHINGTON, Nov. 14. Great Britain's acceptance, "in principle" of the United States proposals for limitation of naval armaments was today forecasted to-day in a statement on behalf of the British delegation. Japan's acceptance "in principle" at least, has been forecast by statements by Baron Kato and others of the Japanese delegation.

NO DELAY LIKELY.
 LONDON, Nov. 14. A statement issued by a high Governmental authority to-night declared that the British Government and people would respond in the same generous spirit to President Harding's move, and there would be no delay in giving a searching examination to the proposals for a naval holiday.

A JAPANESE COMMENT.
 TOKYO, Japan, Nov. 14. Satisfaction and admiration comprised the keynote of the first Japanese newspaper comment to-day on the United States proposals for a naval holiday.

BRITISH OPINION.
 LONDON, Nov. 14. The American plan for a ten year naval holiday and scrapping of all but limited number of warships calls for much less sacrifice on the part of Great Britain than by the United States and Japan. The view of the naval correspondent of the Daily Mail. "The proposed sacrifice," he says, "would be a heavy one for Japan and the United States, but comparatively trifling for Great Britain, as the latter has not incurred any great outlay on the last new ships just ordered. In plain fact the British navy to-day is third in post war ships, and ocean going submarines, the two factors which will probably count for most in future naval warfare. The real question is whether Japan will be content to accept conditions which place her navy in a position of permanent inferiority." Other correspondents point out that Great Britain has already taken the lead in reduction of naval armaments.

Anaemia

Thin, watery blood is no more nourishing than thin, watery milk—skim milk.

But you can soon enrich thin blood, overcome the anaemic condition and build up the whole system by using Dr. Chase's Nerve Food.

Mrs. F. G. Simmons, 42 Curtis St., Brantford, Ont., writes:

"For about eight years I suffered from anaemia. My circulation was poor, my gums and lips were pale, and my hands and feet were always cold. I was nervous and unable to sleep well. I had frequent headaches, seemed restless and easily worried or irritated. There was a buzzing sound in my ears. Indigestion was also one of my complaints, and I often was attacked by weak spells. I went to all doctors, who told me I was anaemic, but as I did not get any better I decided to try Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, and after the first box I felt brighter and my headaches completely disappeared. I continued using the Nerve Food for quite a while. I am quite well now, and I heartily and gratefully recommend Dr. Chase's Nerve Food to people suffering as I did before I used this splendid medicine."

A NEW PARTY AND A NEW LEADER.

Editor Evening Telegram.

Dear Sir,—It is well known to every voter that everything connected with the Government is done on a supposedly denominational basis. That is each of the three big denominations are represented in all branches of the Government pro rata. Such a parceling out has been going on ever since responsible administration was granted this colony. At any rate that is the theory. The practice, however, does not bear out the assumed hypothesis. Years ago, perhaps, when the Premier and leader of the Government was an Anglican, this equality of denominations may have been more observed than it is to-day, for he it remembered it is over twenty years ago since the Church of England had one of its adherents occupying the position of Prime Minister and leader of the Government. For this reason we will be charitable enough to suppose that is why to-day one-third of the population comprising the members of the Anglican body, have less than their proportional denominational representation in all departments of the Government. Take the House of Assembly to start with. The personnel of that branch of the Legislature is made up of ten Church of England, twelve Roman Catholic and fourteen Methodist, including Salvation Army. The Legislative Council contains four Anglicans, ten Roman Catholics and seven Methodists, with two Anglican vacancies to be filled. Not so very long ago vacant seats in the Council rightly belonging to this denomination were filled by gentlemen of other denominations to suit the political expediency of the moment. In the Executive (Cabinet) there are three (professionally) Anglicans; three Roman Catholics and three Methodists. Conducting the Departments of the Government are three Anglicans, two Roman Catholics, five Methodists (considering that the Prime Minister is also Colonial Secretary) included in the five being two at least who give allegiance to the Salvation Army. And so the tale may be carried on if one were to detail the staffs of each department. Hopelessly outnumbered and kept back from their rightful share of positions under the Government, the Church of England people are beginning to show signs of resentment. In other words they are waking up to the true state of affairs, and ere long they will seek a remedy. If the ecclesiastical authorities will not take the initiative, then the laity in justice to their denominational rights will move, and move to some purpose. The figures we have given are based on the names appearing in the Year Book, and are as accurate as can be arrived at from that not always correct source. It will be seen that in every principal case the Church people have not been given their due. Their rights have been ignored time and again. But now the hour has struck when a change must be wrought. Too long have the Anglicans borne being shut out from their just and equitable rights, and the cry is now arising in this district for an Anglican to lead a party at the polls. That is what Churchmen all around are demanding, and they intend to exercise their claims in the selection of a leader before many moons have passed. Too long have they accepted whatever was handed them without murmuring. Patience has ceased to be a virtue and they no longer will request as a favor, but demand as a right. In 1919, Mr. A. B. Morine, K.C., who for so long and faithfully represented this district was, by the insidious influence of the Fishermen's Protective Union, aided and abetted by the President thereof, beaten at the polls. Yet in his defeat he won a greater victory than those who overcame him. Mr. Morine possesses all the ability, experience and knowledge to make a successful leader. He is, moreover, an Anglican, and has all the courage necessary to control governmental appointments without giving undue favoritism to either denomination. With a new political alignment, a new leader is naturally required. He is, it is believed, ready to hand, and numbers in this Bay are beginning to regret their political antagonism to him and it is quite possible that not many days may elapse ere a largely signed requisition will be forwarded Mr. Morine asking him to make a decision.

Editor Evening Telegram.

Dear Sir,—In your issue of Saturday's date there appeared an article under the heading of "Prohibition in U.S.A." and signed by Mr. Warwick Smith, wherein he states that he has not yet seen in any report of the Wesley Church Literary Association's debate on Prohibition, as to whether the members decided on the respective merits of the Swedish Law and our present Prohibition Law.

In reply, Sir, I wish to state for the information of Mr. Smith, that the decision of the members was that our present Prohibition Law is preferable to the Swedish License Law, which Law, by the way, was found not unsatisfactory even in Sweden, and was abolished, and a bone dry law adopted in its stead.

With reference to our asking for a bone dry law, I may further state that the points at issue were not evaded, as Mr. Smith suggests, but that it was the unanimous decision of the meeting on a resolution introduced after the close of the debate for the evening, a copy of which was published in the "Advocate" the following evening.

Thanking you for space, Mr. Editor, I remain,

Yours, etc.,
 A. E. PELLEY,
 President Wesley Young Men's Literary Club.

Girls, Don't Wash Your Face

Use Liska cold cream instead of any you have never used anything like it. Just try it once, and you will never be without it. Soap and water has a tendency to make the skin rough, and does not cleanse the skin as thoroughly as Liska cold cream. To prove it make this test: Wash your face with soap and water, dry thoroughly, then apply Liska cold cream, massage it well into the skin, then wipe off the superfluous cream with a soft white cloth; examine the skin as you see how much dirt has accumulated thereon. Liska cold cream cleanses, softens and beautifies the skin. For sunburn or after a dusty auto trip there is nothing like it. Its fine after shaving too. Let hubby or brother try it. Just compare Liska cold cream with any other you have ever used, and you will need no further argument to convince you that it's the best. It's put up in tubes, the only sanitary way. Try it tonight. You will be delighted. At toilet counters everywhere including M. Connors, A. W. Kennedy.

Bell Island Poultry Show

The second Bell Island Poultry Association Exhibition opens in the C.L.B. Armoury to-day at Wabana. A deputation goes over this afternoon and returns by special steamer to-night. The judge for the poultry is Mr. Stanley White, Secretary at St. John's, whilst Miss Bremner of Bishop Spencer College judges the fancy art needlework, and Messrs. Lawton and Morley of Bell Island judge the school work and photographs. We congratulate Bell Island on their enterprise and hope their second Poultry Show will be a huge success.

COUNTER-PROPOSALS.
 LONDON, Nov. 14. Informing the Ulster Cabinet that their proposals adopted last week were not acceptable, the British Government to-day forwarded counter-proposals for an Irish settlement to the Ulsterites. Messrs. Sinn Fein sit tight on the side lines. Austin Chamberlain and other Unionist leaders affirm their adherence to promises not to parties to the coercion of Ulster. Chamberlain in a letter to-day says: "It is peace to be secured all parties to this ancient and bitter controversy must show a measure of good will and be prepared for some concessions to the feelings of others." This sentence is typical of appeals for compromise coming from many English papers, which some Ulster papers complain are trying to create an atmosphere of moral coercion.

MONTHS OF NEGOTIATIONS.
 LONDON, Nov. 14. Negotiations among Sinn Fein and Ulster officials regarding the future of Ireland have now entered on a stage in which negotiators are talking of conferences extending over months. This will make it impossible, it is said, for Lloyd George to attend the Washington Conference, which has now attained proportions in British eyes of an event of tremendous and absorbing significance.

RESTORING ORDER.
 LONDON, Nov. 14. Steady progress is being made towards the restoration of order in the disturbed areas of Malabar, the Indian Ocean announced to-day. British Indian forces have undertaken numerous raids, disposing of rebel bands and capturing their supplies, sixty-one rebels have been killed and a large number wounded.

Mr. Shortis Replies.

Editor Evening Telegram.

Dear Sir,—In your issue of last evening, my friend, C.A.E., asks me the question, "If it was not Capt. Edward White Sr., who succeeded Capt. Bert Snelgrove in command of the steamer Hawk, Capt. Wm. Jackman taking command next Spring?"

In answer to my old friend, I emphatically state—"No," and this is the explanation:—

It was in the year 1867, and Capt. Snelgrove arrived in the Hawk on April 9th with 400 seals. Capt. Jackman was in the brigantine Sarah Ann, and arrived with something like 3000 seals, and then took charge of the Hawk on the 2nd trip, arriving in St. John's on 18th of May with 1500 seals.

The next year, 1868, Capt. Jackman was in the Hawk again—the 1st trip he landed 8,500, and on the 2nd trip 2,200. The next Spring (1869) he was first in, arriving on 25th March, 1st trip, with 9,000; the 2nd trip, on April 17th with 4,000, and the 3rd trip on May 18th with 500. As I said before, his success followed him to the end of his career. I thank your correspondent for his kind reference to myself.

Yours very truly,
 H. F. SHORTIS.

How fine cooks make cream soups to-day

Let Your Grocer Be Your Milkman

After eating a rich cream soup somewhere, do you sigh and say to yourself "if I could only afford to use real cream, I could serve soup like that, too!"

The chances are that the soup you would like to duplicate was not made with cream at all. For many fine cooks have learned a culinary secret that makes of cream soups a banquet dish at every day cost.

The secret is—make them with Libby's Evaporated Milk.

For twenty years Libby has worked to give a finer and richer milk to consumers. Their plans were far-reaching. First they sought out the finest pasture lands in America. There they encouraged the breeding of splendid milk herds and the use of all the appliances and practices of scientific dairying. And there they established their milk condenseries so equipped as to assure absolute purity and cleanliness.

At those condenseries the whole milk from the fine herds, with the cream left in, is canned for you. Half the moisture is taken from it by evaporation. Nothing is added to it. So you have in this milk just the rich, pure product of the finest cows, but with twice the food value, twice the butter fat, of ordinary milk.

This milk makes cream soups so smooth, so rich, so mellow that they taste like the soups made by extravagant cooks.

Used in coffee, this milk gives a creamy richness at half the cost of cream.

Try it in your favorite recipe where cream or milk is called for.

Your grocer has it or can get it for you.
