TRACKS OVERFLOODED WITH WATER NEAR SANDY POINT CROSSING.

That part of the railway line known as Sandy Point Crossing, which lies between Howley and Grand Lake, is at present flooded out by water, due to the accumulation of snow which fell there during the winter months. As a result no trains are moving over this section of the line, while the passengers travelling in the East and West directions are compelled to cross over on foot to transfer to the trains in waiting at Howley and Frand Lake. A gang of men are now clearing this section of the road. It is quite possible that the road bed will need repairing before the general
