> The play is woven about a very pretty story. A prince, most gallant and lovable, has been betrothed by proxy to Princess Ida, the heroine of the play, but unfortunately Ida has other views. She refuses to keep to the contract, and proceeds to found a university for women in which they may "learn whatever men are taught. The prince and two young companfons, disguised as women, come to the university. But, as it is at this point that the play opens, it would be un-fair to the students to anticipate.

Former Londoner Struck Luck in the Klondike-Holidaying Here.

Mr. R. T. Elviage, a Klondike mine owner, is at the City Hotel. He is a nephew of County Constable Sadler. The story of Mr. Elviage's life is one of strange viscissitudes and of final success. His experiences have certainly been uncommon, not to say remarkable. He is a native of Delaware, and it was there that he built up a hardy physique that stood him in good stead in succeeding years. The years of his young manhood were spent in this city, which he left when the promptings and ambitions of youth urged him to go to the golden West and seek the precious metal in the mining camps of California. Seventeen years were spent there, and during all that time Mr. Elviage live a typical miner's life sometimes flush with money and at others barely making enough to subsist. a last fling at fortune and risk all in an attempt to strike it rich in the icenorth. Three years ago sailed from San Francisco and landed safely at Skaguay. Then all alone he began the torturous journey over the trail that led through the Chilkoot Pass o Lake Bennett. He walked this distance, pulling a sled that bore the provisions for two years as required by government. While on the Chilkoot Pass and just as he was about cross the summit, the terrible show slide that startled the world and caused a stay of the mad rush Dawsonoccurred. Mr. Elviage helped to take 30 bodies from under the snow. The journey thence to Dawson he made in boats that he built at head of Lake Bennett. He successfully ran two boats through the Canon and White Horse Rapids. On the 14th of June he arrived at the straggling lot of tents called Dawson City. Fortune smiled upon him then. His previous experience was a valuable asset and helped him to withstand the ravages of scurvy and fever that killed off so many of his comrades. says that he secured a valuable claim, worked it for some time, and purchased controlling interests in two more. He is richer now, he says, than he ever dreamed he would be. leaving the north he has been e in San Francisco and New York. Mr. Elviage has with him two small money bags that hold $3,500 in dust and nuggets that he brought down to show his friends. His mission home was to spend Christmas with his mother and join in a family reunion. He will soon return to Dawson to further develop his claims.

The count proved that the fears of civilized world, he determined to take, better than the small one. In nearly twelve polling places there was not one spoiled ballot, which would be a re-markable record in the old days. In one subdivision there were seventeen ballots for school trustee spoiled, and only four of the aldermanic ones. So it will be seen that there was no cause for anxiety about the long paper. In the majority of instances the mistakes were made by citizens voting for too many nominees. One ballot had sixteen votes polled on it, and on another were six votes for a single man. Others also thought that they could give more than one vote for an alderman.

ARGUMENT IN SIFTON WILL CASE.

Reasons Pro and Con as to the Question of Postponement.

The Discussion Takes Up Three Hours of the Court's Time—Two Pleas of the Plaintiffs Put Aside.

Mr. Justice Robertson, who is taking the winter assizes, now in session at the court house, listened attentively yesterday afternoon for more than three hours to the vigorous arguments of opposing counsel for and against the postponement of the trial of the suit of Fitzgerald et al. vs. Morden et al., or as it is more familiarly known, "the Sifton will trial." W. R. Riddell, Q.C., of Toronto, appearing for the defendant, Edward Morden, and Geo. C. Gibbons, Q.C., appearing in the interests of the defendant, Mary McFarlane, were deter-mined in their efforts to have the hearing of the case postponed, but Mr. I. F. Hellmuth, acting for the plaintiffs, F. A. Fitzgerald and John James mined in their efforts to have the hearing of the case postponed, but fit. F. Helimuth, acting for the plaintiffs, F. A. Fitzgerald and John James Sitton, and H. J. Scott, Q. C., of Toronto, acting for the defendants, Mary Sitton, Gerald Sitton, John Sitton and Alley Sitton, were equally determined that the assessment of the case were threefold. The first was that which had already been brought forward in previous proceedings for postponement, that the trying of the will case would prejudice the erown's case against Gerald Sitton, changed with the murder of his father, J. H. Sitton. This argument Mr. Unstee Roberts and Moss. Another ground was that as the second will leaves the property to persons other than the direct issue of the legatee, the government of Ontario is entitled to succession dutlest ax on the estate, and that, therefore, the attorney-general, as representing the Montaro government, should be Montaro government also found little favor in the judge's eyes, he expressing the belief that the attorney-general had had ample opportunity to become a party to the action, and saying that in his opinion the attorney-general had had ample opportunity to Jecome any weight, and that one case in the person of Ephriam Bathurst, who is at orseen any weight, and that one case in the person of Ephriam Bathurst, who is at orseen any weight, and that one case in the person of Ephriam Bathurst, who is at orseen any weight, and that one case in the person of Ephriam Bathurst, who is at orseen any weight, and that one case in the person of Ephriam Bathurst, who is at orseen any weight, and that one case in the person of Ephriam Bathurst, who is at orseen any weight and that one case in the person of Ephriam Bathurst, who is at orseen any weight of the case in the person of Ephriam Bathurst, who is at orseen any weight of the case in the person of Ephriam Bathurst, who is a torseen any weight of the case in the person of Ephriam Bathurst, who is a torseen of the thing of the case in the person of the plaintiffs a mounc

One reason for the anxiety of the plaintiffs to proceed with the case is the enormous expense under which they labor for each day the case is prolonged. While at Buffalo the Grand Trunk representative made a careful inspection of the entire grounds, and reports that the management of the exposition is making favorable progress with the buildings. May 1, he said, will see the opening of one of the finest expositions that have ever been held in America, which, though not quite as extensive as the World's Fair, will exceed in quality anything that has ever been held on the western hemisphere.
