Mrs. Strangeways nodded her head. "Which wouldn't be news, probably. So you aspire to step into Philip's shoes, do you? I don't think you ever will."

"Why not? She likes me, she must like me. She would not, even in a moment of excitement, have asked me to come here every day had she not, and all women want to get married, don't they?"

Mrs. Strangeways looked thoughtful for an instant. "Yes, I suppose they do," she said, hesitantly. "But they want to get married to the right man, not the wrong man. I don't suppose there would be a single old maid in the world if every woman could marry the man she wanted to; for at some time or other during her life every woman does come across some man she would like to call husband. But we women realize more than you men do that it's better to make no bargain at all than a bad one."

"You think I should be a bad one?" "For Leslie, yes."

"And yet I love her very dearly. There is nothing in the world I would not do for her. I would give you my life, but it's true."

Mrs. Strangeways shook her head. "No, I don't believe it," she answered. "There are no chivalrous knights now. Men say 'I do' to this, that, and the other, for the love of a lady, but it's not true; they do it for love of themselves. I suppose there really is a warrant out for Philip's arrest."

"Undoubtedly. He's more of a coward than I should have thought him, and more of a fool, too, to run away. When do you expect Leslie home?"

"When I see her. She's not treating me well, but I suppose I shall receive her with open arms when she comes back. Jasper—she started suddenly and leant forward—you don't think she has gone off to him?"

"To him?" "Philip."

He turned very pale. He rose and looked round him a little wildly, then he sank into his chair again. "To Philip?" he repeated. "No, impossible! She would not go to him like that, not knowing whether he is innocent or guilty. She is not that sort of woman."

Mrs. Strangeways laughed. "Every woman is that sort of woman when she loves," she answered. "Oh, I ought not to have let her go, what could I do?"

"Nothing," Leslie's voice said at the door. She had entered the room unobserved, and stood there listening. "You have not been worrying about me, have you?" she went on. "That was foolish. Jasper, I'm so pleased to see you. She spoke excitedly, her color came and went. "Was that your cab at the door? If so, you might drive me to Scotland Yard, oh, yes! How do you do? Strange, is it not, even in our most excited moments we must be conventional and shake hands?"

Jasper had risen, had come towards Leslie, and held out his hand. She let her soft, cool fingers lay in it coolly, for an instant. "You know I do anything in the world for you," she answered. "May I say, Leslie, that I don't think you ought to be running about alone?"

"No? Then I must not do it, must I? But a woman of property has duties. You have no news, Jasper?"

"None. What do you want with Scotland Yard?"

She shrugged her shoulders. "Nothing, really," she answered. "But sometimes one has to pretend. I ought at least, ought I not, to appear to think Philip innocent? I ought to seem to be doing something for him. I don't want the society paragonists one goes in fear and trembling of these people to write that I am quite heartless. It might," she laughed, "it might destroy my chances."

Jasper's hand almost caught hers again, but, by accident or design, she put hers behind her.

"Of what?" he asked.

"Oh, what we women are always thinking of, she won't be happy till she gets it—I mean marriage, of course. If circumstances over which I have no control prevent my marrying Philip, I must marry someone else, of course, Jasper, are you ready?"

He laughed excitedly. "To marry you?" he said, audaciously. "Yes, this moment, if you will."

She laughed, first at Mrs. Strangeways, then at him. "No, to give me a seat in your cab," she answered. "Come along, you can spare the time, of course? I don't think I shall be home tonight."

Mrs. Strangeways looked angry. "I can't and won't have you running about like this," she said.

Leslie crossed swiftly to her and kissed her. "My dear," she answered, "not one of us can say 'I do.' We are just puppets in the hands of Fate, who pulls the strings. We have to take just what is given us. Come, Jasper, don't—she turned to her friend again—"Don't be cross, dear. If I were not busy, I should go mad; you wouldn't wish that."

Jasper followed her from the house, and they took their places in the waiting hansom, Leslie sitting well into the corner. Perhaps she found it more comfortable. Jasper frowned a little, but said nothing about it. She should creep close to him one day of her own accord, or if not, he would put out his arm and draw her nearer and nearer till he made her quite a prisoner. She was blowing hot and cold now, because, like all women, she was more than half coward. A man loves and unloves in a minute, and does not blush for his fickleness; a woman is a little ashamed even when she does not cling to a human shipwreck.

"You have not heard from Philip?" Jasper asked.

She had been looking through the window. She turned abruptly. "Oh, no, he would scarcely write, would he? It would be impudence, under the circumstances, would it not? Yet Jasper, he would go along, and I do wish, oh, I do, that you did not think him guilty, that you would say so. I would not seem—she shivered a little—"quite so horrible then!"

"Yes, for one cousin to think another guilty of murder! You think him guilty, don't you, Jasper?"

She looked at him anxiously; she waited, it seemed, almost breathlessly. "Yes," he said, slowly. "What else can I think? And, in a way, he halted a little as he talked—"I can understand the deed; no woman can, perhaps, but with a man it is different. You have not been worrying about me, have you?" she went on. "That was foolish. Jasper, I'm so pleased to see you. She spoke excitedly, her color came and went. "Was that your cab at the door? If so, you might drive me to Scotland Yard, oh, yes! How do you do? Strange, is it not, even in our most excited moments we must be conventional and shake hands?"

Jasper had risen, had come towards Leslie, and held out his hand. She let her soft, cool fingers lay in it coolly, for an instant. "You know I do anything in the world for you," she answered. "May I say, Leslie, that I don't think you ought to be running about alone?"

I ought to seem to be doing something for him. I don't want the society paragonists one goes in fear and trembling of these people to write that I am quite heartless. ## WESTERN TANKARD FINALS WILL BRING MANY CURLERS

About Fifty Will Compete in Finals for Trophy.

Scotch Curlers Criticised by Winnipegger—May Go to Henley.

By Way of Comment.

In winning the cup offered for the championship of the Junior City League, the Waterloos have won a good deal of credit for themselves. The victory was the result of nothing but systematic work, and the team have won strictly on their merits. They have been going for years, and have gradually worked into their present shape.

The champion trotting stallion Cresceus, 2:02½, left Toledo in charge of his owner, George H. Ketcham, on Friday last for Ottawa, Canada, to go an exhibition mile at the ice meeting which opened yesterday. Mr. Ketcham is confident that the wonderfully speedy chestnut horse will be able to lower the world's record of 2:18½ for a mile on the ice, though he has never stepped a rod in that kind of going in his life. Ketcham loves Cresceus, as well he may, for his great equine has brought him health and wealth. He delights in relating incidents in the daily life of the champion. "I had the old horse hitched to a cart today, and he was driving along Madison street," said Ketcham. "People were passing us at a pretty lively clip. One driver, who did not know what I had in mind, was driving a horse named a race. 'Shake up the old plug there,' he shouted. Of course, I paid no attention to the challenge, but among the hundreds of people passing not one seemed to be in the quiet sort of the champion trotter of the world. Now, if I had been driving The Abbot or some other of those high-steppers with fancy action, everybody would stop and look. Cresceus goes along, and a sort of an amble, minding his own business, taking it as easy as a family pet, and never gets excited or confused at anything. I believe that horse could trot up to a battery in action, and the noise and din of the cannon would cause him to raise an eyelash. His coolness is wonderful." When Cresceus starts on the ice to beat the ice record of Canada he will wear a bar shoe in front, a five-cups open shoe behind, with patent leather pads under every foot to prevent falling, with a very sharp still calk, made very short and stout. His only work before shipping was on the sand road near the Ketcham farm, and before the late snow melted was jogged daily on the snow path at a good stiff gait. He is in good form.

CURLING.

AN IMPORTANT EVENT.
The playing off of the western tankard series next week at Simcoe street rink is an event of considerable importance in curling circles. Two miles each from ten groups will attend. Each group represents about five clubs, so that in all 50 clubs will be represented. The clubs come from Western Ontario and border towns of Michigan.

POSTPONED TILL THURSDAY.
The colts' finals, scheduled for today, have been postponed till Thursday of next week owing to the poor ice.

STRATFORD WON PRIMARIES.
Stratford will be one of the clubs to contest in the finals for the Western Ontario tankard, they having won in the primaries played at Woodstock.

WON'T BE FINISHED.
Winnipeg, Man., Feb. 12.—Close on a hundred and forty games remain to be played in the bonspiel, and it is doubtful if the finals can be reached this week. McCaughey, of Nepeewa, is now the record holder. He is still in all the open competitions, as well as the Dolge and Tuckett, his only losses being in Thompson, of Portage la Prairie, was yesterday knocked out of the Grand Challenge by Griggs, of St. Paul. Mawhinney, of Holland, has reached the prize class of the Grand Challenge after beating M. Aldens, of Winnipeg. Verner is now the only Winnipeg skip left in this. The ice yesterday was in good shape.

In the Dolge competition Flavell had all he could do to handle Connors, of Cypress River, but he managed to pull out the last two ends and won by one point. Points playing was commenced in the Granite rink last night, the highest so far being 38.

RATHER SHABBY TREATMENT.
Winnipeg, Feb. 11.—Owing to recent occurrences in Winnipeg, which the touring Scotch curlers consider almost direct personal insults, it is not at all likely that the visitors will regret when the time of departure from Can-round horse he has not been excelled. His winnings included the Standard stakes, the Saratoga Cup and the Morris Park weight-for-age race. Alex. Shields, of Toronto, is his owner.

noyed at the action of the press here, which has used a lot of chestnut references to alleged Scottish tendency to drink liquor, and the fact that a commercial institution of national fame has fences covered with posters advertising their brand of whisky by the use of figures of the curlers has not pleased them either.

THE WINNIPEG CONTESTS.
Winnipeg, Man., Feb. 12.—Verner, of Winnipeg, reached a place in the jewelry class of the big trophy when he disposed of Cannon, of Cypress River, at the bonspiel this morning. McCaughey received his first defeat in the open events, when he lost to Matheson, of Russell, in the challenge.

Flavell, of Nepeewa, was knocked out of the Brunswick, when he met R. Mackenzie, of the Thistle. The Lindsay man is still in the Doan and Tetley tea competition. In the Tedley competition, Dunbar beat Flower, of Balduf, 14 to 1. Houdron, of Duluth, beat out Whar, of Fort William, in the international. Aldous, of Nepeewa, beat Griffith, of Glenora, Morrison, of Duluth, fell down before Johnson, of the Granites, by the score of 13 to 4, in the consolation competition. In the Brunswick trophy game, the Tedley team, consisting of Dunbar, beat C. Town, Wawanessa, 16 to 10. J. McFavell, Lindsay, fell before L. C. McKenzie, Thistles, by 5 points after an interesting game.

HOCKEY.
GAME WITH INGERSOLL.
The Ingersoll O. H. A. team will meet the Severn Regiment O. H. A. team at the Jubilee rink next Wednesday. The game will be fast and interesting, both teams being pretty evenly matched. Mathewson will likely play with the Seventh team.

CUP GAMES ON 21ST AND 3RD.
It has been definitely decided that the games for the Curling cup will be played at Waterloo on Feb. 21 and 23. The team which will uphold the London colors will be the regular Seventh team with the addition of Mathewson, a new man, who showed up well at a practice game last night. It was impossible to get the money paid in by each succession of new investors it paid 5 per cent a week to the previous lot, but when the chain failed the whole establishment broke down and the investors, who expected to receive 250 per cent for their money, have lost their capital, as was quite likely in dealing with swindlers. So early are people gulled with brilliant promises that the agent of John J. Ryan, who was covering this territory last week, was offered 40 per cent to tell the canvassers he could get the ear of the failure of the Arnold Company means such a run on the other concerns that the whole lot will probably collapse in a week or ten days.

AT NEW ORLEANS.
New Orleans, La., Feb. 12.—Not a favorite finished first today. The stewards have ordered the refusal of entries of all horses from the E. J. Arnold Company and other co-operative racing firms, pending positive proof that such horses are the individual property of the parties officially registered as owners. Weather was clear, selling, 1 mile—Bud Embry, 98 (Scully), 40 to 1; Marion Lynch, 104

League. The ice was soft and spoiled many fast combinations. The score at half-time was 2 to 0 in favor of Lucknow and ended 6 to 2 in their favor. A CORRECTION.

In the sporting columns of yesterday's issue appeared an account of the Dominion-Canadian Express Companies hockey game, played Wednesday night. It stated that the Dominions won by a score of 6 to 5, while the right score was 5 to 0 in favor of the Canadian Company's team.

CITY LEAGUE GAMES.
Two City League games came off tonight at the Jubilee rink. Both will be hard-fought and interesting. The first is between the Seventh Regiment and St. John's, while in the second the Hortons will meet the Aberdeens.

GOOD FOR STRATFORD.
Stratford Herald: "Man, woman or child, the next person who hisses a referee at a hockey match on Stratford ice is going to be forcibly ejected from the Stratford rink." President Makins has determined to punish offenders, and said today that legal steps would be taken if necessary. In this sort of thing women are no more privileged than men. Right or wrong, the referee should be courteously treated. A whole column might be written along this line, but a word to the wise should prove sufficient. Special officers will be stationed all around the rink, and as soon as a person hisses, out he, she or it will go. This may seem severe, but it will prove painfully true if the offense is repeated.

THE TU RF STABLE DIVIDED.
New York, Feb. 10.—In accordance with the new rule recently passed by the stewards of the Jockey Club, to the effect that in future horses must race in the name and colors of one man, "or the assumed name of one man," the well-known racing firm of J. R. & P. P. Keene has been dissolved, while the young racing partnership, Harry Payne Whitney and Her-

EASTERN CIRCUIT MEETING.
Baltimore, Md., Feb. 12.—A meeting was held in this city today for the purpose of forming a circuit composed of places where horse races will be held during the coming summer. Representatives from Napanee, Peterboro, Platon and Belleville were present, and a Kingston man wrote promising to give the matter his hearty support. It was decided to form a circuit of Peterboro, Belleville, Napanee, Kingston and possibly Ottawa, and a continuous course of races will be held, starting the first week of August.

After racing in one place, the horses will proceed direct to the next, and by arranging matters in this way the expenses will be reduced materially. It is expected that there will be a special car to transport the horses from place to place.

OTTAWA MEET—FOUR ONE.
Ottawa, Feb. 12.—Four thousand persons attended the ice races today, including Lord and Lady Minto, and Hon. Clifford Sifton and party. The track was slushy after yesterday's rain, which was added to by today's warm sun. As a consequence, the world's record-holder, did not trot against time. He was simply driven for exhibition purposes, covering the mile in 2:27. The races were:

WHIST.
WILL BE A CLOSE FIGHT.
Never in the history of the City Whist League has there been such a situation as at present. Three clubs are tied for second place and the Rockets lead. Two games remain to be played, so there is just enough room left to make the result doubtful. The interest among the local players is intense. This week's results were: Court Pride, A. O. F., beat Orientals by 5 points, the Seventh Regiment beat Manhattan by 21 points, Rockets beat Belvideres by 87 points, Car Shops beat Sergeants' Mess by 31 points.

The standing is:

Club	Won	Lost	Play.
Rockets	8	4	8
Orientals	7	5	5
Court Pride	7	5	5
Car Shops	7	5	5
Sergeants' Mess	6	6	6

THE RING.
AMATEUR CONTEST DATES.
Toronto, Feb. 11.—The Argonaut Rowing Club, under the auspices of which will be held this year's Canadian amateur boxing championships, has decided to hold the championships in the Granite rink on April 9, 10 and 11, Good Friday week.

OTTAWA CONTESTS.
Ottawa, Feb. 12.—The boxing bouts held in Harmony Hall tonight were witnessed by 400 people. They were lively exhibitions, characterized by plenty of hard hitting. Larouche, of Ottawa, knocked out McGrath, of Ottawa, 115 pounds, in the first round. Colin Allen knocked out B. McPherson, of New York, 135 pounds, in the third round. J. W. Nichol, of Ottawa, defeated Frank Evans, Quebec, 140 pounds, in a four-round go, and Norman Henderson, of Buffalo, obtained a decision over Percy Mills, of Ottawa, 115 pounds, in a four-round bout.

KNOCKED OUT BY SCHRECK.
St. Louis, Mo., Feb. 12.—"Mike" Schreck, of Cincinnati, practically knocked out "Cyclone" Kelly, of San Francisco, in the fourth round, what was to have been a twenty-round bout before the West End Club tonight. Schreck put Kelly down four times in the second and four times in the third round. Kelly managed to pull through the fourth round by running and clinching, falling once from weakness. Referee Sharp interfered and gave Schreck the decision.

THE OAR.
ARE READY TO GO TO HENLEY.
Toronto, Feb. 12.—George Galt, president of the Winnipeg Rowing Club, who has just returned from a trip to England, announced that if the Argonauts sent an eight-oared crew to the Henley regatta this year, as intended, Winnipeg would send along their champion four-oared crew, who won both the Canadian and American championships last year at Brockville and Worcester, Mass.

candidates will soon commence training, so as to get into thorough condition for the English trip.

BIG RACE IN APRIL.
Oxford, Feb. 12.—In the date of the annual Oxford and Cambridge race has been changed from April 1 to April 2. It is expected that both the Oxford and Cambridge University crews will arrive at Padney during the early part of March, and they will go immediately to the Upper Thames. This will leave but little time for home water practice to either of the crews. Just what the makeup of the crews will be is not definitely known, for several experimental changes have been lately made in the Cambridge crew, and the new men have not had a chance to prove their worth. At Oxford matters are in little better shape. Nothing is definitely settled as to the personnel of the crew. The coaches have an abundance of good material to select from, and the chances are that this year's crew will be the fastest one in the history of the university.

BASKETBALL.
ORGANIZED A TEAM.
A basketball team was organized by the students of the Normal School yesterday, when the following officers were elected: President, Mr. C. E. Watts; captain, Mr. P. Stuart; secretary-treasurer, Mr. W. E. Hay; executive committee, Messrs. Williamson, Westman and Weber. A series of games will be arranged with Collegiate teams.

FOOTBALL.
WILL HOLD BANQUET.
A winding-up-of-the-season banquet will be held on Saturday night at Dufrail Hall by the members of the London Rugby Club. Last year was the most successful year in the club's history.

WRESTLING.
McLEOD WON.
Hamilton, Ont., Feb. 12.—Dan McLeod, the champion, tonight easily defeated Charles Leonard, the New York, N. J., wrestler. McLeod secured two straight falls, the first in 23 minutes and the second in 18 minutes. The curtain-raiser was between Charles Conkle, a local man, and James Elliott, champion of Wisconsin. Conkle succeeded in throwing Elliott in 6 minutes and 3 minutes.
