CANADIAN EXCHANGES CLOSED TILL TUESDAY

TORONTO, July 30.-While the date of the re-opening of the Canadian Stock Exchanges is virtually fixed for next Tuesday, a further postponement may possibly be necessary. The wisdom of closing down business until the war situation clears, is generally admitted. The only transactions in Canadian stocks were those which occurred on the New York Stock Exchange. The most interesting occurrence here was the concourse of bargain hunters in the local houses doing business in the New York market. A considerable amount of Canadian Pacific, Union Pacific, Copper and odd lots throughout the list were purchased either for cash, or on a very substantial marginal basis.
