WILL INTRODUCE BILL TO TAKE VOTE ON O.T.A.

K. K. Homuth Seeks Public's Expression On Beer and Wine Permits.

SUBMIT RACING BILL

Attorney-General Raney Moves
To Prohibit Race Betting
News.

Canadian Press Despatch.
Toronto, Feb. 7.—The introduction by Attorney-General Raney of the bill to prohibit the publication of race-betting information, and the announcement by K. K. Homuth, Government Labor supporter, from South Waterloo that he intends to introduce a resolution calling for a referendum on the O. T. A., featured yesterday afternoon's sitting of the Legislature. While the nature of the referendum, Mr. Homuth's resolution will call for, was not explained by him in his speech today, it has been previously intimated that it would be for a vote on permission to sell beer and wine within the province.

In introducing his bill against the publication of betting information, Mr. Raney stated that it was intended to prevent the publication of information to assist bookmaking. "Publish," the bill sets forth, shall mean the act of writing, typewriting, printing or otherwise making information legible and the act of producing, displaying, distributing, selling or offering for sale and disposing of.

Penalties Attached.

The penalties imposed shall be recoverable under the Ontario summary conviction act. There was no discussion of the bill this afternoon in the House nor any announcement as to when it will be up for second reading when the debate on it is expected. The opinion is expressed that whereas the province has not the power to prevent publications from outside Ontario which carry "selections" and the odds paid by the pari-mutuels or "bookies," being sent into the province through the mails or by other means, the act, it is claimed, would prevent the sale on the streets or from bookstores of outside publications carrying such information. Three speeches were delivered during the afternoon in the debate on the bill to the effect that the government is not to be taken in by the opposition. The speakers were W. E. N. Sinclair, Liberal; K. K. Homuth, Labor; and R. R. Hall, Liberal. D. M. Hogarth, Conservative member from Port Arthur, denounced the debate on the address, and it is expected to continue tomorrow.

Scores Relief Efforts.

"The government is certainly alive to its own interests, whether it is alive to the interests of the province as a whole remains to be seen," said Mr. Sinclair. In continuing the debate on the address, he went on to criticize the public service bulletin and page advertisements appearing in certain newspapers as more intended to glorify the administration than to advance the interests of the province. The relief efforts of the government in connection with the fire in Haliburton and district, Mr. Sinclair claimed, had been unwisely handled. Instead of appealing to the municipalities to come to the rescue of the sufferers, a special meeting of the Legislature should have been called and vote put through. It would have been fairer, he continued, because every part of the province would have carried its share of the assistance.

NOTED TENOR TO SING AT BENEFIT IN LONDON

Cantor Zaitz Will Offer Recital in Aid of European Children.

The vocal recital by Cantor Zaitz next Sunday evening at the Allen Theatre in aid of the homeless children in Eastern Europe will be an unusual event. The committee in charge anticipate eclipsing any similar undertaking held in London for many years.

M. J. Zaitz is a synagogical singer of European reputation. But it is not only as a cantor that he has won fame, for he is a dramatic tenor whose music has been lauded in no uncertain terms. On the occasion of his appearance in London he will sing, in addition to sacred music, two operatic and Yiddish folk songs. The local artists will assist him as of outstanding musical and dramatic abilities. The proceeds of the recital, which is held under the auspices of the Jewish People's Relief Committee, are for the benefit of the homeless children in Eastern Europe, Poland and the Ukraine.

Six-Year-Old Had Bronchitis Every Winter

Bronchitis generally begins with chills, followed by fever and a harsh, dry, hacking cough. There is a raising of phlegm, which at first is of a light color, but, as the trouble progresses it becomes of a yellowish or greenish color, and is sometimes streaked with blood.

All those who are troubled with bronchitis will find in Dr. Wood's Pine Syrup a remedy that will stimulate the bronchial organs, subside the inflammation, soothe the irritated parts, and loosen the phlegm. Mrs. Oliver C. LePage, South Rustico, P.E.I., writes: "My little six-year-old girl had very bad attacks of bronchitis every winter. In the evening and during the night she would wheeze in her chest. We tried several cough medicines, but they never seemed to do her any good. A neighbor advised us to try Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup, which we did, and after she had taken two bottles she got perfectly well."

Price 35c and 60c a bottle; put up only by the T. Milburn Co. Limited, Toronto, Ont.—Adv.

COUE CONFOUNDS HECKLERS BY CURE OF PARALYTIC

Little Frenchman Performs Amazing Healing Before Chicago Audience by Making Helpless Cripple From Milwaukee Walk Unaided Across Stage.

By RODNEY BUTCHER.
Special to The Advertiser.

Chicago, Feb. 7.—Turning defeat into victory and a storm of heckling into a thunder of cheering, Dr. Emile Coue, the great little exponent of autosuggestion, proved to Chicago in a brief moment Tuesday that he could do his stuff. The smashing climax which closed his opening lecture here must have been the greatest moment of the little doctor's life.

With somewhat uninteresting experiments on a small group of subjects and an address on the general theory revolving around the words, "day by day, in every way," Coue was about to conclude.

Held Two Canees.

But the audience of several thousand which packed the auditorium looked down and saw on the platform one Otto R. Kropf of Milwaukee, a helpless paralytic. Kropf held two canes. With the aid of these and a person supporting him on each side he had been able to get to the platform for his lecture.

He looked as if he were about to die of despair.

"Help the man with the cane," someone shouted, and others took up the challenge.

"I am no healer," cried back the beaming little Frenchman in a high-pitched voice. "I am no worker of miracles."

"We believe you," shouted back his hecklers.

The galleries arose disgusted and ready to go. The calls continued.

Coue, making for the wings, stopped suddenly and spoke to the man with the cane. Kropf clutched him and would not let him go.

"How long have you been in this condition?" whispered Coue excitedly, so that few but reporters at a table a few feet away could hear.

"I haven't walked for more than a year," the paralytic replied.

"By this time the audience had settled down to see what was going to happen. The howling ceased.

Have You Ever Tried?

"Have you ever tried?" Coue asked again. "Have you ever said to yourself: 'I can walk, I will walk?'"

Kropf shook his head.

"Do you understand French? No. Well, the phrase 'ca passe' means 'it is passing.' Repeat this to yourself with me—rapidly."

"Ca passe, ca passe, ca passe," the paralytic mumbled.

Faster, faster, like this: Ca passe, ca passe, ca passe, ca passe, ca passe.

Kropf threw it into high gear.

Down in front he yelled to the audience: "Stand back! And pushers rushed to the stage to try to push the paralytic back.

"I do not mean to say this will succeed," the little apothecary from Nancy announced, "but if the trouble is paralytic, it will pass."

Then laboriously and heavily Kropf rose to his feet. His canes banged on the platform.

"Come on," shouted Coue. "Walk."

The subject took slow, clumsy steps.

"Faster, faster," and in a moment more the man was walking normally across the stage.

Thereupon the great audience threw all restraint to the winds in a great pandemonium roar. Those in the front seats, some weeping, others clapping and shouting, surged to the platform to grasp Coue's hands.

"Now are you satisfied?" cried Coue at the crowd, and the roar redoubled as he hurried from the stage.

At a later lecture he talked five other cripples back into seeming health.

Coue has two more lectures here Wednesday. The entire complement of tickets has been sold for a week.

Luxury and Comfort Reign In Latest Motor Models

Exhibits At London Show in Armories Appeal To Visitors With Elegance of Construction.

Be one impetuous with a "pocket" account of 19c, or a prosperous man of affairs with a banking account of $1,900 (and up), the London Motor Show in the armories continues to be a feast of elegance to the eyes and a delightful fund of suggestion to the mind.

A little "autosuggestion" in the form of a $3,000 maroon and silver, velvet-lined limousine is sufficient to call to the mind visions of Florida, California roads, and at the same time, out of the corner of the eye, can be seen a chic roadster to lure one to cool country tea-houses or sunny beaches.

The exhibit is of interest to the casual; to him who has not the slightest participation of even writing a check for a humble "river" let alone a magnificent sedan. Doubly interesting is it to motor enthusiasts who can compare notes and pass criticism upon the various points of quality. There were scores of "hobbyists" who came in the afternoon and stayed well on into the evening, several women as well as men.

No Outstanding Features.

Although all cars are recent models, practically no outstanding new features were noticed, evidently all the attention being centered in improvement of details and fittings.

From the point of view of novelty, an outstanding car is the roadster exhibited by the London Motors.

The body of sleek gray leather is further distinguished by the use of gray-gilt finish on the fender and mudguards. Dark green leather makes an effective body lining.

At the right of the doorway as one enters are the Studebaker models. The coupe is an outstanding model, built along aristocratic lines and fitted with silver.

The royal blue of the Packard attracts the eye immediately. In the coupe model the contrast of the richly blue body with the sombre violet of the upholstery is delightfully effective.

The Orville Carriage Co. are exhibiting special body types, and there is a particularly luxurious effort, lined with genuine Moroccan leather, with a removable arm rest, and all sorts of conveniences in silver plate.

Has Comfortable Air.

There is much sumptuousness about a huge Cadillac touring car, a dark blue finish, and one casts before passing to the next model, built with a comfortable air of roominess and lined throughout in taupe velvet.

Several McLaughlin exhibits attract much attention and a handsome coupe in maroon was a source of admiration.

A trifle pretentious is the Overland touring car, with its blue body, and the somewhat striking effect of two narrow red lines around the body.

How one ought to refer to the clever Willys-Knight coupe-sedan, with its new arrangements of doors, its velvet-lined and inviting interior, and the trunk strapped in readiness across the rear.

A roomy maroon car, leather lined, announces that it is the new Oak and Six, and adjoining next to it is the New Superior Chevrolet sedan, which appears both compact and convenient.

Just at this corner is a study in contrast, an enormous Mitchell sedan in the old Oldsmobile "one-lunger," built in 1901, and at that time quite apparent a source of pride to some owner. The engine is hidden cunningly under the seat and the crank nestles coily at one side. The steering gear somewhat resembles a goat club, and there is quite evidently no need of a speedometer.

The Paige touring car at the east end of the building is a handsome model, and it gleams effectively next in position to a good-looking gray-bodied Jewett sedan.

Between the Paige and Durant models, three neat Star cars are on exhibit.

The Durant exhibit includes two handsome and powerful-looking maroon models, a touring car and a sedan.
