

discharged from the existing Centro-America Hydroelectric Plant and developing the hydroelectric potential of the 96 metre difference in elevation between the Centro-America tailrace and the La Herradura curve of the Río Viejo.

A financial contribution was made to a company to do a pre-feasibility study in Mexico to examine the possibility of setting up, in conjunction with Mexican partners, a plant to assemble and seal solar powered hot water heating systems.

Financial contributions were made to a company to do a pre-feasibility and a viability study in Barbados to examine the possibility of setting up a joint venture to provide the country with an indigenous supply of liquified petroleum gas.