

ORGANISATIONAL SKILLS

IEPs are professionally successful in that they can function with a different level of resources and supports than they are accustomed to in the home country. Teamwork is also necessary to be in

Behavioural Indicators

Interculturally Effective Person

- adapt the original plan of operation to fit the realities of available technologies and resources in the field
- are innovative finding ways to achieve the same results with less (or more) sophisticated technologies; they can find a way to repair imported machinery using locally available materials or to purchase the cheapest to meet requirements and needs of the field
- plan to work with the local people and find ways to work with them to achieve the same results with less (or more) sophisticated technologies

Intercultural Learning is a process that involves the acquisition of knowledge, skills, and attitudes that enable individuals to interact effectively with people from different cultures. This process is essential for success in a globalized world where cross-cultural communication is increasingly important. Intercultural learning involves understanding the differences between cultures and developing the ability to work with people from different backgrounds. This process is essential for success in a globalized world where cross-cultural communication is increasingly important.

