

Adjournment Debate

It would be easy and even preferable or desirable if we could snap our fingers and all toxic waste would disappear tomorrow morning. But we have been asked as a government to talk more about the economy. We talk about the economy, but not the economy at any price. We look at everything that can be done in terms of the environment.

Look at the position taken by the Government of Canada at the Rio summit; look at the laws put forward by our government. I just spoke about the law on dioxins and furans, but I am also thinking of the Fisheries Act.

The government has done a lot and it has not just been talk. It also spent very considerable amounts of money.

Once again I would simply remind my colleague of the very ambitious plan to clean up the St. Lawrence River which has produced some very concrete results so far.

The Acting Speaker (Mr. DeBlois): Pursuant to Standing Order 38(5), the motion to adjourn the House is deemed adopted.

Accordingly, the House stands adjourned until 10 a.m. tomorrow, pursuant to Standing Order 24(1).

The House adjourned at 6.31 p.m.
