Dear Sir Arthur:

After many and long wanderings have I at last settled down for some little time in my old country to clear up a few family matters.

A friend, Mr. B. K. Hamfelt B.A. B.Sc., is, with his family, leaving for Canada some time in September this year and intends to take up his residency in Montreal for the winter.

He is desirous of pursuing some studies in Canada, the details of which he will give you himself, but as a friend I would be pleased if my old Corps Commander would facilitate his work by introduction to those who can help him by advice or otherwise.

It might interest you to know that while here in Stockholm last winter I had the pleasure of hearing Sir Ian Hamilton lecture on the Gallipoli affair and a month afterwards Liman von Sanders lecture on the same subject. Was it not a pity they could not both have been on the platform the same time.

With kindest regards to yourself and all old comrades, I am

Yours sincerely
