Senate Reading Room 13an07-169 SENATE PO SOME DESIRE TO PUT ( ACTION ON CHURCH UNION

In Spite of a Favorable Report AN ATTEMPT TO FRENCHIE Methodist Conference Seems To Be Divided - Would Include Anglicans and Baptists.

Montreal, Sept. 13.—(Special.)—It was fully believed this morning that the church union question would come Serious Charges Are Contained in before the Methodist general conference this afternoon. The committee were working upon a report, and the way seemed clear. The friends of the movement, however, know it is prudent to go slow and its opponents too, are for delay. Some jockeying occurred, and instead of a debate the report was received merely for information. No action was taken, and miable ladies of the Women's Mis-miable ladies of the Women's Missionary Society.

It as observed at the meeting of the Presbyterian assembly in London that a movement to include the Anglican and Baptist Churches in the negotiations for union was mostly supported by those who are most opposed to union. It appears to be the intention to introduce an issue which would indefinitely postpone the settlement of the union first suggested. The Anglicans have announced their position on the apostolic succession and the creeds—the Baptists are committed to immersion and close communion, and it does not seem probable that Methodists, Presbyterians and Congregationalists could include these points in a common agreement for organization. While federal union would obviate some difficulty of this kind and there is a growing constituency in its favor, others hold that it would in the long run operate against the complete agreement eventually hoped for. A prominent lay delegate from Hamilton said to The World this morning: "I would prefer to go slow now and get full union later on. It is bound to come."

Reviewed Reports.

Rev. Dr. Potts is chairman, and Rev. J. W. Cooley of Grimsby secretary of the gommittee on union. Mr. Cooley read the report which stated that memorials had been presented on the matter from Montreal, also from the New Brunswick and Prince Edward Island conferences; from the Laymen's Association of Hamilton, Malkerton and Welland districts, from the Hamilton conference and Westminster district, and from the British Columbia conference—all forwarded by the conference with approval. The committee recognized with great pleasure these expressions of sympathy and approval as manifesting the churches' general interest in and accord with the movement for union.

The committee reported further that they have had before them the report of the standing committee to confer with other churches and especially with the Presbyterian and Congregational Churches on the subject of the union of these churches with the Methodist Church, which committee was enlarged to 65 members by the general conference to form a special committee to meet an equal number from the Presbyterian Church and the committee from the Congregational union.

They rejoiced to learn from the report of this committee that considerable progress has been made in the preparation of articles of union with these bodies, and that no insuperable difficulties have been discovered which difficulties have been discovered which should prevent such a consummation. They learn also that the general assembly of the Presbyterian Church has requested the executive of the joint committee on union to invite both the Church of England in Canada and the Baptist Church to take part in the further conferences with a view to a larger union than that which heretofore engaged the attention of the committee. They, therefore, recommend to the general conference the following action:

To Complete the Work.

That the general conference express its hearty approval of the work of the joint committee in the outline of a basis of union now before us, and reappoint the committee with a view to complete the work, also that the vacancies in the committee be Sation has been created among the English-speaking Roman Catholics of Ottawa by a pamphlet bearing on education at Ottawa University. It is entitled "A Searchlight Showing the Need of a University for the English-speaking Catholics of Canada," and aims at proving that a symtematic attempt is on foot to completely Frenchify the university.

Archbishop Duhamel is accused of personally helping the movement notwithstanding the terms of the civil charter of the university and the apostolic brief of incorporation. The provincial of the oblate order in Quebec is also named as a party to the movement. It is pointed out that the English-speaking students are dwindling down to a mere fraction of the representation. In the first year arts course there are only five.

The pamphlet also makes charges in connection with the $10,000 given to the university by the late Ontario government just before its defeat, to enable apparatus to be purchased after the fire in the university, for the new applied science department. It is charged that tho the $10,000 was paid by Mr. Whitpey after his accession to power no instruments were bought nor was the money returned to the government. Early this spring the science course was broken up on the grounds of insufficiency of pupils. There were 12. The pamphlet calls for an investigation by the Ontario government to discover what use was made of the $10,000.

The document is published anonymously. A statement which forms the introduction suggests that the recent rector, Rev. Dr. Emery, was in sympathy with the complaints.

In well-informed Irish Catholic circles in Ottawa it is stated that Mgr. Sbarretti, the papal ablegate, has gone to Rome to find some solution of the trouble between the Irish and the French.

Jas. F. Kennedy, a farmer, and his daughter Eva, residing near Lindsay, reached the city last night. They were among the excursionists bound for the Northwest, who were in the train wreck, and altho seven coaches back from the colonist, which was hit, received a bad shaking

Mr Kennedy made a statement which may have an important bearing on the causes of the wreck. It is stated that had there been one minute's more time at the switch the accident would not have occurred.

Mr. Kennedy says that a man and his son, who had ridden near him and talked with him, had intended to get off at Sudbury, but somehow missed getting off at that depot. When a couple of miles or so beyond the place, the man appealed to the conductor to let them off. The train was stopped, and it seemed that it had hardly gotten up full speed again when the crash came.

Mr. Kennedy and daughter intended staying over night in Toronto, in order to learn the disposition of the company towards their tickets, and if they were not permitted to travel first-class they will return to their nome.

"Yes, sir, I was bound for the harvest fields," he told a World re-porter, "and I am still disposed to go, but not on the like o' you train, which some have ventured forward in. "I am going to see if the company won't let me ride on a first-class train, or else I'll get my money back."

"We were at breakfast in company with a Miss Patterson, whose father had asked me to lock after her, and another lady—I forget her name—when the crash came, followed by a shower of glass from the chandeliers, and windows, and our dishes were scattered all over the

"I was just pouring the cold tea," interjected his daughter.

"And everybody was hurled from their seats," continued Mr. Kennedy. "Lightning couldn't have been quicker!" he added.

"We were at the engines two minutes after they struck, and you couldn't see anything for steam. The two boilers were throwing a cloud which covered up every particle of the wreck."

He almost broke down when asked what the victims looked like. He covered his eyes with his right hand, while his left flew out impulsively as the to shut off the scene of horror, while his daughter turned away and hastily produced a handkerchief.

"You couldn't look at it," he said. "Two men's bodies half protruded from the debris, another man's leg, with all the flesh laid open to the thigh, and the bones bare, was twisted around the wrong way and doubled partly under him, and one of the poor little girls was absolutely crushed flat."

It is claimed that, given another minute, the wrecked train would have been safe on the siding, towards which it was slowly moving when crashed into by the east-bound express. And that safety would have been reached, according to James F Kennedy of Lindsay, one of the passengers, but for a stop west of Sudbury to accommodate some passengers who had not alighted at the proper time.

The arrival in Toronto last night of a number of passengers who had not alighted at the proper time.

The evidence given at first hand gost to show that a drizzling rain, which caused slippery rails, was partly responsible for the inability of the engines on the east-bound train to check its speed sufficiently to avert deaarth consequences, while the official statement of the railway sets forth that but for a defect in the air brake valve there would have been no collision in dependent of the condition of the rails.
