Harvard Crew for England.
NEW YORK, Feb. 23.—Harvard expects to send over a crew to row against the winner in the Oxford-Cambridge race, providing that the Harvard eight wins Yale next June. The crimson crew is a lot of sturdy material and Yale appears to be hard put to it to handle the crew. Many folks over here would like to see the first step of the program. However, a lot of folks believe the impression is abroad that when an American college crew comes to row against an English crew, the American crew is the college champion. Altho Harvard tried to make it clear in 1906 that no such pretension was made, the English did express the opinion that Harvard, having beaten Yale, must be the leader.
