

cared for during the past year, as during the summer months one of our students Mr. A. St. James remained there several weeks, and after that it was occasionally visited by missionaries from the Grande Ligne Station, and also a few times by students from Montreal. We hope to make better provision for regular services during the present year.

THE REVIVAL IN THE GRANDE LIGNE INSTITUTE.

For some weeks past the missionaries at Grande Ligne, and particularly the pastor of the Church have had the impression, and some indications, that a work of grace was quietly but deeply in progress in the heart of some of the pupils. It was felt by more solemnity at public worship, at family prayers, and noticed in deeper attention to what was preached, from Sunday to Sunday. At last it broke out in deep sorrow for sins, of souls in anguish came with trembling to unburden themselves before teachers and pastor. There are remarkable cases that will be related at some other time. Soon after these isolated manifestations, there was among the pupils a great desire to meet for prayer, and reserved expressions of their spiritual exercise of mind and conscience. One after another began to express what they had gone through for days and weeks; what they had found in the Saviour of their souls; until nearly thirty professed to have met with a change of heart.

Nothing until then had been done to produce this by extraordinary services, and if from that time there have been a few hours set apart for private conversation with the pastor or teachers, and for prayer among the pupils, it never interfered with the regular hours of study, and only seemed to stimulate them to work, with delightful cheerfulness. Of all the works of grace with which this mission has often been blessed, none yet seem to have been so deep, so quiet, so much the work of the Holy Spirit alone. Our earnest prayer is that it may spread far and wide, in the neighborhood and even in other stations.
