FREDERICTON SOLDIER WRITES OF HORRORS OF GERMAN SHELL FIRE
 Interesting Letter Tells of Capture of Walter Burden

THE WONDERFUL TRENCHES
 Streets Underground Like Chinese Puzzles—Local Men, Recovered, Going Back to Front—Colonel Guthrie Improving

Private Bert Burden, son of Weldon Burden, of Fredericton, who is serving in France with the French artillery, in a recent letter to a friend, says of his brother, Private Walter Burden, now prisoner of war:
 "He is very fortunate to be alive at all, for he took part in the fighting that for two or three days was very fierce, and in some cases wounded men were left where they were or killed to end their suffering. Fortunately, the opposing troops were apparently not Prussians, else there would have been no prisoners."
 In writing of the trenches and shells used by the Germans, he says:
 "Since then we have been in some amazing trenches, they were simply splendid, and to one going into them the first time they were just like Chinese puzzles, so complicated they were. More than once I got lost tracing telephone wires. In the last ones in the same district it was quite possible to take a wrong turning and get into the German lines. They were wonderful trenches, their only drawback being the fact that they were so complicated.
 "Then, too, there was always shelling, and sometimes it was pretty warm. The Germans don't shell steadily, they do it fitfully, and they use big shells which do not respect anybody. Our last day was the worst. Our telephone station was in a fortified house, which has been pretty well smashed up. Our artillery was giving them fits and theirs was entertaining us, with exhibitions given by 'coal boxes' and 'whiz bangs'. The former are big long distance shells, and come with a sound like that of drawing your breath with a whistling sound. This develops into a moaning whistle, and if it is coming close to you, it takes on a hollow screaming whistle. Upon exploding an immense cloud of black dust is sent up mingled with scraps of whatever the shell has struck.
 "The 'whiz-bangs' are small shells, 'g' shells which come like bullets. Just a high squeal, a bang and it is all over. When they strike the ground they make a hole about three or four feet across and two or three feet deep. A 'Jack Johnson' sounds like a street car, and makes a tremendous hole. I saw one hole made by a 'J.' which was sixty-six feet across and five feet deep. Some class to that. The shell itself stands over five feet in height, is seventeen inches in diameter, and weighs close to a ton and a half. Wouldn't it be nice to meet on a dark night if you were alone. I am afraid that the next time I hear a street car I will run through the nearest cellar window. A riveting machine would send me in a wild scramble for the gutter, for it sounds just like a machine gun."
 Back to Front
 Private Arden Hall, of Fredericton, who was recently in a convalescent hospital at Liverpool, and who is about to leave for the front again on last Monday, speaks in one of his letters of meeting Archie and Arnold Sinclair at the hospital. They were getting better rapidly and expected to leave for the front as soon as possible.
 Col. Guthrie
 "I still continue to improve," is the cheering news received Saturday by Mrs. E. A. Guthrie from her husband, Lieutenant Col. Guthrie, who is in the Canadian hospital at La Toquet, France.
 "I am able to sit up now, and in two or three weeks will be able to sit up alone. I am being taken out each day on a stretcher to get the air. On Dominion Day I witnessed a baseball game, propped up on pillows. Capt. Costigan and Capt. Arthur, who were with me in the 10th Battalion, are about all well and will be able to leave the hospital soon. I will be glad when I am able to hit the trenches again. The old man is coming back sometime soon with a stiff leg and a few more grey hairs."
 Hon. D. C. Fraser's Son
 Lieutenant Alistair Fraser, of Moose Jaw, son of the late Hon. D. C. Fraser, is named in a recent casualty list as among the Canadians wounded at the front. Fortunately, Lieutenant Fraser is reported as "slightly wounded" only. He enlisted in Moose Jaw, where he had been practising law, and is attached to the 18th Battalion.
 Four Sons Enlisted
 The Amherst News says: William Reese of Mill street has been confined to his house through illness since last September. He has had an abscess in his ankle and will probably have to go to the hospital at Halifax for treatment. Mr. Reese sent three sons to the front, two of whom are now in hospitals in Great Britain recovering from wounds which they received on the firing line last April. A third son is still in active service in France and a fourth son, Walter, is now at Valcartier with the 40th Regiment.
 Recruiting for the 40th.
 (Amherst News)
 Chatting with Major Fuller the News was informed that there had been a decided revival in recruiting during the past few days. Ten men from different sections of Cumberland had come forward and enlisted and will be sent to Valcartier to join the 40th Regiment. This regiment has been reported to be four hundred strong, but in justice to the province of Nova Scotia, it may be pointed out that the 40th, which is essentially a Nova Scotian regiment, was up to its full strength a month ago, and that two hundred and fifty were drawn from its ranks to supply other regiments which had a shortage, and later another draft was made on the 40th to supply further shortages in regiments that were going to the front. Once it was known in this province that the 40th required further recruits, men at once began to come forward to fill the vacancies. Ten men recruited in Amherst during the past few days are a good showing.

BACK IN TRENCHES AFTER ELEVEN WEEKS
 George Curran Writes of One of the Unpleasant Features of the War

The stench of decomposing bodies of horses and men lying in the open fields is very bad, writes George Curran to his sister, in a letter received yesterday. It was almost unbearable, but there was no escape from it. The heat in which the soldiers were sweating intensified the trouble, and the greatest relief one could get was to smoke, smoke, smoke, so long as the smokes lasted, to overwhelm the persistent odor from the fields.
 Young Curran was in hospital for eleven weeks, but is now back in the trenches. In spite of his unpleasant environment, he says he is feeling fine. In his letter he gives interesting incidents of a day's life in the trenches. He is a shanty battle practicing for the enemy. It was a common thing to see them at the rear of the line snatching and "re-remind me of big roosters making repeated nips at one another, then backing away to strike again."

Wm. C. Wickham a Former Inspector of Mounted Police
 Wm. C. Wickham, an ex-inspector of the North West Mounted Police, was this morning sworn in as chief detective for St. John, succeeding Detective Worrell, who recently tendered his resignation to Chief Simpson.
 Mr. Wickham is a native of Kincairdine, Ont., and has been engaged in police work for some years. He was formerly magistrate in Nelson, B. C. He will enter upon his new duties immediately, so as to be available in the working of the department by the end of the month, when Detective Worrell's time is up.

PRESENTATIONS ON DEPARTURE FOR FRONT
 A very pleasant gathering took place at the home of Frank H. Ledford, 274 Prince William street, last evening, for the purpose of bidding him farewell on his departure in active service with the Heavy Battery of Artillery now in formation in this city. The dredging inspectors at Courtenay Bay to the staff of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police, and to him a handsome wrist watch and their best wishes for his safe return. He also received a set of military buttons from friends. T. C. Nickson, in a well worded address, made the presentation. Gunner Rev. J. McPherson, C. S. R., as deacon, received a pipe. Both recipients thanked the donors and said they would try to do their best for Canada and the empire. The evening was very enjoyable and singing and speeches were particularly enjoyed by Mr. Wm. Cannon, Miss Danery, C. Ledford, Mrs. T. C. Nickson. The National Anthem closed the evening.

MISS MAE A MULLIN AND LEONARD QUINLAN WED
 A wedding of interest took place in St. Peter's church at 7:30 o'clock this evening when Rev. Charles McFarlane, C. S. R., united in marriage Miss Mae Augusta Mullin, daughter of Mrs. Mary A. Mullin, and Leonard Quinlan, an officer on the government steamer Aberdeen. The ceremony was performed in a private parlour, presided over by Rev. J. O'Hare, C. S. R., assisted by Rev. Joseph Borgmann, C. S. R., as deacon, and Rev. J. McPherson, C. S. R., as deacon. The bride was given away by her mother and was costumed in a beautiful dress of yellow silk with shadow lace trimmings and large leghorn hat trimmed with black lace and yellow roses and carried a bridal bouquet of white roses. She was attended by her sister Miss Evelyn, who wore a very pretty dress of pink crepe de chine, with leghorn hat trimmed with pink roses and carried a bouquet of pink roses. The groom was supported by George Creary.
 Following the ceremony the bridal party drove to the home of the bride's mother in Harrison street, where a dainty wedding breakfast was served. Mr. and Mrs. Quinlan left by automobile for a trip to points of interest in New Brunswick. They will also spend a few days at the Terrace Hotel, and will reside at 277 Charlotte street.
 The popular young people were the recipients of a large number of magnificent presents in cut glass, silver, china and furniture. Among them were a set of hand painted china, from Mr. Frings Skinner, with whom the bride was employed and also a very pretty parlor table from her fellow employees, a large leather couch, a beautiful parlor mirror and a sewing machine from the aunt and uncle, Mr. and Mrs. P. J. Fitzpatrick, and a set of china from the officers and men on the government steamer Lansdowne on which the groom was formerly employed.
 The groom's present to the bride was a piano, and the bridesmaid a pearl ring and to the best man a set of gold cuff links.

Dr. Millar was universally popular in Amherst, and was entertained on last Thursday night at a banquet at the Terrace Hotel, which is said to have been one of the most enjoyable ever held in the town.
