God Save the King.
The graduating class was small this year owing to many larger boys coming S. O. S. early in the spring. The graduates are Russell Sheldrick, Zetta Rogers and Helen Fairweather.
The High school girls looked charming in their white gowns, with red ties and black hair ribbons, and the physical drill exercise showed their ability and grace. The whole programme reflects much credit upon both teachers and pupils. The principal, Mrs. Chapman, announced the winners of the prizes. The medal this year goes to Douglas Sheldrick, Grade VII, and B. P. Graham's prize for highest standing in natural science to Russell Sheldrick, Grade XI. It is pleasing to note that the present efficient staff of teachers has decided to remain. G. Chapman, grades VII, VI, V, IV, III, II, I, and Miss Irene Dickson, grades I, II, III.
The two lady teachers have also done excellent work in domestic science and manual training. Miss Read will continue her instruction in domestic science in other parts of New Brunswick during the holidays. That the teachers will enjoy a well-earned vacation is the pupils' wish.

ST. JOHN PEOPLE AND THE WAR.
St. John, N. B., July 4, '18.
To the Editor of The Evening Times.
Sir—Now that the sheriff has completed his registration of all the different families in this district, I, as Editor, before these cards are sent to Ottawa it would be a good time to find out from all these different families what each and every one has done or is doing to help win this terrible war. I venture to say that if each of the families were made it would open up the eyes of the Loyalist citizens of this noble city to the fact that the greater number are not only giving up all their leisure time, but are working hard at night and sending boxes, etc., to the soldiers in trenches and the same people that are doing this believe it their duty to their country to do so. Yet the others that are doing nothing are attending all amusements daily and hardly both mothers and daughters and when they are asked the question, "What are you doing to help win the war?" only laugh at you. And you happen to know that the more you don't you will hear talk far from patriotic. You will also find many to enjoy themselves. Now, Mr. Editor, this sort of thing should be stopped and it should be seen that each person does his or her bit for Canada. Look at what the British are doing. Read the report of the great pearl necklace, how all in England are giving their all, sons, daughters, jewels and everything. Andrew Bonar Law, the British chancellor, says "Lives must be lived more simply. Personal household and business expenses must be reduced to the minimum" so that there are no excuses for any girl or boy to be idle today, as it is a crime against the nation. We want to see some of the people of Ontario a poor farmer was fined $200 for making the remark that he would rather be under German rule. Eugene V. Debs was arrested in the United States for the same, even though he is the big candidate for United States presidency and a very wealthy lady was sent to prison in New York for not being loyal. No person should be allowed to make remarks in St. John that are at all unpatriotic and all should be made to work and stop all needless extravagance. If all these needless pleasure-seeking people would only learn how serious the situation is it would save lots of trouble for them later.

Yours truly,
PATRIOT.
PROMOTIONS.
In district orders yesterday appeared the name of Captain C. D. Knowlton as having been promoted to be major in the depot battalion, and Lieut. E. S. Roxborough has been promoted to be captain in No. 7 district depot at Fredericton.

Sergeant Major O. A. Reid, late of the 20th battalion, has been given a commission in the depot battalion.

Allied War Council.
The supreme allied war council held its seventh session yesterday. All aspects of the present situation were considered and important decisions were reached. Among those present at the council were the premiers of the British dominions.

THE PRAIRIE PROVINCES AS EXPORTERS

A remarkable increase during 1917 in the handling of live stock, and of butter, cheese, eggs, dressed meat and poultry over its lines in western Canada is indicated in a statement compiled by the freight department of the Canadian Northern Railway. Any great increase in tonnage in these commodities of course could not be accomplished without pronounced progress in permanent farming in areas served by the C. N. R. in Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta. It is significant that the prairie provinces are becoming exporters of dairy products where in recent years they were importers on a considerable scale. During 1917 11,868 cars of live stock were handled over the lines of the C. N. R. system, as compared with 7,245 during 1916. This is an increase of 4,118 cars, 57 per cent. Of cattle in 1917 there were handled 5,421 cars as compared with 2,900 in 1916. Of hogs 2,974 cars as compared with 1,768 in 1916. Of sheep 261 cars in 1917 as against 76 in 1916; and mixed stock 3,407 in 1917 with 2,401 in 1916. The percentage of increase in cattle was 87 per cent, sheep 243, hogs 29, and mixed stock 86 per cent.
During 1917 the produce shipped from stations on the C. N. R. western line reached a total of 24,618,000 pounds, as compared with 21,486,000 in 1916, an increase of 3,132,000 or 14.6 per cent. The butter shipped amounted to 3,146,000 pounds as compared with 2,986,000 in 1916. Cheese 1,800,000. Eggs in 1917, 5,980,000 pounds, an increase over 1916 of 800,000 pounds. Dressed meats 9,106,000 pounds, increase 1,242,000 over 1916. Dressed poultry 312,000 pounds with 262,000 in 1916. The percentage of increase for butter was 19 per cent, cheese 37, eggs 4, dressed meat 16 and dressed poultry 11 per cent.

Mrs. George A. Proffit.
News of the death of his daughter, Mrs. George A. Proffit at her home in Edmunds (Wash.), was received yesterday by James H. Proffit, of Victoria. The family here had had no information that Mrs. Proffit had been sick and the announcement of her death, which occurred after a brief illness, came as a great shock. Commissioner Hillyard is opposed to the suggestion that wood might be cut for fuel on the city lands at Loch Loosmoor or Spruce Lake. He said that there is little wood of fuel value at Spruce Lake and so much dry underbrush and deadwood that there would be great danger of a fire being started by the wood cutters.

At the meeting of Loyalist Chapter, I. O. O. E., last night, two new members were elected, Mrs. K. A. Armstrong and Miss Esther Macaulay. The sum of $75 was voted to Nursing Sister Edith Hagan for her work and £10 to the Queen Mary Silver Wedding Anniversary fund. Mrs. Royden Thomson read a report on the annual meeting of the National Chapter.

Frank Carson, charged with moving a building from Red's Point to West St. John without a permit, was before Magistrate Ritchie yesterday afternoon. Samuel W. Johnston, the contractor who did the work, explained that he had secured the verbal permission of Commissioner McCallen and had thought this sufficient. The magistrate said that he could impose a fine of $100 but reserved judgment.

THE UNION JACK, THE FLAG OF THE BRITISH EMPIRE.
The Union Jack, the national flag of England, that flag of freedom and liberty, is the flag of the British Empire, which all of whose citizens have the right to fly; hence it is the flag of Canada.

The origin of the name Union Jack dates back to the Crusades, when the Knights and the footmen of that heroic army, marching to wrest Jerusalem from the Saracens, wore a surcoat called a "jacque" (whence our word "jack") on the front of which a distinguishing cross was affixed. The flag of the red cross of St. George, which was the red cross of St. George, in 1808 Richard III. of England ordered his troops to wear this cross for identification. Hence it became a naval emblem, and was flown from the Jack staff on the bow of the vessel, and called a Jack.

The present Union Jack is composed of the white flag with its Red Cross or St. George, superimposed over the blue flag with its diagonal white cross or saltire. The four quarters of the flag are: St. George, St. Andrew, and the white flag with its red saltire of St. Patrick.

It was in the reign of Queen Anne that the Union of the separate parliaments of England and Scotland into one British parliament took place. Thus it was in 1707 that this first Union Jack was constructed. In 1801 in the reign of George III. to the Union Jack was added the red cross of St. Andrew, which was the red cross of St. Andrew, and the white flag with its red saltire of St. Patrick.

The flag is divided by the cross of St. George into four quarters, in all of which the Saltire crosses of St. Andrew and St. Patrick are quarterly per saltire counterchanged. The quarters of the flag next the flag staff are considered to be of higher importance than the others, and in these quarters the red cross of St. Andrew and its white border is thus given precedence of priority over the first and third quarters, which are reversed in the second and fourth, thus alternately changed about or counterchanged.

The Union Jack is either square or oblong. If the latter, like the ensign, its length must be twice its width on the hoist side of the flag. The red cross of St. George is the standard of measurement of the crosses, which is one-fifth of the width of the flag. The white border of St. George is one-third of the red of St. George; the white border of St. Andrew is one-sixth of that red. The broad white of St. Andrew is also one-third of the red of St. George and its white border one-sixth of that red, which taken together makes that broad white cross one-half the red of St. George.

These measurements apply likewise to the Jack in the upper corner of the red and blue ensign, whose length is half the length of the flag, and in width half the width. In the white ensign the red cross of St. George, which runs through the whole of the white field, is two-fifths of the width of the flag. The Union occupies the upper quarter next the staff, leaving the white field intact. The white ensign is the flag of the Royal Navy and not permitted to be used by any other vessel, except by "Yacht Clubs" to whom special license has been given; neither can it be used by private individuals, nor for street decoration, under a heavy fine.

The red ensign is the flag of the British merchant marine. The blue ensign is flown on government vessels and ships commanded by officers of the Royal Navy or the Royal Naval Reserve. In 1869, Canadian vessels were specially permitted by the British Admiralty to place the arms of the Dominion, instead of the St. George's cross, on the fly of the red and blue ensign, which badge must not be larger than one quarter of the area of the Jack in the upper canton. These flags are marine flags unsuited for use on shore.

An act was passed in the Canadian parliament, 8 George V., 1913-14, placing a penalty of heavy fine and imprisonment on anyone who shall publicly mutilate, trample upon, deface or treat contemptuously any flag authorized to be flown by the British Empire, whether such flag is public or private property. No person shall display any such flag or any representation thereof on which appears any word, figure, advertisement or design of any nature whatsoever. No person shall use any such flag for the purpose of giving notice of the sale of any kind of merchandise.

The Union Jack with a white border is a ship flag calling for a pilot. The Union Jack to be hoisted correctly must be flown by the standard of St. Andrew uppermost next to the mast in red with three golden lions passant guardant, and with the fourth is the standard of England. The second on the fly of the flag is yellow with a red lion rampant surmounted by a crown, and the third (next the mast) is blue with a golden harp with silver stripes for Ireland.

The standard being that of the Sorreign is flown over the Royal residence and wherever he may be present; also on shipboard it is raised on the mainmast immediately he comes alongside, and is lowered the moment he leaves the ship. The Royal Standard is not permitted to be flown by any citizen nor used for street decorating, but is hoisted at Government House, Ottawa, on the King's birthday and on the days of His Majesty's accession and coronation. The members of the royal family use the Royal Standard but with special different devices thereon for each. The Queen Mother Alexandra has her own special standard authorized after the death of King Edward.

The distinctive flag of the Governor General is the Union Jack with the arms of Canada within a wreath of maple leaves surrounded by the crown, in the centre thereof. That of the Lieutenant Governor is the Union Jack with the arms of the province within a wreath of maple leaves in its centre but without the crown.

Quebec, 27 June, 1918.
FRED C. WURTELE.

INTERNAL TROUBLES IN TURKEY REPORTED
Rumors of internal dissension in Turkey have become current. One is to the effect that the death of Mohammed V, Sultan of Turkey, was not due to natural causes, but the result of a revolt in that country.

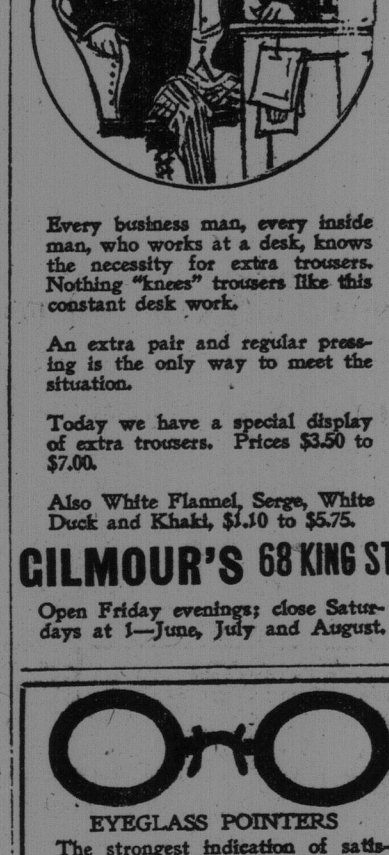

The Czech-Slovak troops operating in eastern Siberia are reported to have won a victory over the Bolshevik forces who have been holding Irkutsk.
