BACK BAY

Arthur Leslie has returned home from Grand Manan where he has been visiting relatives for a number of weeks.

E. Dean and son Thomas are visiting relatives here.

Hugh Harris has taken charge of the Frye's Island estate, we all think him a good man in the right place.

Skating seems to be an amusement of the past as dancing has taken its place. We are sorry to report Mrs. Hugh Harris very ill. Dr. Taylor is attending her.

Mrs. Jas. Leavitt called on Mrs. Frank Leavitt one day last week.
Russell Hooper is working in the woods for R. Burgess.

Messrs Jas. Leavitt and Fred Craig are fishing in the vessel owned by Wm. Hicks of Letete.

The new blacksmith shop being put up in our vicinity is greatly needed.

Cecil McGee attended the carnival in St. George last week.

Leander McGee is hauling wood for S. Theriault.

Mrs. Hill Hooper who has been visiting in Portland has returned to Eastport where she is spending a few days with her sisters Mrs. Wm. Cogill who is very sick.

While coasting Monday evening Lure boys got badly hurt, running into a telephone post going full speed, Merrill Hooper got hurt worse, his leg being broken, Fred Hooper and Hazen McGee slightly injured.

Some Queer Insurance

In England

(From the Washington Herald)

Hears fingers, eyes and even the family cat are being insured in England nowadays. "Yes, of course," says Lloyds, the big insurance combine, "we insure cats. A cat is a fine risk. Why, everyone knows a cat has nine lives." Insurance against death, fire and accident are common enough. Insurance against broken hearts, marriage, triplets and other so-called catastrophes is rather new. Very recently Cohen & Harris the theatrical managers, insured themselves for $50,000, to be paid in case John Barrymore, the actor, married. Later they chuckled at their foresight and lost not a wink of sleep when his engagement and his marriage to Miss Katherine Corri Harris, a New York society girl, were announced.

But insurance against broken hearts? "Impossible," declare the incredulous. Well, read this: A titled Englishman wishes his son and heir to marry. He goes to Lloyds and gets insurance that his son will marry. Sometimes he wants insurance it will not be a chorus girl. His son finally becomes engaged. If it is to a rich American girl, the whole family often wakes to the terrible independence of that liberty-loving person, and several policies may be taken out to insure that the son and heir shall not be jilted. Such policies are issued to father, mother, brother or sister. The prospective bridegroom often has one himself. And on the day he may have to raise money before the wedding day.

If the rich girl marries him he pays his debts out of her millions. If she changes her mind and doesn't, then the insurance policy makes good and the tailors, jewellers and florists lose nothing. And does this queer insurance stop when the title and the millions are finally married? Does it! It has only begun. Milord hives him to Lloyds and gets insured that there will be issue of the marriage. Gets insured that it will be a son. Gets insured that the son will live. Gets insured that he will reach his majority. And so on.

A father with several daughters on his hands gets insurance that they will marry. A funny part of issuing such a policy—or tragic, as the case may be—consists in the careful summing up of the girl's chances in matrimony. This falls to the lot of an old man, long in the business, who says a knowledge of psychology and physiology is necessary for this work. He sees each girl twice, for half an hour each time; talks with her, sounds her, reads her. He meets her at some social function and the girl doesn't know who he is—that is, if the father keeps to his agreement she does not. But if the father puts the girl "next" the wonderful old man, with an almost Sherlock Holmes ability to fathom deceit reports to Lloyds, and not for love or money—will papa be able to get a policy written now.

Beresford Retiring

Lord Charles Beresford retires from the navy on Friday, under the age limit. The navy thus loses two of its most striking figures within a short time. Lord Fisher of Kilverstone, Admiral of the fleet, having retired last month. Lord Beresford, who has made several visits to Canada, the last within two years, is thus referred to by Percival A. Hissam in a recent number of The Graphic—

"He entered the navy in 1859 at the age of thirteen, and earned his epaulettes in Egypt. The signal 'Well done, Condon,' with which Admiral Sir Frederick Seymour complimented Lord Charles at the bombardment of Alexandria, has passed into a popular classic, and his services afloat and ashore earned him a special promotion to the rank of captain. Later, he served in the Sudan campaign, and commanded the Naval Brigade at the battle of Abu Klea, while the Secretary of the Admiralty, speaking of his rescue of Sir Charles Wilson (who had got into difficulties in the attempt to save Gordon at Khartoum), said that it was a feat of arms equally remarkable for the skill and gallantry displayed; and Lord Wolseley in despatches described him as 'an officer whose readiness of resource and whose ability as a leader are only equalled by his daring.' In 1885 Lord Charles entered Parliament as member of East Marylebone, and in the following year he was appointed a Lord of the Admiralty—the only administrative appointment he has held. He resigned in 1888, in consequence of a difference with his superiors as to the provision made for general staff work. He re-entered Parliament as a member for York in 1898, retaining his seat until 1900, when he resigned in order to hoist his flag under Admiral Fisher as second in command of the Mediterranean. A month after hauling down his flag, which he did in February, 1902, he was elected member for Woolwich, only to resign his seat twelve months later to take command of the Channel Fleet. When the Home Fleet became the Channel Fleet, in 1905, Admiral Sir A. K. Wilson remained in command of this force, while Lord Charles went as Commander-in-Chief to the Mediterranean, a post which he left two years later to take command of the new Channel Fleet. He hauled down his flag for the last time in March, 1909, when the Channel Fleet was absorbed in the Home Fleet and Sir William May took chief command of our naval forces in home waters."

Lord Charles was elected to Parliament for Portsmouth in January, 1910, and again in the recent elections.—Exchange.

Her Point of View

"What?" queried the very young man, "can he worse than taking a kiss without asking for it?"
"Asking for a kiss without taking it," replied the young woman who was doing her third season.—Chicago Daily
