HAWAIIAN ATHLETES

The Hawaiian native is especially fond of athletics, and shows to advantage a strong aptitude for foot racing and broad jumping...

It is Hawaii that does well as an athlete on terra firma, he certainly excels in the water. For driving and swimming he seems to have a natural aptitude...

A Kanaka, in fact, is well nigh amphibious. In infancy he learns to swim almost unconsciously. There is probably not a native boy or girl but years of age who could not give up 'cards and spades' in the water and then bat us, without half trying...

In Love and Law.

She—So you have decided to be a lawyer and are enthusiastic at the prospect. They say that love of a profession and love of a woman conflict.

Merchant: The postal service is in a wretched condition. Friend: never noticed it.

Wyeman: I make it a rule never to ask a gentleman to return money he has borrowed of me.

Rising Politician (whose friends have given him a brass band serenade): My fellow-citizens, this spontaneous tribute touches me deeply.

Leader of Brass Band (in alarm): 'But did you see to pe' each connection, mein friends?

Elocutionist (beginning to recite Longfellow's famous poem): Listen, my children, and ye shall hear of the midnight ride of Paul Revere.

Impatient Auditor: What makes of bicycle did he use?

Caravan: A caravan had a very small band; the commanding officer's tent was well, very large.

And even the adjacent himself smiled. 'What is the scheme?' 'I can't define it, my son; but it is something that will fall through quicker than anything else on earth.'
