

Members of Port Credit OPP Auxiliary unit stand smartly to attention as they await inspection by Chief Inspector Adair. The detachment's annual inspection, held Thursday, was followed by demonstrations of training procedures. After all 17 Auxiliary units in the province have been inspected a trophy is awarded to the unit achieving the highest marks.

OPP Auxiliary inspection

Members of Port Credit OPP Auxiliary volunteered 3,500 hours of their free time, to help officers of the regular detachment during 1967, said Inspector Richard Birrell at the auxiliary's inspection and parade last week.

The precision and care used in training members of Port Credit detachment was demonstrated before senior officers, family and friends, Thursday. The program began with fall-in and march on the colors, followed by inspection, march past and parade; and in the gathering dusk the detachment put on a smart display of drill training.

The program was continued in the OPP building where training and instruction demonstration were given on traffic direction, radio procedure, revolver handling, self-defence and first aid-artificial respiration.

Introducing the demonstration program, Sgt. Norman Kerr explained that the theme was based on training.

Auxiliary officers are: Insp. Richard Birrell, Sgt. Norman Kerr, Cpls. Andrew Orłowski, John McDougall and Edward Hore. Constables: John Bryce, William Bradley, Gerald Callaghan, Orrie Collins, John Chappell, Donald Clark, Frederick Craig, James Death, Joseph Dore, Phillip Draht, Peter Finn, William Goddard, John Gorman, James Grindley, Albert Hewey, George Mason, Charles McAllister, Donald McHugh, Louis Pattipas, Merlin Smart, Geoffrey Speed, David Stefura and Lawrence Wall. OPP Liaison officers: Cpl. R. E. Gale and Const. W. Konkle.

Count calories

The first men's group of weight watchers has been started in Windsor, ladies learned at last week's board meeting of Canadian Coast to Coast Calorie Counters.

Twelve ladies attended the meeting in Hamilton, representing each district. They approved the 1969 convention site, Clearly auditorium in Windsor, April 11 and 12.

James Johnston is president of the new men's group, called Brave Bucks. From all reports, members are enthusiastic.

Men charged

Two Niagara Falls men were remanded for one week when they appeared in court at Cooksville yesterday, charged in connection with a series of house break-ins in the Cawthra rd. - Bloor st. area of Mississauga during the past month.

They were Ronald Brian Jenkins, 21 and William Olenik, both of Niagara Falls. They were remanded to appear next Tuesday. Bail for each man was set at $5,000 cash and $10,000 property. The charges arose out of investigations into the break-ins by Mississauga Det. Cst. James Weaver and Christopher O'Toole.

Jenkins is charged with seven counts of housebreaking, and Olenik with nine counts of housebreaking, one of breaking and entering with intent, and one count of attempted break and enter.

Almost all the property stolen, about $2,000 worth, has been recovered.
