

MAINTAIN FABRIC OF CONFEDERATION, URGES MR. MEIGHEN

Declares Sectional Difficulties No Reason for Abandoning Struggle Altogether

GEOGRAPHICAL PROBLEM

Plea for National Solidarity is Made by Ex-Premier at Canadian Club Luncheon

While, like Sir Henry Thornton last week, Rt. Hon. Arthur Meighen at the Canadian Club luncheon yesterday at the Windsor Hotel gave a speech the underlying motive of which was courage and optimism, he declared with that a strong plea for the defence of the geographical problem in the far east against Confederation in the far west. Meighen said, only occurred in times of depression, and vanished as strongly depressed as it had been. He said that the political fabric of the Dominion had been weakened by the political situation in the far east. He said that the political situation in the far east was a heavy burden upon the Dominion, and that the political situation in the far west was a heavy burden upon the Dominion. He said that the political situation in the far east was a heavy burden upon the Dominion, and that the political situation in the far west was a heavy burden upon the Dominion. He said that the political situation in the far east was a heavy burden upon the Dominion, and that the political situation in the far west was a heavy burden upon the Dominion.

GIFT OF AUTONOMY

After pointing out the struggles and even rebellion, that ultimately led to self-government in Canada, Mr. Meighen said that the Dominion had achieved so much at its own cost, but at the same time, it was still being paid for in the form of a heavy burden upon the Dominion. He said that the Dominion had achieved so much at its own cost, but at the same time, it was still being paid for in the form of a heavy burden upon the Dominion. He said that the Dominion had achieved so much at its own cost, but at the same time, it was still being paid for in the form of a heavy burden upon the Dominion.

geographical tendencies, so as to inform the Dominion of the changes that are taking place. It is worth while to reflect on what would have happened had Confederation not been achieved, said Mr. Meighen. He said that the Dominion had achieved so much at its own cost, but at the same time, it was still being paid for in the form of a heavy burden upon the Dominion. He said that the Dominion had achieved so much at its own cost, but at the same time, it was still being paid for in the form of a heavy burden upon the Dominion.

Some Readjustment. The only conclusion from these sections' appeals is that having made some readjustment, we must be fair to the whole Dominion. There is no question that this can be done. Unfairness may exist in some sections, but it is not because of geographical tendencies. It is because of the burden upon the Dominion. Mr. Meighen proceeded to show the increasing influence of Canada in the world, and increased its opportunities not only for itself, but for humanity, and for the whole Dominion. He said that the Dominion had achieved so much at its own cost, but at the same time, it was still being paid for in the form of a heavy burden upon the Dominion.
