

...gives most glory to God, and is at the same time most profitable to us; the reading of books of true Christian piety and sound morality is also earnestly to be recommended, as very conducive to spiritual improvement.

And in order to sanctify each day, and the good works of it, consider that all things, even your most secret thoughts and actions are naked and open to the eyes of God; and that every idle word, that Men shall speak, they shall render an account for it in the day of judgment. Heb. iv. 13, and Matt. xii. 36. Therefore walk with the greatest circumspection in the presence of God, frequently in the day thinking of him, raising your heart to him, and offering yourself and actions, to his honour and glory.

to which

When
stions of
plore for
and firm
him any
of sin.
him to o
good we
preserve
devoutly
the other
of pray